LANSING EXCURSIONISTS HOP TO IT IN THRONGS AND LAUGH AT THE EARLY MORNING RAIN

STEAMER J. S. OFF WITH BIG THRONG

MANY WOMEN JOIN THE PARTY

Lansing Turns out With Band and Oratory and Gives La Crosse Visitors Hearty Welcome

A refreshing rain fell gently upon an arid earth this morning, and with it there came down a gladsome throng to jam the gangplank and cover the decks of the great J. S. Rather than check the onrush to the big Lansing excursion, the precipitation seemed to lend vivacity and a freshening beauty to the excursionists. The boat was 20 minutes late, and as she cast off her hawsers at 8:20 she resembled a splendid painting in water colors in which a blend of gay colored feminine costumes, sobered in spots by the steady blue and gray of the men, made brilliant the expanse of white steamer sides and the frame of drab waters about it. There they were, crowded deck on deck, laughing and joking unconscious of the sprinkling—a splendid etching from real life the high light of which centered upon the tonic-proof bald head of Secretary Harry Taggart, whose Hibernian countenance was stabbed with a smile as broad as the map of Tipperary.

Big Attendance

Karl G. Kurtenacker—ever notice Karl's eyes—was wielding the auction hammer for tickets, and thty kept him so busy that frequently he could not take time to return customers their change. Still it rained, and still they came—100-200-500-800—and then Karl lost count, but it was far and away the biggest business men's excursion ever.

Look Who's Here

Castle Garden, reversed. They were getting aboard, not ashore, that's all. Standing on the hurricane deck and watching them "right forward, twos left" up the gangplank, one could feel the awakening of ragtime and a consciousness of "The animals went in two by two,

The elephant and the kangaroo," or words and music to that effect. There was Charley Gesell, back of whose mask of seriousness some drollery was plainly hatching, there was Martin Roth, who lasts well in his whole-souled with patent leather uppers way, Coffee Kelly, tickled to death to be there, Hi Goddard, sans diamond but flower decked and ready to deliver his celebrated ode to the peekaboo shirtwaist to any unarmed party with tin ears; George Rose, who prefers the "bug," but stands for the J. S. in a pinch, Casper Newburg wearing a smile that even Matt would have hard work to outstretch; Billy Burford, a live wire fed by a storage battery; Emile Ruppecht, who forgot something wetter than the rain; Burt Van Steenwyk rolling along with the nautical stride he affects on all these maritime occasions; Parker, with an alarm clock for the start and a stop watch for the finish; Paul Lutz, with an eye on a case of beer that came along from Harry Long; Will Wiggenhorn, some smoke and plenty of fire; Charley Servis, immaculate in a suit such as only his own tailor can build; Fred Schultz, ready to come to the rescue with a schooner in case of shipwreck; Supervisor Arthur Holbek, accompanied by ample reason for his happy smile, Otto Dumpke tailor-made from boots to complexion; Ed Dittman, ready for anything and pretty sure to get it; J. F. Schrank, over and well done, and

REDMEN MEET IN GALESVILLE

The annual state convention of the Independent Order of Redmen confabbed this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Galesville, Wis. This morning there was a conclave of the big chiefs. The regular sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow after the regular organization has been completed. The convention will last through Wednesday and Thursday.

WANT TAFT HERE ALLOTTED TIME

Board of Trade Does Not Take Kindly to Plan to Give Visit to Milwaukee

ASK ESCH'S INTERVENTION

Board of Directors Meet and Congressman is Expected Back Today

The La Crosse Board of Trade, which originated the plan to bring President Taft to La Crosse on his western trip does not take kindly to the plan of Milwaukee state fair authorities to have the president devote all the time he spends in Wisconsin as a "big show" at the state fair at the expense of his visit, or any portion thereof, to La Crosse.

At a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon, a committee consisting of Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, President John Dengler and George W. Burton was appointed to take care of the Taft matter, and this committee will confer with Congressman J. J. Esch who is expected back from Washington today in an effort to have the president spend as much time as possible in La Crosse. According to the plans as announced Taft would be in La Crosse for about an hour on the afternoon of Sept. 17, but if the plans of the Milwaukeeans are carried out he will spend about all of that day in Milwaukee at the state fair and will fly through La Crosse at night on his way to Winona where he feels it necessary to speak in behalf of Congressman Tawney to bolster up the decreasing constituency of that gentleman in the congressional district, as a result of his various unpopular positions in congress, including his vote in favor of the increased tariff.

A dispatch sent from Milwaukee says the Milwaukee people expect to get Esch to help persuade Taft to give up the whole of Sept. 17th to Milwaukee, but Secretary Utermoehl of the board of trade feels that Mr. Esch would use no such effort to deprive his own district of a visit from the chief executive.

The board of trade originated the plan to bring Taft here and the committee it appointed will act to take charge of the arrangements for his visit and entertainment while here.

SULLIVAN WENT AT A FAST CLIP

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 10.—John L. Sullivan, once champion pugilist of the world, is gaining new renown as a "joy rider."

John L., with a friend, Jacob Stone, will appear here in court on Friday, if summons can be served on them.

WINONA MAN FOR G. A. R. COMMANDER

MINNEAPOLIS GETS BOTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Tom Hughes and Otis Clymer have been released by Washington and will at once join the Minneapolis team.

They were given a choice of clubs with which they might play and both promptly expressed a desire to be with Jimmy Collins. Though Hughes hase shown an occasional flash of his old form he has had a poor season. Clymer has not fully recovered frfom an injury sustained last May.

SCENE DURING KENOSHA, WIS., TANNERY STRIKE RIOTS

Watchman Charley Wilson of the N. R. Allen's Sons' Tannery being Arrested.

NEW EVIDENCE THAT SUTTON WAS KILLED

Sergeant Todd Says He Saw the Shot Fired that Killed Sutton; Sensational Testimony

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 10.—Corroborating in almost every detail the contention of Lieut. Sutton's mother that he was shot at Annapolis by other officers and practically accusing them of a conspiracy to hide the murder, Sergt. Archie Todd, corporal of the guard on the night of the tragedy, is here today ready to remove the blot of suicide from Sutton's name. Todd declares he saw the shot fired that pierced Sutton's brain.

Following the receipt of a telegram at the Charlestown navy yard that Todd was wanted at the Annapolis inquiry the sergeant was located at the state rifle range and willingly told of the tragedy.

"I was corporal of the guard the night Lieut. Sutton was shot. I was on duty at midnight and from the place where I was standing I saw the figure of a man about 250 feet away. He was in his shirt sleeves. I did not know then who it was. I saw Lieutenants Adams andOsterman and recognized them. They were near me. The man in the shirtsleeves started to run and I heard a voice cry: 'Stop running, you are under arrest.' The man ran on and once more I heard the same voice cry out loudly: 'Stop running or I'll shoot.'

"The man paid no attention and ran on and then the next moment I saw a flash ad heard a revolver report. There were three other shots and the man who was running dropped.

"I ran over to him and bent over. It was Lieut. Sutton. I saw a hole in the man's forehead and another back of the left ear."

"Could you identify the voice that called out to Sutton to stop?" Todd was asked.

"I could not. It came from the direction where Lieutenants Adams Osterman were standing."

"Did the flash of the revolver come from the same spot?"

"That I will tell on the stand," was the reply.

Sergeant Todd is about 28 years of age. He has been in the service since about November 1903.

The general impression here today seems to be that the introduction of the Schwartz letters will not prove as helpful as has been expected, to the defense. They may enlist more sympathy in favor of the mother of the dead lieutenant, even though some of her charges in the letters were more sensational than she might have made in calmer moments.

A. V. INGHAM TO REMAIN PASTOR

At the quarterly conference, held at the Caledonia street Methodist church, Monday night, the affairs of the church were found to be in splendid condition.

Very complimentary resolutions were passed appreciative of the work and character of the district superintendent, Doctor Vance, and the pastor, the Rev. A. V. Ingham, and a unanimous invitation was extended to the latter to return as pastor for the ensuing conference year.

$2,000 AWAITS LITTLE WILLIAM

Letter Dated 1868 From Sister in Cardiff New Clew in the Thomas Estate

A letter written to him by his sister, Margaretha Jones, dated from Cardiff, Wales, in 1868 and received by him while he was a student at the college of New Jersey is the last known communication that the late Dr. W. D. Thomas had with any of his relatives.

In this letter which has just been discovered Mrs. Jones speaks of the health of "Charlotte, Jacob, Sarah and Mary and her husband and little William." The epistle was discovered by the administrators of the estate, tucked away in the bottom of a drawer in his desk.

It is now believed that the little William referred to is the only living relative to the late Dr. Thomas and efforts are being made to find him. He is believed to be a son of the woman who wrote the letter.

An insurance policy in the Bankers' Life Insurance company for $2,000 is made payable to Mr. Thomas's heirs and cannot be collected by the estate unless this boy, who is thought to be about forty years of age, can be found.

KENYON HAS NEW OFFER TO REMOVE

Unless negotiations on foot today miscarry, the R. L. Kenyon company of this city, manufactuers of power boat supplies, will remove from La Crosse to Waukesha, Wis., in the near future.

A committee of Waukesha business men composed of Messrs. Harry Dreyer, W. B. Hartshorn, M. S. Snyder and R. P. Breeze of that city arrived in La Crosse this morning and have been in conference with Mr. Kenyon and officers of the company the greater part of the day.

They offer the company a site and will erect a factory for the local concern at once.

FRANK G. ROTH TO OIL STREETS

Alderman from 7th Ward Says New System Will Save Money; Backs Up His Assertion

HE CITES KANSAS CITY

Two Applications of Oil a Year Will Do Away With Thousands of Dollars' Sprinkling Cost

To oil the streets of La Crosse, instead of sprinkling with water as has been done heretofore, is the proposition of Alderman Frank Roth.

Mr. Roth will bring in a resolution at the next meeting of the council, Friday evening, that the board of public works be instructed to try out the oiling system on some certain street in the city for the balance of the season. He has investigated the cost closely and will show that oil will save the city thousands of dollars annually in sprinkling expense and will be beneficial to the streets, eliminate all dust from the pavements, and save the city money in equipment, sprinkling carts, etc.'

Crude petroleum has been used exclusively for sprinkling the streets in Kansas City, Mo., for several years. It can be purchased at Kansas City for 87 cents per barrel, according to figures in Mr. Roth's hands.

It is necessary to sprinkle with oil only twice each year—spring and fall. Two applications are usually made to begin with, after which the oil goes down into the pavement and the two applications a year will keep down all dust.

In Kansas City the city officials and citizens are well pleased with oil. The old system of water sprinkling every hour cost three times as much there as the oil system. The ordinary sprinkling wagons can be used for oil.

TORIES ARE OUT TO CONTROL STATE

MONROE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Chellis Wayland, Appleton, representing Chairman Edmonds of the Republican state central committee, is making a tour of the counties of the state to organize Wisconsin for the new campaign. The fight for control of the state is to be made all along the line, according to the statements credited to Wayland, and is to be centered upon Senator La Follette and insurgent congressmen who are declared to be outside of the Republican fold.

Mr. Wayland said the Wisconsin Progressives would be stripped of their patronage, as the national administration does not consider them either Republican or Democratic, and will leave them out in the cold. He said the "regulars" had things well salted in Washington and that when congressmen did not behave the powers-that-be will get even with them by taking it out of their districts.

He said that Assemblyman Ingalls of Racine would be a candidate against Henry Allen Cooper for Congress in this district and it is evident that the support of the state machine will be for Ingalls.

Mr. Wayland, it is understood, is quietly urging State Senator Hudnall for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and State Chairman Edmonds, with whom he is connected in business, for the United States senatorial nomination against La Follette.

THROW SEARCH LIGHT ON CITY OF PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—"The way things went on here was something terrible. Why directors of the old school board came here under the influence of liquor and wanted to dance with the teachers and the children.'

This statement, credited to Mrs. W. D. McAuliffe, janitress of the old Second ward school, promises to stir up things in the ranks of the directors today.

The alleged "joy parties" of the school board were brought to light through the auditing of the books of the Second ward school. It is alleged that "Eddie Edwards," who was secretary of the board last year, had padded his expense accounts."

Mrs. McAuliffe volunteered to throw more light on the investigation and told of various expenses of the board which were never received. She said a crate of tomatoes was delivered at the school building at one time but she would not receive them as "the school was not a boarding house.'

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The first official act looking toward a crusade against vice was taken today by the American federation of Catholic societies, now in session, by the adoption of the report of the resolutions committee.

COMMITTEE TO BE UNION MEN WAGE MATTER STILL BEING THRASHED BY ST. CAR BOARD

The decision of the board of arbitration now attempting to settle the differences between the street car company and its employes had not been given out at 3:30 this afternoon, and the board members seem to make little progress in their endeavor to reach a satisfactory conclusion. It was presumed that the decision would be announced this afternoon, but a determination as to the wage scale may not be reached today.

It is believed that Commissioner Humphrey desires to give the men a substantial advance, and that Mr. Hartwell will concur in this. Mr. Ferris, of the board, is said on the other hand to believe that the pay now received is not unfair to the men, although he would consent to a modest increase. It is upon this point that the commissioners are said to be most divided.

It is believed that a decision has been reached, and may be concurred in unanimously, to the effect that the grievance committee shall consist exclusively of union men.

ACCUSED OF GRAB LIVELY FIGHT ON

STIRS IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Vast Water Power Said to Have Been Handed Over; Roosevelt's Policy Set Aside

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug 10.—There is much stir among the delegates and visitors to the Irrigation Congress now assembled here over the charge made against one of its highest and most influential members. It is stated positively that "there is proof at hand that one of the first official acts of President Taft's secretary of the interior, Richard Achilles Ballinger, was to knowingly turn over to the waterpower monopoly millions of dollars worth of powersites along Montana rivers.

"Water power will run the railroads of the future. Not only that the electric power created by the mountain torrents will be sent across the plains to operate the mills and factories of many states of the nation and most important of all this wonderful new power will pump endless floods of water upon millions of acres of arid lands and so make new homes for millions of Americans.

"But the water power trust will be in a position to exact tribute from every settler and from his children forever.

Roosevelt Suppressed Graft

"It was in the closing days of his administration that President Roosevelt learned of the wholesale seizing of waterpowers by the then forming trust. The grab was at its height Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield ended it by resuming government control of public lands containing power sites.

"It was generally supposed that Garfield was to remain in Taft's cabinet but on Feb. 15 he was asked by Taft to resign on March 4. Not knowing who the new secretary would be President Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield decided to lock all doors so that the new administration would find everything snug and the last thing President Roosevelt did at midnight on March 4 was to withdraw more land to the extent of 186,000,000 acres from the reach of land grabbers.

Ballinger Gives to the Trust

"The first thing Ballinger did after he was sworn into Taft's cbinet on March 5 was to begin to turn that land over to the half entrenched trust. The throwing open of these lands had progressed for a month when a rising tide of popular protest was heard at the White House and the clamor increasing Taft called Ballinger in to explain. Ballinger secured delay and meantime kept throwing land open to entry and was again called to the White House. This time the public was given to un-

MEAD STONE CO. GETS COUNTY JOB

The contract for furnishing material and doing the work of resurfacing the Holmen road from Onalaska to Holmen was let today by the committee on roads and bridges of the county board to the E. S. Mead Stone company. Their bid was $2.04 per cubic yard of 2,500 lbs. The La Crosse Stone company, the only other bidder, offered to furnish the rock and do the work, including rolling it with a horse roller for $2.36 per cubic yard, or to furnish and spread material at $2.16 per yard.

CHILD IS BITTEN IN FACE BY DOG

John Swords, the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. harles Swords, 1325 Farewell street, was bitten in the face by a dog with which he was playing this afternoon. The child was taken to the La Crosse hospital where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Callahan. He is not seriously injured.

GREGGORY IN THE GAME YESTERDAY

Ollie Greggory played his first game with the Outcasts at Superior yesterday, playing second and third base. Doll was put out of the game for disputing the umpire's decisions and Greggory went to third and Kraher played at second. Bancroft received the hitting honors yesterday getting three hits. SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug 10.—The third game of the series proved an easy victory for the Drillers yesterday, the Outcasts losing by the one sided score of 9 to 1. Paul Grimes, the old W.-I. league star, was batted from the box and "Uncle Tom" trotted in from first base to lobe the pill over but he fared badly and when the nine innings were over Superior had made a total of 19 hits, which was enough to win about three games.

This equals the record for hits in the Minny league the same number being made off Murray and Dauss by the Outcasts in the game here with Duluth July 1.

The way the Drillers fell on Paul Grimes' slants was just like taking candy from a baby. They batted him all over the lot, and Paul was forced to give up the ghost and Letcher was given a chance faring the same way. In addition to the heavy hitting of the Drillers, La Crosse made several costly errors which helped in the scoring.

Stremmel worked for the Superior team and hurled good ball, allowing but five scattered hits, which netted the Outcasts one lonely run. The Drillers gave him good support at all times but one error being registered on their side of the column.

A double header is being played this afternoon, to work off the tie game which the two teams played June 6. This will close the Driller's season with the La Crosse club. The score:

WAUSAU, Wis., Aug. 10.—Wausau took the fourth game of the series from Winona in one of the slowest games of the season, requiring two and a half hours to play. A three bagger by Burgoise, the fourteenth on the home grounds, brought in two runs in the fifth, giving Wausau the lead. With the bases full in the fourth Love made a three bagger scoring Winona's three runs.

The Philadelphia Americans easily defeated Detroit yesterday afternoon by 7 to 1, the victory giving the home team two victories in the series to Detroit's one and making the battle for first place more exciting than ever. A crowd of 16,746 persons, the largest on record for a Monday game, excepting opening day, turning out.

Detroit played very bad ball in the field, being charged with eight errors of commission and offending on numerous occasions when they appeared to be badly rattled and failed to take advantage of opportunities offered them. In the third inning the home team scored two runs on four errors without making a hit.

Philadelphia put up a sensational game in the field, giving Krause such grand support that the visitors were able to score only one run, although they hit the ball much harder than the hit column indicates. Barry robbed the visitors of several hits while Hartzel and Oldring pulled down drives which looked good for extra bases. Baker was the batting star with two long drives, one of which cleared the right field fence for a home run.

Pitcher Donovan of Detroit was to have pitched yesterday, but he was served with a notice of suspension by President Johnson for disputing a decision in last Saturday's game while Manager Jennings was sent off the coaching lines for arguing with Umpire Evans.

Botson made it three straight from Chicago by winning, 2 to 1. A base on balls to Gessler in the ninth and Wagner's long hit, which would have been good for three bases, sent in the winning run. Hall was given his first tryout by Boston and did well.

Warhop pitched great ball for New York today, and Cleveland was beaten, 3 to 0. The Cleveland team made only three hits, each safety coming with two out, and did not get a man beyond second. Falkenberg also twirled cleverly, but hits were bunched on him in the first and eighth innings. Ball's' error helped New York to two runs.

St. Louis had on its batting clothes today, driving Witherup and Johnson from the rubber and defeated Washington, 8 to 7. Graham and Dineen were also chased from the rubber, but Bailey was invincible in the last five innings. The fielding of McBride and the batting of Ferris was the feature.

The Pittsburg Nationals recovered from its bating slump with a vengeance today, getting seventeen hits off Boston's pitchers and winning by a score of 10 to 1. Ferguson was relieved in the third inning by Tuckey, after the locals had secured four runs in that period. Tuckey was also hit hard and Boston never had a chance to win. Maddox was strong at all times and secured three hits.

Chicago was outplayed in all departments of the game yesterday. Bell's great pitching and perfect support prevented Chicago from scoring at all. A pass, a sacrifice and McMillan's single scored for Brooklyn in the second. A wild pitch and two errors scored the other run.

McQuillan had Cincinnati completely at his mercy yesterday afternoon, only one man reaching third base. After two men were out in the eight inning. Ewing weakened temporarily, allowing two hits and giving three bases on balls, netting Philadelphia two runs.

New York won yesterday's game after a great struggle lasting ten innings, from St. Louis, 4 to 3. Raymond started on the mound for the Giants, but lost control in the eighth. Crandall finished up the game, and had little trouble disposing of Bresnahan's crew.

JOHNSON WIRES BERGER ON SCRAP

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Jack Johnson, who is sojourning here for a few days, has announced that he wired Sam Berger, manager for Jeffries at New York, to come on at once so that they can get together and discuss plans for a match.

Johnson requested Berger to be here not later than tomorrow afternoon as Johnson plans to leave for San Francisco tomorrow night. He goes to prepare for a bout with Jack O'Brien on Labor Day, Sept. 6. The bout is for twenty rounds.

Johnson says he will require about three weeks' training for the O'Brien match.

57 LOCOMOTIVES FOR JIM HILL LINES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 9.—James J. Hill's faith in the prosperity which is everywhere confidently expected to follow the revision of the tariff has been revealed in a contract for fifty-seven locomotives, which he has awarded to the Baldwin Locomotive works.

The cost of these engines is estimated at $1,000,000.

The contract which Baldwins have just obtained from the Hill lines is the second large one captured since May, in which month the Harriman lines gave an order for 118 locomotives, costing approximately $2,100,000. These orders leave no doubt in the minds of students of the business situation that the west and northwest are preparing for a great revival of trade.

The locomotives are for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads.

WEATHER CAUSE OF MANY FIRES

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 9.—"The present hot, dry weather has easily been either the direct or indirect cause of more than one-half the fires which have occurred in the state during the past thirty days," said State Fire Marshal T. M. Purtell today.

"This statement should perhaps be qualified by adding what has been the principal factor in the above result, namely the almost criminal carelessness or ignorance on the part of the public.

"One of the results of the hot weather is the more general use of gasoline or oil either for stoves or in pleasure crafts and during the past month more than one-half the reports of fires have given as the cause either the use of gasoline in some manner or carelessness with matches.

"Few people realize the extreme hazard there is in the use of gasoline at any time but more particularly during the hot weather as the higher temperature produces an increased vapor and a consequent increased danger.

CHINA WITHDRAWS; JAPAN REJOICES

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Japan is rejoicing today over China's withdrawal of objections to the plan of reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden railway in Southern Manchuria, interpreting China's action as a tacit admission of Japan's present mastery of the situation.

Only the unofficial notification of China's acceptance of Japan's position has been yet received.

It is considered impossible here that China will agree to Japan having an absolutely free hand in her Manchurian railway scheme but her present backdown will result in scant courtesy being shown her complaints in the future.

Let Me Tell You Something

In two months from now you'll all be thinking overcoats. You'll also be doing some other kind of thinking—if you don't get in on our Big Removal Sale.

You'll wish you'd saved from $10 to $20 when you had the chance.

The same argument applies to suits.

Do you really realize what it means to you when we say "every yard must go regardless of everything."

It means that for $12.50 you can pick out any fabric in the store—suiting or overcoating, light, medium or heavy weight—and have it made to your order, any style you fancy.

It means that you will get a thoroughly well made, perfect fitting garment, for $10 to $20 less than any other tailor would make you the identical same thing.

And we back up our statement with our iron-clad guarantee of "Satisfaction or no Pay."

If the words "thrift" or "saving" have any meaning to you, you must come here right away and fix yourself out. In a very short while it'll be too late.

Nearly every man in La Crosse knows me, and I tell you right now it's a shame to make up such fabrics for that price.

Yours truly,

MURDERER KILLS SELF IN CELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—With an iron chain wrenched from a cot in his cell, James A. Hearn, charged with hacking his wife to death with a meat cleaver, hanged himself in the Queens County jail yesterday. Hearn fastened the chain to the bars of his cell, attached it around his neck and jumped from the cot. Only the man's great strength made it possible to kill himself. Hearn was found last Friday night with his wife's mutilated body lying on a bed. His 14 year old daughter discovered the body and notified the police.

"Girls should remember," says Mrs. estus, "that when they pencil their eyebrows they're writing about their character."

FRENZIED BOVINE HOOKS BOY'S EYES

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Joseph Scholtie of West Dulhth, aged six years, was accidentally hooked in the left eye by a cow tolay, and the eyeball yas gouged out by the tip of her horns. The boy was hurried to a hospital for treatment. The sight of the damaged eye is lost and physicians say the child had a close call from being killed. The cow was fighting flies with her head when she happened to strike the boy with one of her horns.

BURGLAR'S SHOT FATAL AT LAST

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 9.—John T. Carmody, mayor of Cedar Rapids, died at St. Luke's hospital at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was shot in his home by a burglar May 23, and typhoid fever developed before his wound had healed.

GUND'S GIRLS PICNIC

Girls employed in the Gund Bottling Works, to the number of 24 were treated to a launch ride and picnic at Dresden park Sunday by the brewing company and the affair was one which will be long remembered by the participants.

The new Bell-Singer launch carried the party to the park and a merry time was spent there. Despite the fact it was a strictly feminine affair the managers of the department and Adolph Schroeder and family managed to get in with the crowd and assist in the merry making.

Throwing horseshoes, baseball gafes, races, wading and many other forms of amusement were indulged in. A big picnic dinner was not the least of the attractions.

Try It on The Hills

Test this car at half speed on a hill or sand road where power and every ounce of it is needed. Notice how steadily and powerfully it pulls when running slowly under load.

The capacity of the Rambler engine for doing this extra work is most noticeable at low engine speeds. This is because of the offset crank shaft.

Rambler
The Car with the Offset Crank Shaft

All that power which in other engines is lost through friction on the bearings and cylinder walls, is added to the driving force by the Rambler offset crank shaft. It reduces friction, eliminates hammer on bearings, gives more power. The straight-line-drive delivers the power direct and with least frictional loss to the rear axle.

Let us demonstrate these features and the silence and comfort of this car.

Let us call at your home, and take you to your place of business some morning in a Rambler.

LOOKING AHEAD

At Spokane, Washington, there is now assembled one of the most far reaching conventions that has ever been gathered together in the west.

The National Irrigation congress has in hand many projects looking toward the development of our natural resources and we may expect to hear great things from them. Already they have outlined a broad scheme of reclamation of what are now unusable materials for wealth and progress.

That scheme may fail for lack of needed support. It is so comprehensive that nothing short of a tremendous fund could cope with it.

The proposal is to issue bonds at 2 or 3 per cent running 100 years, to the amount of five billion dollars and apply the money so raised in five equal parts for draining overflowed and swamp land for irrigation of arid lands, improvement of deep waterways, for good roads, and for forest conservation.

Such a vast scheme almost takes away our breath and yet with what America has done during the past century what may she not do before this century ends?

It is certainly the business and duty of the citizens of this country to make provision for the growing needs of millions yet to come.

Within the limits of the plan here outlined one of the questions of interest in the congress today will be that of home building. As one of the prominent speaker says "The nation that will lead the world will be a nation of homes."

No prophecy can be too hopeful and no enterprise too vigorous to anticipate the marvellous growth of this wonderful country. The great west is still the new world that lies open for unlimited development and for millions of homes where peace may reign and plenty abound.

BING!

For days and days black clouds of smoke rolled up from the Isle La Plume, sifting into people's homes, soiling the linen, besmearing everything with which it came into contact, including lingerie and lungs. People complained, they appealed for aid, they supplicated action by the city. Nothing availed until one day, and the fire went out.

What do you know about that Walter Rose? The chief of the fire department said it could not be done. He said, also, that it would keep his men away from their meals. He said this and that and all sorts of things the aim of which seemed to be to avoid anything so distasteful as fire-fighting. He was too busy even to go down, at first, and he raised objections by the regiment.

But it was no use. As acting mayor, Walter Rose proposed to put out that fire, if possible. At any rate, he was determined to try. Bing! Down went a big barge and a fire engine, and a fire captain by the name of Hanson who didn't poo-hoo the thing, but got out in the ashes up to his knees and fought with the courage and intelligence of a sure-enough fire chief to stop the nuisance. People will like what Hanson DID better than what the chief SAID. They will like what Walter Rose DID. They like men who take chances and do things; men who are not afraid to try, who accomplish by challenging defeat.

Bing! The fire is out. Even the fire chief admits that, with more or less reluctance. And, not exactly incidentally, one's ear cocked in the direction of the fire station may, one day, sooner or later, hear something go

"Bing!"

At last the cigarette law in Minnesota is about to become the real thing. It will be enforced to the letter and there is now a big reduction in the consumption of "coffin nails." Wisconsin also has a cigarette law, at least there is one on the statutes, even though the sight of the small boy "hitting" the deadly "pill" is an every day occurrence. It is something on the "why is a hen" order.

A Chicago clergman visiting in New York had a woman of that city arrested for winking at him. The young lady probably thought that he was a professor from the university of Chicago.

---

It is safe to say that Miss Sutton, after breaking her engagement with Mr. Ham, will raise no matrimonial racket. May says that she will continue to raise a tennis racquet, however.

---

The senators are now beginning to explain why they voted as they did on the tariff bill, which shows that they think an explanation is necessary.

---

ADDRESSES AT PICNIC

A large crowd attended the picnic of the La Crosse Lutheran Aid society at the grounds of the new agricultural school grounds at Onalaska Sunday, and many took advantage of the occasion to take in the new school

Principal M. Johnson of the school gave an address and other speeches were made by O. R. Skaar and James Thompson. The street car company made a fare of five cents over the Onalaska line for the occasion.

STREET CAR COLLISION

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Albert Westlund, motorman, and John T. Buckley, a passenger, were probably fatally injured in a collision between two street cars here today. Both of Westlund's legs were cut off and both of Buckley's legs were broken. Three other passengers were slightly injured.

Apodictic

"I am determined to go on a vacation!"

Whittler looked almost fierce as he spoke. Cleverton regarded him with a quizzical look.

"You have a comfortable home" he asked.

"Splended. Nothing could be better."

"And a lovin wife?"

"None more so. Studies to please all the time. Never obtrudes herself, and is silent when desirable."

"You are in good physical condition?"

"Very. Never felt better."

"No trouble of any sort, no hidden worry that you want to get away from?"

"None whatever. Everything is serene."

"What, then, is the reason for your going?"

"My dear moy," he replied, "don't you know that when everything is running smoothly, when there is absolutely no cause for complaint, when you simply couldn't improve on the present conditions if you tried—don't you understand that then the pure and unadulterated cussedness of human nature absolutely demands that something be done to upset the harmony of things? That's why I am going on a vacation. I'm looking for trouble!"—Thomas L. Mason in Lippincott's.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

(Copyright.)

"Exactly," I said despairingly, "and, of course, you are taken at your own valuation. The Innes are not always so self-depreciatory."

"Not always, no," he said, looking at mee with his boyish smile. "Fortunately, Louise doesn't agree with her family. She's willing to take me, war governor or no, provided her mother consents. She isn't overly-fond of her stepfather, but she adores her mother. And now, can't you see where this thing puts me? Down and out, with all of them."

"But the whole thing is absurd," I argued. "And besides, Gertrude's sworn statement that you left before Arnold Armstrong came would clear you at once."

Halsey got up and began to pace the room, and the air of cheerfulness dropped like a mask.

"She can't swear it," he said finally. "Gertrude's story was true as far as it went, but she didn't tell everything. Arnold Armstrong came here at two-thirty—came into the billiard-room and left in five minutes. He came to bring—something."

"Halsey," I cried, "you must tell me the whole truth. Every time I see a way for you to escape you block it yourself with this wall of mystery. What did he bring?"

"A telegram—for Bailey," he said. "It came by special messenger from town, and was—most important. Bailey had started for here, and the messenger had gone back to the city. The steward gave it to Arnold, who had been drinking all day and couldn't sleep, and was going for a stroll in the direction of Sunnyside."

"And he brought it?"

"Yes."

"What was in the telegram?"

"I can tell you—as soon as certain things are made public. It is only a matter of days now," gloomily.

"And Gertrude's story of a telephone message?"

"Poor Trude!" he half whispered. "Poor loyal little girl! Aunt Ray, there was no such message. No doubt your detective already knows that and discredits all Gertrude told him."

"And when she went back, it was to get—the telegram?"

"Probably," Halsey said slowly. "When you get to thinking about it, Aunt Ray, it looks bad for all three of us, doesn't it. And yet—I will take my oath none of us even inadvertently killed that poor devil."

I looked at the closed door into Gertrude's dressing-room, and lowered my voice.

"The same horrible thought keeps recurring to me," I whispered. "Halsey, Gertrude probably had your revolver: she must have examined it, anyhow, that night. After you—and Jack had gone, what if—that ruffian came back, and she—and she—"

I couldn't finish. Halsey stood looking at me with shut lips.

"She might have heard him fumbling at the door—he had no key, the police say—and thinking it was you, or Jack, she admitted him. When she saw her mistake she ran up the stairs, a step or two, and turning, like an animal at bay, she fired."

Halsey had his hand over my lips before I finished, and in that position we stared each at the other, our stricken glances crossing.

"The revolver — my revolver — thrown into the tulip bed!" he muttered to himself. "Thrown perhaps from an upper window: you say it was buried deep. Her protration ever since, her—Aunt Ray, you don't think it was Gertrude who fell down the clothes chute?"

I could only nod my head in a hopeless affirmative.

CHAPTER X.
The Trader's Bank.

The morning after Halsey's return was Tuesday. Arnold Armstrong had been found dead at the foot of the circular staircase at three o'clock on Sunday morning. The funeral services were to be held on Tuesday, and the interment of the body was to be deferred until the Armstrongs arrived from California. No one, I think, was very sorry that Arnold Armstrong was dead, but the manner of his death aroused some sympathy and an enormous amount of curiosity. Mrs. Ogden Fitzhugh, a cousin, took charge of the arrangements, and everything, I believe, was as quiet as possible. I gave Thomas Johnson and Mrs. Watson permission to go into town to pay their last respects to the dead man, but for some reason they did not care to go.

Halsey spent part of the day with Mr. Jameison, but he said nothing of what happened. He looked grave and anxious, and he had a long conversation with Gertrude late in the afternoon.

Tuesday evening found us quiet, with the quiet that precedes an explosion. Gertrude and Halsey were both gloomy and distraught, and as Liddy had already discovered that some of the china was broken—it is impossible to have any secrets from an old servant—I was not in a pleasant humor myself. Warner brought up the afternoon mail and the evening papers at seven—I was curious to know what the papers said of the murder. We had turned away at least a dozen reporters. But I read over the head-line that ran half-way across the top of the Gazette twice before I comprehended it. Halsey had opened the Chronicle and was staring at it fixedly.

"The Traders Bank closes its doors!" was what I read, and then I put down the paper and looked across the table.

"Did you know of this?" I asked Halsey.

"I—expected it. But not so soon," he replied.

"And you?" to Gertrude.

"Jack — told us — something," Gertrude said faintly. "Oh, Halsey, what can he do now?"

"Jack!" I said scornfully. "Your Jack's flight is easy enough to explain now. And you helped him, both of you, to get away! You get that from your mother; it isn't an Innes trait. Do you know that every dollar you have, both of you, is in that bank?"

Gertrude tried to speak, but Halsey stopped her.

"That isn't all, Gertrude," he said quietly; "Jack is—under arrest."

"Under arrest!" Gertrude screamed, and tore the paper out of his hands. She glanced at the heading, then she crumpled the newspaper into a ball and flung it to the floor. While Halsey, looking stricken and white, was trying to smooth it out and read it, Gertrude had dropped her head on the table and was sobbing stormily.

I have the clipping somewhere, but just now I can remember only the essentials.

On the afternoon before, Monday, while the Traders' Bank was in the rush of closing hour, between two and three, Mr. Jacob Trautman, President of the Pearl Brewing Company, came into the bank to lift a loan. As security for the loan he had deposited some three hundred International Steamship Company 5's, in total value three hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Trautman man went to the loan clerk and, after certain formalities had been gone through, the loan clerk went to the vault. Mr. Trautman, who was a large and genial German, waited for a time, whistling under his breath. The loan clerk did not come back. After an interval, Mr. Trautman saw the loan clerk emerge from the vault and go to the assistant cashier: the two went hurriedly to the vault. A lapse of another ten minutes, and the assistant cashier came out and approached Mr. Trautman. He was noticeably white and trembling. Mr. Trautman was told that through an oversight the bonds had been misplaced, and was asked to return the following morning, when everything would be all right.

Mr. Trautman, however, was a shrewd business man, and he did not like the appearance of things. He left the bank apparently satisfied, and within thirty minutes he had called up three different members of the Traders' Board of Directors. At three-thirty there was a hastily convened board meeting, with some stormy scenes, and late in the afternoon a national bank examiner was in possession of the books. The bank had not opened for business on Tuesday.

A famous baseball player has a younger sister who is intensely proud of him, although not very familiar with the national game. Mentioning his name one day to a visitor, the latter asked her what position her brother played.

"Why," she stammered, "I—I'm not sure, but think he's a batter!"—Lippincott's.

CUMMINS BACKED IN TARIFF FIGHT

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 10.—Neighbors of Senator Albert B. Cummins are not backward in assuring him of their support and giving him hearty commendation for his fight on the Aldrich forces in the tariff contest.

Last night he addressed five thousand people on the Lincoln school grounds. Every mention of his fight against the machine was the signal for cheers.

The senator declared he had no apologies to make for his votes during the tariff debate. He said: "I have not and never will vote for what I believe to be wrong in order to secure a vote for what I believe to be right. The republican party believes in certain fundamental principles and in the action at Washington I do not believe that these principles were rightly applied. But the time will come when the people will give more intelligent and scientific study to the principles of protection in order to apply it to congress."

LUCKY WRECK ON PACIFIC RAILROAD

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 10.—What will go down in the history of railroading as one of the "luckiest" wrecks occurred today at South Leavenworth when a fast train on the Missouri Pacific going 40 miles an hour was ditched and the engine and several cars demolished.

Not a trainman nor a passenger sustained a scratch. The engine was torn to pieces and all of the coaches including two sleepers, left the track. The cars jammed, smashing in the end of the baggage car and the ends of the two coaches. Even more remarkable was the escape of the entire train from going over the bluff and into the Missouri river. The baggage car left the track and took a course opposite from the embankment leading to the water. Every coach followed. Had the baggage car turned in the opposite direction the entire train would have been plunged into the deep water where a strong current was running.

THE IMPROVEMENTS PROGRESSING FAST

Another Shack Is Added to Pages of Ill-looking History of Mill Street Today

The razing of the dilapidated dwelling at 713 Mill street today marks another step in the improvement of the principal thoroughfare of the north side. This building is in the heart of the Syrian colony and it is expected that the neighboring shacks will soon be demolished to make room for larger and more respectable appearing residences.

The little, dilapidated store building in the block below, which is owned by Otto Granke, has been razed, the work being finished yesterday. The store building at 700 Mill street has been provided with a new coat of paint and various interior repairs. Several residences in the 500 block have been painted and repaired throughout, and the Manke blacksmith shop, after the repairing process to which it was subjected, now presents a more business-like and respectable appearance. The street as a whole is beginning to assume a better aspect and the work of the improvement committee appointed by the Progressive league is already in evidence.

It is expected that an extensive report of the work of the committee will be heard at the regular monthly meeting of the league tomorrow evening.

The work of removing the Kingsley residence on Rose street was started this morning, one section of the house being already removed. This residence is being taken away to make way for a section of the J. Ole Storey memorial fountain which will be erected on this hill.

STOP OF REGULARS CAUSES A STIR

An occurrence that created more than unusual interest on the north side happened this morning when the special train carrying the regular soldiers of Uncle Sam's artillery, who have been at Camp Robinson near Sparta for some time, stopped at the Milwaukee station to change engines and crews.

The regulars left the train like ducks going for a pond, some of them going to the lunch rooms near the railroad crossing and many of them taking to the various thirst emporiums to replenish their canteens.

A crowd soon collected to see the soldiers and when the train disappeared from view there was a large gathering at the station. The entire paraphernalia of the soldiers, consisting of the horses, guns, gun carriages, tents and many other things are carried on the train.

GIVES SELF UP ON CHARGE OF MURDER

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—After the police had searched for him all day in connection with the murder of Mrs. Martha Calahan, Gus Oblaser, early today walked up to the county jail and surrendered.

He was locked up, denied to all newspaper men or other callers and the jailers would only say that he is being held as a suspect. It is said that Oblaser came to the jail to state that he knows of the murder of the woman, whose dead body was found in Robber's Hole in the Hamtrack woods.

NORTHWEST INFESTED WITH GREY WOLVES

Settlers' Shack Near Spokane, in the Heart of the Infested District.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Stockmen and settlers living on lands adjacent to the forest reserves in southeastern Washington,. northeastern Oregon and the Idaho-Washington border are organizing to hunt gray wolves, bears, cougars and other predatory animals, which annually cause losses to owners of sheep, cattle, colts and poultry in the districts south of Spokane. The federal government has set aside $2,000 to employ experienced hunters in the Coeur d'Alene forest, where a systematic hunt will begin early in August. In the meantime the settlers are making preparations to use trained dogs, powder and ball, traps and poison in an attempt to exterminate the pests. They have invited members of the Spokane Rod and Gun club, headed by E. J. Chingren, to join them on a hunt the early part of August, promising a week of lively sport. The several states pay bounties on wolves, cougars and other predatory animals.

TWO DIE IN FIRE IN MERRIAM PARK

Live Wire Charges Fence and Spectators Instantly Electrocuted; Property Loss $75,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10.—Two men were killed by a live wire, one injured and fifty or more in danger, in a fire which late last night and this morning completely destroyed the warehouse of the Transfer Lumber and United Lumber and Shingle company, owned by C. W. Dewey of Minneapolis, at Merriam Park, destroyed one warehouse of the Minnesota Transfer Warehouse company, also of Minneapolis, and damaged another of the Waite warehouses, as well as the warehouse of the St. Croix River Lumber company. The entire contents of the burned buildings were lost, with trifling salvage.

The main losses are roughly estimated at $75,000, about equally divided betyeen the Waite and Dewey concerns. Other damage yas slight. The loss is practically covered yith insurance.

The men killed were Gust Walstrom, aged 21 and Charles Baker, aged 45.

POSTS FORFEIT IN ANSWER TO CRITICS

FLANDREAU, S. D., Aug. 10.—Ira F. Blewett, state's attorney of Moody county, who assisted the prosecution of Mrs. Moses Kaufman in June, has been subjected to so much criticism because of the virtual acquittal of the woman on the charge of killing her servant, Agnes Polreis, that he has made public a long letter defending himself. He states that he has been accused of selling out in the case and of apologizing to the defendant for his part in the first prosecution. Mr. Blewett says:

"I have placed in the Moody county bank the sum of $500 to be paid by the officers of said bank to any person who will expose any unlawful act I committed in this case and procure my arrest and conviction therefor. I will do more. Much has been said about money alleged to have been offered to certain men in this county for the purpose of bribing the jury and to have certain men summoned for the panel, some of which offers it is said were refused. If my first offer is not taken, and there may be any man or woman in this county or state who actually knows of any person who, directly or indirectly, offered or gave any bribe to any person, officer of the court, juror or witness connected with said case, and he will make complaint to this office, I have directed said bank to hold said sum of $500 as a guaranty to him that I will prosecute to the limit any person offering such bribe, be he judge, juror, doctor, lawyer, sheriff, bailiff or any other man. I never spoke to Mrs. Kaufmann in my life save as I addressed her in my argument to the jury in the first trial of the case. Just what I would have to apologize to her for I am unable to conceive. I have never changed my mind for a single instant as to the conclusion then reached and stated to the pury."

GIRL CHOKED AND BEATEN BY FARMER

EDINBURG, N. D., Aug. 10.—After being in progress all day Saturday, the preliminary examination of Martin Lundell, charged with assault with intent to kill, was adjourned till Wednesday, when it will be completed. Lundell is a former Thief River Falls (Minn.) resident and is charged with brutally beating Miss Gina Lee in Edinburgh on July 24.

The only motive that has been brought forward is that Lundell might have made the assault as a means of venting vengeance upon the girl's father, with whom he had a misunderstanding regarding wages.

The attack upon Miss Lee was particularly brutal. She was knocked to the ground, beat about the head and choked. The girl suffered a terrible nervous shock. A hemorrhage resulted in flow of mlood from the nose and ears.

MUSCATINE JEWS FIGHT IN SYNAGOGUE

MUSCATINE, Ia., Aug. 10—Twelve people were injured in a free-for-all fight which took place in the Jewish synagogue here.

About sixty members of the Jewish colony participated in the fray, and the police had great difficulty in quelling the disturbance. Knives and clubs were used effectively and severe cuts and bruises were inflicted.

The utmost secrecy is being maintained relative to the identity of the injured and the origin of the trouble

Arrests are expected today.

JUMP FROM AUTO TO ESCAPE FLAMES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—The spectacle of a large touring car climbing the hills east of Elm Grove bursting into a mass of flames, and the occupants of the automobile jumping over the fire to save themselves, attracted a large number of persons.

The automobile, a five-passenger car owned by George Allison, was occupied by himself, his wife and two children and another woman.

He was climbing the hill when one of the cylinders refused to work. He brought the machine to a stop, and the minute the car was brought to a halt, the flames shot out, enveloping the whole machine.

Mr. Allison jumped out with his daughter, Alice, in his arms, who was sitting beside him. He immediately opened the door of the rear seat, and assisted his wife, the other woman occupant and his daughter Georgette, aged 7, out of the machine.

ITCH STOPPED-- SKIN COOLED.

Itching skin diseases afflict some people as soon as the hot weather comes. There seems to be no preventive; but when the eruption does break out, it is a very simple matter to stop that itch, and to stop it instantly.

Just a few drops of Oil of Wintergreen, properly compounded, washed over the eruption will soothe and smooth the skin instantly, giving that cooling and refreshing sensation.

Try a few drops of this D. D. D. Compound and your itch will be relieved at once, not in half an hour, or ten minutes, but in five seconds. Call at our store and we will tell you more about this D. D. D. Compound.

STATE SALOONISTS PLAN FOR FUTURE

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 10.—John F. Langan of this city, president of the Wisconsin State Retail Liquor Dealers' association, has sent out a call for a meeting of the executive committee of the association to be held at Merrill the latter part of this month at which time plans for the work of the association during the coming year will be made.

There are to be radical changes made in the methods of work of the association and it is thought that these changes will make the association more helpful to the liquor men.

It is planned to put a regular man at work among the saloon men to properly explain the methods and work of the association and as well to explain to the people the position that the state organization is taking on important questions in regarding to the regulation of the liquor traffic.

SPAIN'S REVOLUTION STILL A DANGER

LISBON, Aug. 10.—Twelve thousand Spaniards lost their lives in the recent revolution in Barcelona and other parts of Catalonia, according to today's Diario de Noticias, which declares its figures are based on the most reliable estimates. The number includes those killed in the actual fighting and hundreds who were either assassinated or executed during the ten days the trouble lasted.

The Diario de Noticias says there is still grave danger of the revolution recurring and sweeping the entire country.

THROWN FROM HORSE; AND NEARLY KILLED

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the novelist, is today recovering from her experiences of last night when she was thrown from her horse in a secluded spot in the woods and was lost for several hours. When she mounted the horse late yesterday afternoon the grooms notified her the animal was fractious but as she is an expert horsewoman, she paid no attention to their warning. The horse, riderless, returned home an hour and a half later and it was feared Mrs. Chamber had been unhorsed and possibly killed. A number of searching parties immediately began beating the woods for her.

PHOTOGRAPH OF THOMAS IS CLEW

Administrator Frank Winter of the estate of the late Dr. W. D. Thomas has forwarded a photograph, taken 40 years ago, of Dr. Thomas and a young woman, to a public administrator in Scotland, in hopes of finding any heirs to the estate of $10,000 or $12,000 left by the divine. It is supposed the girl is either an early sweetheart or a sister of Dr. Thomas. Little hope is entertained of finding any heirs if any exist, and in case no claimant appears the estate will revert to the state.

NIGHT SCHOOLS AND NEW SCHOOL NAMES

No formal meeting of the board of education was held last night owing to the absence of a quorum. However. Messrs. Luening, Easton and Ray discussed the proposition of conducting night school in La Crosse for those unable to attend in the day time, and also the proposition of naming the schools after prominent men instead of calling them after wards of the city in which they are not even located. This matter will be taken up at a later meeting.

AIR DOME THEATRE CHANGES HANDS

Maurice Lipstein has purchased the air dome theatre on North Third street from the former owners and will continue the business.

He states that it is his purpose to raise the merit of the acts presented to the highest possible class, believing that La Crosse people will appreciate really good vaudeville. The bill presented last night was worth going a long way to see and if the same standard is maintained La Crosse will have a place of summer entertainment second to none.

SIX WEEKS' BRIDE COMMITS SUICIDE

WAUKON, Iowa, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—A very sad affair was the death of Mrs. Ben Krueger of Ludlow township last Thursday. Her husband had gone away for the day to work and upon returning home found his wife had committed suicide by taking strychnine. She was the daughter of Holver Peterson of this city and had only been married about six weeks. Temporary insanity is supposed to have been the cause of her rash act. The funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Van Nice officiating.

Laundry is Sold

The Waukon laundry has been purchased by Milton Lerdall of Decorah, who has taken possession. Mr. Lerdall has been employed in the Decorah steam laundry for a number of years past and the local papers speak well of his abilities in the work. Mr. Lerdall and family will occupy Mrs. Irwin's house in West Waukon.

Waukon Briefs

Miss Ethel Smith is visiting relatives and friends at Lansing and New Albin.

Mrs. Adolph Hagemeier of Decorah is visiting her niece, Mrs. H. L. Dayton, and other relatives.

Mr. J. Fields of Fargo, N. D., was the guest of Miss Nettie Reid several days last week.

Miss Cora Miner arrived home Friday from a two weeks' sojourn at Antioch, Ill. Her sister, Miss Addie of Beloit, Wis., arrives this week for a two weeks' visit with home folks.

Miss Sophia Westby of Hale & Sons clerical force, is spending her vacation with her friend, Miss Grace Mitchell, at Minneapolis.

Mrs. L. Hubbell has been quite ill for a week or more with an attack of jaundice.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Crawford departed last week for an extended trip throughout the west, visiting Denver, Salt Lake City, the Seattle exposition, San Francisco and Solorado Springs. On their return they will take in the wonders of the Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Howe and Miss Ruth and Mrs. M. S. Howard are visiting their sisters at Lansford, and Fargo, N. D.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature R. V. Pierce M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

THREE KILLED BY GAS IN OLD MINE

MOLINE, Ill., Aug. 10.—The bodies of three persons killed by coal gas in an abandoned coal mine five miles east of Moline last evening were recovered early today. They are Walter Cole, 15; Wm. Cole, 25; and Arthur Harrington, 14.

The scene of the tragedy was the Leuder Coal mine which has been abandoned since last November. Mrs. Cole, accompanied by her two sons and by numerous friends with their families had gone into the country to pick blackberries. The younger Cole and young Harrington in wandering about, discovered the Leuder shaft. They tore away the covering and entered the shaft. The deadly coal damp overcame them at once and they all fell to the bottom of the shaft.

Later the elder Cole and his mother discovered the shaft in looking for the two boys and Cole went to the rescue. He never came out alive. Mrs. Cole was about to enter the shaft also when Otto Leuder, owner of the mine, happened to pass and stopped her.

HUMPHREY SEIZES 2 BARRELS OF FISH

Deputy Game Warden George Kingsley has confiscated two barrels of fish shipped from De Soto. It is alleged that the barrels were not properly marked, and that one of them contained game fish.

The fish were owned by Joseph Osborne and A. Long, both of De Soto. The sheriff now has a warrant, and it is expected the men will make appearance at Viroqua tomorrow.

WILL TRY TO KEEP FACTORIES IN CITY

Committees Named to See What Can Be Done for Kenyon and Hackner Plants

MATTER BEING NEGLECTED

Waukesha Committee coming to View Kenyon Co. Today and Hackner Is Displeased

The board of trade is to take up the matter of the threatened removal of the factories of the Hackner Altar Works and the Kenyon Auto-boat Top company from La Crosse and special committees were appointed at a meeting of the directors at the La Crosse club yesterday afternoon which will take immediate action looking to keep both in the city.

The Kenyon company employs 40 people and expects to increase the list to 100 by next summer. They want a site for a new factory, and ask the board to help them secure one for a reasonable price, whereupon they promise to build at their own expense. Adam Kroner, Wallace Montague and H. O. Kline constitute the committee.

Owing to the absence of A. Hirshheimer from the city the matter of the Hackner factory's side track has been neglected but Adam Kroner, chairman of the railroads committee of the council and board of trade member, agreed to take charge of the matter. If the protest is so great that a side track cannot be put in to the present plant, Mr. Hackner desires help to sell his factory and locate downtown. In this the committee will endeavor to help him.

The board decided not to hold an excursion to the Preston fair this year owing to the fact one was sent there two years ago, and it being during the summer season, during which time the regular board meetings are adjourned and it is difficult to get a large number together.

It strengthens the kidneys so they will eliminate the impurities from the blood that depress the nerves, and cause exhaustion, backache, rheumatism, and urinary irregularities, which sap the vitality. Do not delay. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once. O. T. Erhart.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF YOUNG GIRL

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The inquest on Miss Schumacher's body was begun today at the morgue. The autopsy proved that the girl had been strangled before being beaten up with the rock that was found on her head in the grave. The awful grip of the murderer had fractured the hyoid bones in the girl's throat.

The circumstances surounding the murder and the fact that the hyoid bones were broken, recalls the series of strangling cases that occurred in Dayton, Ohio, where five girls were slain in a similar manner, the hyoid bon in each girl's throat being broken.

Physicians say it requires a peculiar and fearful grip on the ahroat to displace these bones. Many of the other details in the crimes are the same.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—One of the most brutal and dastardly murders was revealed when the body of Anna Schumacher, 17 years old, was found in a lonely spot outside the Holy Sepulchre cemetery covered with leaves. Anna went to the cemetery on Saturday afternoon to place flowers on her father's grave.

The coroner's inquest shows that the girl was beaten to death after being criminally assaulted.

What may prove a good clue to the murderer was furnished today by a man who called with his wife at police headquarters and told the officers that he and his wife on Saturday had seen the girl accosted by a man when she arose from prayer beside her sister's grave. When spoken to the girl went with the man toward the spot where her body was found.

Little trust was placed in the clue until the couple were taken to the morgue where the woman identified the skirt worn by Miss Schumacher as that worn by the girl that she had seen. Sheriff Gillette today offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the murderer.

COUPLE DROWN WHILE BATHING

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 10.—The bodies of Miss Alydia Johnson and George Engiebrecht, of South Chicago, were taken home today. The pair of young lovers were drowned late yesterday in Lake Michigan before the eyes of hundreds of bathers and beach loungers who did not realize that the tragedy was being enacted just beyond the breaker line.

The girl, a good swimmer, went out beyond the breakers although the lake was rougher than usual and got caught in the undertow. Englebrecht saw her plight and went to her rescue. The water was too rough and they both sank before the other bathers realized that the pair needed aid.

It is queer that some girls can wear the silliest hats and look quite smart in them.

ACCUSED OF GRAB; LIVELY FIGHT ON

derstand that the public lands had again been withdrawn.

"It remains to be seen whether Ballinger deliberately attempted to destroy Roosevelt's work and did reopen Montana lands in the especial interest of his friends, Carter, Collins and others, or whether he simply didn't realize the importance of his acts or was betrayed by his friends."

The Press to Ballinger

The press also says editorially today:

"Richard Achilles Ballinger, stand up."

"You are accused of grave maladministration of your high office of secretary of the interior. What have you to say for yourself?

"In Montana the case is presented squarely. Rich water power lands along the Missouri were withdrawn by your predecessor at the direction of President Roosevelt whose policies your chief, President Taft, has sworn to perpetuate.

"You knew why these lands were withdrawn. You were told by your advisors that there was grave danger the water power monopoly would grab them. Yet you insisted that they be restored the minute you took office as the guardian of the public domain which belongs to the people.

"Secretary Ballinger, you have also some things to explain in connection with the cancellation of the co-operative certificate plan adopted by your predecessor. You say that plan is not a technical observation of the law. Can you, or anyone else, produce any law that forbids it?"

Pinchott Addresses Gathering

Sounding the first note of open warfare with Secretary Ballinger upholding the Roosevelt reclamation and conservation policies and denouncing the administration of law by technicalities, Chief United States Forester Gifford Pinchott set the congress agog in an address this morning. The resolutions committee reports that resolutions on the subect are pouring in upon them and everyone is awaiting with keen interest Secretary Ballinger's appearance tomorrow.

E. H. Libbey, Clarkston, Wash., president of the Washington Conservation association, today cited the 2,000,000 water horse power available in Washington and said:

"Conservation sees the constant waste of all this energy and wants to see the force harnessed to the use of the people but we want to prevent the monopoly of a force that is more important even than the forests. Conservation demands just enough and no more of wise government control to insure this to the people at living rates and with all due profit as to the developers and operators."

Gifford Pinchott, chief forester of the United States, delivered his address this morning. His speech created a tremendous sensation, increasing tenfold the excitement which has attended the congress so far. All eyes ware now upon Secretary Ballinger and the delegates are eager to hear what he will have to say in reply to the chief forester.

WINONA EXCURSION FAILS TO APPEAR

The much looked for Old Settler's excursion from Winona which was scheduled to make its appearance in this city yesterday was called off because of the late arrival of the steamer J. S. at the up river city yesterday afternoon. The following telegram received from Capt. John Streckfuss by the chairman of the excursion committee caused the postponement of the annual outing of the Old Settlers' Association: "Delayed on account of low water. J. S. will arrive about 2 p. m."

Upon the arrival of the boat at Winona at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, it was ascertained that owing to the low stage of the water in the river, she could make very little progress, hence the delay.

DEMANDS REMOVAL OF MILES MURPHY

OLE THORESON LOSES JOB

And in a Communication to Council Says It Was Because of Loyalty to Dan Moore

Because, he charges, Miles Murphy, street foreman employed by the city, undertook to force him to patronize John Meinke, a north side blacksmith in preference to Dan Moore, who always did his work, and because that employe is discriminating against one to divert all city business he can control to the other, Ole Thoreson, until last July a teamster employed by the city, demands Murphy be "fired" by the council.

Thoreson appeared before Notary Public A. E. Bleekman and swore to a chain of facts which if true puts Murphy "in bad" and the petition demanding his removal will be presented to the aldermen for action next Friday night at the regular meeting of the council.

Thoreson gives affidavit that he had always patronized Dan Moore, a north side blacksmith, but that Murphy, the foreman over him repeatedly came to him and told him to "cut out Moore," or he would "get the worst of it." He claims he repeatedly refused to switch his shoeing to Meinke, telling Murphy Moore's work was satisfactory, that he owned his own horses and wanted the work done by a man of whose knowledge he was certain, and that he did not want to switch to some stranger. He alleged Murphy kept up his nagging, and that as he is often under the influence of liquor his protests for a change became very offensive. He sets forth that about the middle of July Murphy again came to him while under the influence of liquor and demanded he "cut out Moore." He said he refused and Murphy advanced threateningly toward him. Thoreson swears he warned Murphy to keep away and mind his own business, but that Murphy continued to advance and raised his hand as though to strike him. He thereupon pushed the street foreman over into the dirt as a matter of self protection. He alleges that Murphy thereupon arose and discharged him. He also alleges he has Murphy's own admission that his work has always been thoroughly satisfactory and that it was not in any way the cause of his losing his position.

The petitioner says that Murphy has practised the same tactics with other teamsters of the city, trying to force them to take their business away from Moore and give it to his friend Meinke. He alleges that Fisher and Grady, two of the other teamsters employed by the city have already submitted to the bulldozing of Murphy and are now having their work done at the shop of Murphy's friend and that Murphy is continuing his efforts to force all city employes under him, even though they own their own teams, to give their business to his friend, Meinke. The petition closes with the prayer that the council will discharge Foreman Murphy for his discriminations and illegal actions.

EVELYN THAW DENY DEMAND FOR MONEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Although she admits being in straightened circumstances Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw denied today that she had made a demand for $500,000 on the family of her husband, who is in White Plains jail, awaiting the decision of Judge Mills as to his sanity.

The artist-model-chorus-girl-sculptress wife said today it was "just awful" to make her live on $70 a week with an extra monthly income of $200, but that she did not know what she could do about it.

"Why, I've even had to send Kara back to the Bronx zoo," said Mrs. Thaw plaintively today at her studio, where the past several months she has been dabbling in sculpture and playing with pet snakes. Kara is the big king snake that has caused the neighbors of the amateur sculptress many nights of worry since it became an occupant of the studio.

"I am absolutely pennliess," Mrs. Thaw. "I haven't even money to pay my maid or satisfy the landlord who is besieging me for the rent. I don't know what I am going to do. It seems I am up against it."

"But there is absolutely no truth in the story that I will sue the Thaws for half a million dollars. If they would just send me the $200 I should have received on the first of August, I'd be satisfied."

At White Plains none of the Thaws would discuss the reported demand of Harry's wife. At the jail, Harry himself characterized it as "rubbish."

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw is so confident Judge Mills will release her son on Thursday that she has made arrangements to leave White Plains and take her son with her.

People with chronic bronchitis, asthma and lung trouble, will find great relief and comfort in Foley's Honey and Tar, and can avoid suffering by commencing to take it at once. O. T. Erhart.

Hello, Pete!

And Lo! Who's this important individual bringing up the rear. Charlie Frohman, theatre magnate, sho nuff. Everybody recognized him at once, he was fairly mobbed by chorus appeals for a matinee on the boat or a curtain speech. So insistent was the crowd that at last, in order to escape, Mr. Frohman assumed a nom de plume, declaring oracularly that he wasn't Frohman, deed he wasn't, but that he was just plain Pete Newburg.

Well, anyway, the J. S. turned up her bows at the deserted city and steamed away south with the laughing product of the exodus aboard.

ALL LANSING AND A BRASS BAND OUT TO GREET CROWD.

LANSING, Ia., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—All the people in Lansing, headed by brass band which made the excursionists sit up and take an observation, were at the levee at 1 o'clock when the steamer "J. S." arrived with the La Crosse excursionists and today has proved to be one of the livliest in Lansing's history of lively days.

P. J. Conway welcomed the visitors, tendering the key to the city and attesting there was no need for a pry, as the 'lid" was not on. "Billy" F. Wolfe thanked the people for their welcome and promised that even though there were a few on the boat inclined to tear things up—like Bert Van Steenwyk and himself—he could assure the people of the city that the Merchants' association would stand responsible for any damage done to property. He warned the citizens that Pete Newburg was in their midst and that if they did not use care "Pete" would buy up a few of the business centers and start clothing stores and theaters, whereupon editors of the Lansing papers together with their swarms of reporters clustered about the genial "Pete" for confirmation of the story.

Paul Lutz refused to submit to an interview when followed around a corner above the "boat store." He said he had found something, and a close tab is being kept on the furrier to see that he comes back home on the boat.

Karl Kurtenacker was breathless with excitement when the steamer arrived and it is rumored Karl was circling around the Busy Bee in an effort to discover if a ladies' furnishings store would pay in Lansing. Inasmuch as Karl gets a large part of the trade which goes to La Crosse from Lansing as it is, it is not expected he will open a new store here.

William Strauss and Billy Wiggenhorn were in consultation most of the way down and as soon as the boat's nose pushed into the sand beach they vanished. Later they reappeared, each carrying a pretzel said to have been made in Milwaukee. It could not be learned where the pretzels came from, but it was stated this is considered in Lansing as a health food.

Parker interested himself in the pearly industry which thrives in this vicinity (there being lots of dentistas) but George asserted to your reporter that it was the clam variety he sought. Martin Roth and Art Holbeck furnished a good deal of amusement on the way down by doing a cake walk around the outside rail of the steamer while Otto Dumke and Casper Newburg vied with each other for the title of the best dressed man on the excursion.

The reception committee representing Lansing was composed of B. F. Thomas, R. Hufschmidt and J. J. Dunlevy.

Although the day broke stormy the sun came out before the excursion boat reached this place and the day turned out to be an ideal one. No end of fun had been provided by the people of Lansing, and the excursionists will be sorry to leave Lansing tonight for it is without doubt one of the prettiest and most enerprising little cities the length of the river.

40 INFANT BODIES IN NEW YORK MORGUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Today the New York morgue housed forty infant bodies, the greatest number of children there at any time since the General Slocum disaster. Twenty-seven of the babies came from the New York Foundling Asylum and the others from hospitals and institutions. All are direct or indirect victims of the heat wave and physicians today declare the number of deaths among infants has been appalling.

Sleep was practically impossible in any portion of Greater New York last night. At Coney Island 10,000 people slept on the sands last night. Every public park in New York was thrown open and policemen stationed to guard the sleepers. Whole families fled from the rookeries to the little grassy plots. Fire escapes became popular bedrooms while on nearly every narrow street in the tenement district men and women slept in area ways and even on their front stoops.

GRADE CROSSING AS DEATH TRAPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Another grade crossing accident, making nearly 300 accidents at crossings or in the down town streets within a month, claimed the lives of two men today.

James O'Connor and Dennis Crowdley, railroad employes were run down by a Baltimore & Ohio engine and their bodies mutilated almost beyond recognition. The crew of the engine reported that they knew nothing about the accident until they found a bloody human leg on the pilot.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe the pains temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acrid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acrid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

DANCED WITH KING EDWARD AT COURT BALL

The Crown Princess of Sweden, Princess Margaret.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 9.—To be selected from an assemblage of royalty and lords and ladies by the king of England for the opening dance is perhaps the highest social honor one could obtain on the continent. Such was the success of the charming Princess Margaret, the crown princess of Sweden, at Buckingham palace.

Princess Margaret has won the hearts of her future subjects in Sweden not only by her charm and beauty, but by her enthusiasm, her love of Sweden and her general democratic nature.

There is always the chance of being mistaken. Your wise notions of today may seem mighty foolish next year or next week.

The contract for the erection of a machine shed at the Interstate fair grounds, and building an addition to the exposition building has been let to Contractor Frank R. Schwalbe of this city. The work will cost approximately $3,500.

FREE For "Summer Complaint"

The common ailment of these hot days is "Summer Complaint," or diarrhea. It is very annoying and weakening and upsets the stomach. The cause of the trouble usually lies in food and water, which in the summer time are often laden with germs, but with many it is due to eating too much fruit or to eating over-ripe fruit. Whatever the cause it is not good to take an astringent remedy that binds up the bowels and stops the flow too suddenly, but take a reliable, natural laxative like DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN.

Its antiseptic properties remove the germs which have been causing the irritation. Children like it especially because of its gentle action and pleasant taste. Salts and purgative waters, tablets or pills, act so violently as to weaken you still more, and do but temporary good. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN is the best remedy you can obtain for constipation, indigestion, summer complaint or summer colic, biliousness, sick headache, etc. All druggists sell it and it costs only 50 cents or $1.00 a large bottle. It is for all members of the family and should be your household remedy for these purposes.

Those who have never yet used DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN and would like to make a test of it before buying in the regular way from their druggist, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE either for themselves or any member of their family by sending name and address to the doctor. The sample will be sent to your home free of charge. In this way you can find out what it will do without cost. Also, if the case presents difficulties that doctors and other remedies seem unable to overcome, write a letter to Dr. Caldwell explaining how the person suffers and he will give you his best MEDICAL ADVICE, based on half a century of experience in stomach, liver and bowel diseases, without charge. Women who have children should send for "SUMMER SUGGESTIONS TO MOTHERS," containing the doctor's advice on diet, hygiene, etc., in hot weather—a very important subject. The address is

FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

NEW WAYS OF SERVING AND PRESERVING

THE OLD AND MODERN METHODS OF INSURING MIDWINTER FRUITS

WHEN the weather is warm, and berries and other fruits insist upon putting themselves in the foreground with the ultimatum: "Can me now or never," the old method of canning and preserving sometimes becomes laborious and nerve-trying. A little known process, which, for want of a better descriptive name is called the Twentieth Century Method, does away with all cooking of the fruit, and its attendant heat. Keep on hand a quantity of fruit sirup. Seven pounds of sugar and five pints of water will give five quarts of quite heavy sirup. Use cold water and stir in the sugar over the fire until dissolved, but do not allow the boiling point to be reached. This is ready for use at a moment's notice.

Condition of Fruit

In following out this process there are two conditions to be observed: The fruit must be under rather than over ripe, and it must be absolutely dry; it cannot even be dewy. It is obvious the fruit must be freshly picked and so clean as not to need washing. Sterilize jars, rings and tops as usual in hot water. Fill the jars with the fruit, knocking gently on the table to settle the fruit compactly in them.

When filled pour in the heated sirup to overflowing, adjust the rubbers and screw on the tops. Set the jars in large crocks; these are preferable to tubs or boilers, because they retain the heat longer. Leaving a small space between your in boiling water until the jars are submerged.

Put the cover of the crock in place and throw over it a large rug or carpet, or even a comfortable will answer. Let stand for twenty-four hours, or until the water is cold; tighten the jar tops, if it is necessary to do so, while they are under water; wipe off and place in storeroom.

Pineapples

This method has been used for all berries, shredded pineapple and peeled plums, and undoubtedly could be used for peaches and apricots. Pineapple should always be shredded. To cut it in slices or dice spoils the flavor, and retains the woody fiber. After paring and removing the eyes it can be shredded with a silver fork or run through a food chopper.

For making fruit pastes, dainty for the school luncheon basket, apples and quinces can be used alone or in combination with pineapple. Weigh the fruit and to each pound allow six ounces of sugar. Put in a porcelain-lined kettle, and covering closely simmer until it is a smooth marmalade. Add the sugar and continue slow cooking until a teaspoonful cooled will show the paste sufficiently tough to be rolled in a soft ball. Turn into tumblers and cool.

Spiced Plums

Spiced peaches and apples are fairly well known, but spiced plums are strangers to many housewives. The plums should be pricked in two or three places to prevent their bursting, or the skins shrinking and sticking to the pits. To each eight pounds of plums allow four pounds of sugar, three cupfuls of vinegar, two ounces each of stick cinnamon and allspice, one-quarter ounce of whole cloves and six bay leaves.

Boil vinegar, sugar and spices together, then throw in the fruit to cook for a moment only, and set aside to cool. Next morning lift the fruit with a skimmer and put it into stone jars. Boil the sirup and pour it over the plums and let cool. Do this for seven consecutive mornings. On the eighth put all over the fire and cook until the fruit is soft.

Fruit Chips

Pear or quince "chips" or slices are a delicious sweetmeat. Slicing is preferable to chipping and it can be done very rapidly and evenly on a vegetable slicer. Allow a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit, and, for flavoring, ginger root or lemon slices at discretion.

Boil the slices rapidly in clear water for ten minutes and drain. Put the fruit slices back into the kettle with the sugar and very little water and set it on a cool part of the range for the sugar to melt; then cook the pears until they are soft and transparent. Drain them from the sirup and place on a sieve to dry. When dry roll them in sugar and put in glass jars or tin boxes.

Many housekeepers will, however, undoubtedly prefer the old-style method, and for their assistance I append the following suggestions:

Canned Pineapple

Slice the pineapple in desired thickness, pare and carefully remove the eyes with a sharp knife. With a cutter remove core. For every pound of fruit one-half pound of sugar is necessary; use just enough water to dissolve the sugar, bringing it to the boiling-point, then adding the fruit. Let boil up gently until tender. If it is desired, the fruit can be shredded with a silver knife, or chopped fine, the same amount of sugar being used in the canning.

Canned Strawberries

Rinse berries in colander and hull. Fill can with berries and set in several thicknesses of cloth in bottom of boiler, which has enough lukewarm water to come nearly to tops of cans. Let water come to boiling point, then carefully turn all juice from fruit into stewing kettle. Take the fruit from which the juice has been extracted and fill up cans; it will take all the fruit from two boiled cans to fill one.

Place these cans in boiler again and let remain until sirup is ready. To make this sirup, use the extracted juice and enough granulated sugar to make of consistency of strained honey. Turn this over the berries in cans, sealing immediately. In this way all the fruit flavor is retained and one has delicious canned strawberries. Do not add water, as this makes the fruit insipid.

Preserved Rhubarb

For pies or sauce in the winter the cold water method is desirable. Peel the plant and cut into inch pieces, pack in cans, then fill to overflowing with fresh cold water; seal. A conserve made of six pounds of rhubarb, five pounds of sugar, grated rind and juice of two lemons, one pound of sliced figs is delicious. Boil all together slowly for an hour, or until very thick, then put into small jars and seal immediately. The figs must be carefully looked over and rinsed off, the stem ends being removed. If "pulled" instead of pressed figs can be secured, use them.

A LUSCIOUS RHUBARB CONSERVE.

Tomato Butter

Seven pounds of ripe tomatoes, four pounds of ripe apples, four pounds of light-brown sugar, one-half cupful strong vinegar, one teaspoonful each of salt, pulverized cinnamon and ginger, one teaspoonful cloves. Slice apples thin, cut tomatoes up and cook both in one-half pint water until tender; press through colander; add the sugar and vinegar and boil until thick; add spices and can while hot. If desired, Canton ginger, chipped, can be used instead of the dry. One teaspoonful of each will be sufficient. The tomatoes must be ripe and, like the apples, be wiped with a damp cloth. Remove the core from the apples, but the skins will be eliminated when put through colander.

A FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD FOR MIDWINTER.

Winter Salad

Take four quarts thinly-sliced pared cucumbers and one dozen medium-sized onions peeled and sliced very thin; put in dish and sprinkle with salt, letting them stand for three hours. Turn off the brine which this will make and pack the cucumbers and onions in cans. Use one-half cupful white mustard seed, one-half cupful white sugar, one-half teaspoonful celery seed, one cupful of olive oil; divide these evenly for each can and fill up with cold vinegar. In preparing cucumbers remove every particle of the green tinge, otherwise the salad will be bitter. A few strips of sweet green pepper added to the can will be delicious, giving a piquant flavor.

At this period of the year a few suggestions on the cooking of vegetables will not be amiss.

Cooking Vegetables

Of course, it may be true that vegetables cooked when fresh from the garden are always tasty, and yet the human palate is so constructed that it soon tires of one flavor. How much better it would be, therefore, if a little more thought and attention should be given to the process of cooking vegetables, that the many distinctive flavors produced by some of these more novel combinations might help to break the monotony in the daily fare.

PRESERVING THE STRAWBERRY FOR DECEMBER.

String-Beans

Thus, for example, take string-beans, and, if you have been accustomed to the simple, old-fashioned method of cooking them, prepare them in this fashion, and see what a difference the change in recipe will make: String and break the beans as usual, or cut in lengthwise strips; then boil them in salted water, adding half a medium-sized onion to each two quarts of beans. Do not let them boil too fast at first, but, when they are nearly done, increase the heat until the water gallops, and keep this up until the beans are almost dry, being careful not to let them "catch." When done, season with butter, pepper and salt; then add some mashed potato and hot cream—one large potato, well mashed, and three-quarters of a teacupful of cream to the two quarts of beans.

For another change, when the beans have cooked tender in the salted water, drain them, and, having melted some butter in the frying-pan, fry them with some minced parsley and chopped onion until lightly browned. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and finally add a cupful of chicken or veal stock to each quart of beans, and bring to a boil.

Cooking Vegetables in Milk

The flavor of Lima, kidney and other shell-beans is also improved if they are cooked with rich milk, or cream. To prepare them in this fashion, cook them as ordinarily—in salted water—and when tender drain them, and return them to the saucepan, adding half a pint of the milk or cream to each pint of beans (measured before cooking), one tablespoonful of flour that has been blended with the same quantity of butter, a little parsley, thyme and bayleaf, minced fine together, and pepper and salt to taste. Simmer for ten minutes before serving.

Green peas also blend tastily with milk. In fact, in some parts of Canada fresh peas are always boiled in milk instead of water, and when tender, the milk in which they were cooked is drained off, and the vegetables are served with a goodly portion of warm cream poured over them, the only addition being a reasonable seasoning of salt and pepper.

Different as the flavors of green peas and mint may be, the two, strange as it may seem, combine delectably. To test this fact, take a few sprigs of fresh mint and chop them fine; then cook and serve them with the peas. The French cooks often add a head of lettuce, carefully tied with twine to prevent the leaves from separating, and sometimes a bunch of spring onions—"rareripes," or "scullions," as they are called in some parts of the country.

Peas a la Creole

In New Orleans, the genuine Creole cook would first place the peas in a saucepan with two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter and a teacupful of salted water to each pint of peas. When tender, they would be mixed with the yolk of an egg previously beaten to a froth with three tablespoonfuls of cream. To this mixture a sprinkling of white pepper and a teaspoonful of powdered sugar would be added, after which the peas would be left to simmer for five minutes or more before being served.

Corn and tomatoes make another fresh-vegetable combination that would tempt the palate of the most censorious epicure, and there are several ways in which this dish may be prepared. The simplest recipe requires that the corn and tomatoes be arranged in a baking-dish in alternate layers, with sugar, butter and salt between each layer as seasoning. Then, when the top has been covered with a generous layer of buttered crumbs, the dish is sent to the oven to stay until its contents are ready for the table.

Appetizing as this invention may be, to my mind it is not to be compared to the combination of tomatoes stuffed with corn. To attain this masterpiece in culinary art, cut the corn from the cob; season it liberally with butter, pepper and salt; add a suggestion of sugar, if the corn is not as sweet as might be desired, and use this mixture to stuff some tomatoes from which the centers have been removed. Put a piece of butter on top of each tomato, and bake until done.

NEW FASHIONS IN THE PREPARATION OF OLD-FASHIONED VEGETABLES

Corn and Peppers

A delicious mixture of corn and peppers may be prepared by the following recipe: Melt two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, and in it fry three tablespoonfuls of chopped green pepper and about half that quantity of minced onion. When these have commenced to brown satisfactorily, add two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour. Stir briskly, and when the mixture has become smooth add a pint of corn that has just been cut from the cob, and a little more than half a pint of rich cream. Cook slowly until the corn is done, then add salt and pepper to taste.

For those who love chicken pie, here is a suggestion that will be certain to please: Prepare the chicken as usual and when ready for the oven arrange the pieces in the baking-dish; then fill all the space remaining with corn that has freshly been cut from the cob. Add plenty of butter, pepper and salt, and enough milk to moisten sufficiently. Put on the crust, and bake. You will not be sorry when you sample the result.

CANNING PINEAPPLE

Egg-Plant

Egg-plant is a vegetable that is not as well known or as popular as it deserves to be. As a matter of fact, a great many persons do not care for it when cooked in the ordinary ways—either fried or stuffed; but try it as follows:

Peel and slice the egg-plant, and arrange these slices in a baking-dish with a layer of thinly-sliced tomato and a generous sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese between each layer of the vegetable. Dot here and there with bits of butter; season to taste with pepper and salt, and bake until done.

Another method is to fry the sliced egg-plant and place these slices in a baking-dish with the sprinkling of Parmesan cheese between each layer. When the dish is nearly full cover the egg-plant with white sauce; spread a layer of cheese and crumbs over the top, and bake until brown.

A still more unique suggestion provides that the egg-plant shall be peeled, sliced and boiled until tender. The slices are then mashed, three beaten eggs are added, with pepper and salt to taste and sufficient flour to make a batter. When thoroughly mixed, this batter is fried on the griddle like potato cakes.

WHAT TO WEAR

Suggestions for the Solution of the Ever Present Problem of Dress

"WHAT shall I wear?" This inquiry is so frequently sent in by correspondents who are in uncertainty as to the appropriate dress for various occasions, that a few general suggestions may be of interest.

Dress for Day Weddings

At day weddings, either at a church or at home, at wedding receptions, luncheons, afternoon teas, or card-parties, women guests wear reception or visiting dresses, and hats and white kid gloves. Hats are not removed at any of these day affairs.

If wearing a heavy outer wrap or long coat when driving in winter, this is taken off and left in the dressing-room at a reception or tea; but if one is wearing a little coat, which is part of one's reception dress, it need not be removed, and one does not take off one's furs. A short visit only is made at a tea, or reception, and for this reason one does not remove outer wraps, unless they are cumbersome.

It is quite allowable to go to a tea, or card-party, in a plain tailor-made street dress, if one prefers. Wraps are removed at a card-party, as guests are expected to remain two or three hours. Gloves are taken off when taking one's seat at table at a "sitting-down" wedding breakfast, a luncheon, or a card-party. Gloves are not removed at a "standing-up" collation at a wedding reception.

Church Weddings

If a wedding is in a church, the bride's mother wears a hat and does not remove it when returning home for the reception. Her dress may be of finest cloth, or of silk or velvet. The color chosen is usually gray or mauve, although any preferred color may be worn.

Bridesmaids wear hats at day weddings, or they may wear short veils of tulle, fastened with small wreaths of artificial flowers.

The Hostess Gown

A hostess and those receiving with her at an afternoon tea, wear dresses high in the neck. The materials may be silk, or lace, or fine woolen fabrics. Black lace or dark silk may be chosen by older women. Young girls wear white or light-colored dresses of chiffon or other material.

A hostess does not wear gloves at an informal afternoon tea, or for the usual "days at home," but may wear them on the occasion of a very large formal "at home." Women or young girls who preside at a tea-table and pour tea never wear gloves.

At a large evening party or dance, a hostess should wear gloves, but she never does so when receiving before a dinner or a luncheon.

Dressing for the Theater

Dresses for the theater may be similar to those worn when going to an afternoon tea or reception; that is, they may be of fine cloth. Pretty waists of lace, or with lace or chiffon yoke, may be used for the theater with separate skirt of silk or cloth. Hats are removed at a theater, and the custom is to hold one's hat in the lap. In a box in a theater women need not remove their hats, because in a box the hats do not interfere with the view of others in the rear.

More elaborate gowns may be worn for the theater, if preferred. These may be of silk or lace, but these are not worn when walking and must be covered by long wraps. Always these gowns are high in the neck for the theater or for dining in public, and hats are not removed when dining in a restaurant.

Street Wear

For street wear in winter, for shopping, for informal morning visits to intimate friends, or for church wear, a cloth tailor-made dress of quiet color, a hat not too large, gloves of tan dogskin, or of undressed kid, gray or tan, and calf-skin boots, should be chosen.

Economy in Wardrobe

Frequent changes of fashion make it undesirable to have a quantity of dresses. Far better is it to have a few gowns of best material, well-made and sufficient for the season, than to have many of inferior quality, or made in the extreme of a passing fashion. It is always in good taste to have a plain dress of durable and dark material, a hat not overtrimmed. The avoidance of what is conspicuous, exaggerated, showy or eccentric is an important point to remember. Elaborate trimmings soon become shabby; a light color soils quickly.

To dress with neatness, simplicity and in accordance with one's income, position and age and in appropriateness to the occasion, are among the things which characterize a well-dressed woman. Gowns must be in perfect order and well-brushed; hats and gloves must be fresh; shoes must be polished.

It is important to have dresses which are correct in cut and in fitting and adapted to one's personal appearance, and very important to consider the color, style and material which will be appropriate to one's age, complexion, height and figure.

Cooked Cucumbers

Fried cucumber is another delicacy that all may enjoy now that these vegetables are sold at so moderate a price. To prepare them, peel the cucumbers, slice lengthwise, and let them lie in salted water from half to three-quarters of an hour. At the end of this time drain them thoroughly, roll in egg and bread-crumbs, and fry until attractively browned, in butter. Serve with tiny bits of lemon as an accompaniment.

If the cucumbers are to be served as an entrée, cut them in halves lengthwise—after peeling them—and remove the seeds with a spoon. Drop them for about a minute and a half into boiling water to which some salt and a little vinegar has been added; then remove, pour over them some cold water and wipe dry. When this process has been completed, fill the cucumbers with a stuffing made as follows: To half a pound of finely-chopped chicken add half a cupful of well-soaked bread-crumbs, two beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and pepper and salt to taste. Do not fill the cucumbers too full, as the stuffing will swell when cooking.

Put the two halves of each cucumber together, tie them with twine, and put them in a pan with enough chicken broth, or good stock, to half cover. Cook very slowly until the cucumbers are tender. When nearly done, season with butter, pepper and salt, and when the vegetables are finally ready to serve, thicken the gravy with flour and pour it over them.

Welsh-rabbit Points

The cheese in a Welsh-rabbit will not separate or become stringy if the following suggestions are observed: The "rabbit" should not be cooked directly over a flame, as the intense heat hardens the albumen in the cheese; but over hot water, and the water should not be allowed to boil. To further insure success, add a pinch of soda, which serves to counteract the acidity of the cheese. This also makes it more digestible.

TREATMENT of NERVOUSNESS

Control and Cure of this Great American Disease Easily Attained

NERVOUSNESS is called the disease of Americans, and probably nervousness is more rife in America than anywhere else in the world. The reasons of it are very easy to see, and reside in those circumstances which distinguish American life and customs from those of other nations. It is not the stimulating air or climate, for we have every known climate. It is not an inheritance, but it is the striving induced by surrounding conditions—the desire to be something supposed by the individual to be better and beyond that which he has or his parents had.

The Old World is somewhat like one of those planets in which, after ages of struggles, everything has come to a stop. Here there is a constant ferment, and, whether one will or no, he is drawn into the struggle, and the wear and tear of it after a time frazzles the nerves.

Nervousness a Disease

Many people think that nervousness is simply an exhibition of irritability, which shows itself in an unusual and unnecessary display of the emotions, a quickness of temper and a peppery outpouring of words. These are the symptoms of a certain form of nervousness, and possibly may not be a display of nervousness at all, but a result of a naturally cross-grained disposition.

General Symptoms

The nervousness of worry, overwork and effort are different. Sleeplessness and loss of appetite are the first symptoms; indigestion follows, then comes a lack of power to concentrate the mind. These are the prominent symptoms of the nervous breakdown, the danger signals which one should take note of.

Man should feel, in common with the animals, a need for food at stated times, and have the desire for sleep and the ability to do so. If appetite is lacking and the rhythm of sleeping and waking is jangled, then the mind and reason, which is said to distinguish man from the animals, should come in and take command, otherwise the more serious symptoms of nervousness will appear.

Languor will follow restlessness, inability to do ordinary things, the starting at noises, in some instances oversensitiveness of the eyes to light and of the ears to sound, and a host of other disturbances, which are very different from the traits of feeling of the individual ordinarily, will come. Hunt, then, for the causes of the appearance of nerves, that you may overcome them.

Avoid Stimulants

In the first place, it may be that you are using stimulants, tea and coffee in excess; if you are a man you are probably smoking too much. You may be working too intently upon one thing and not taking sufficient exercise. You may be overeating, or taking too much rich food that taxes the nerves of the stomach, which calls in the nerves of other parts of the body to sympathize with the outrages put upon it.

In short, you must candidly face the facts and ascertain what laws of hygiene you are violating, for all of us do that in a greater or less degree. Regulate your diet so that it will be simple and nutritious. Those who are nervous should not drink tea or coffee. If yours is an aggravated case, get a change of some kind as soon as possible, so that the nerves which have received the constant usage of daily life will have a chance to recuperate, while other sets of nerves are brought into action to relieve them.

Change is Necessary

Those who have an attack of nervousness are very often those who have gone through some great mental shock or anxiety, or have received a blow through the loss of loved ones or of fortune, or those who have gotten into a rut in life, and one day follows another with a monotony of existence. For all such, and many other cases, change is necessary.

If it is not possible to go away that other scenes may cause other thoughts and actions and bring variety, then be inventive in doing the things of your daily life in a different manner. Take new walks and exercises, think new thoughts, study some books, or read those which will give you an entirely different view of life.

The nervous have a tendency to avoid new acquaintances, but often the coming in contact with other people will bring a change which is helpful and diverting. Avoid taking medicines suggested by sympathizing friends. The nervous are apt to dose themselves with unreasoning zeal, taking first one thing and then another.

Take hot baths at night to arouse the sluggish circulation, and brisk rubs with a flesh brush or a rough towel to make the skin of the body red. Quicken circulation by walks and other exercise.

If your life is very humdrum, and you see little chance of varying it, use your imagination, as do the children in their play, and make a change in that way. An ancient hymn writer declares that the sweeping of a room can be done to the glory of God. So the daily acts of life, infused with new and lofty thoughts, can be changed from drudgery and commonplace. Above all, the nervous must learn self-forgetfulness.

H. B.—Would you please tell me what kinds of food to eat? I am troubled so much with nervousness I cannot talk to people the way I would like to. I have stomach and liver trouble, I am told. I am gaining weight, but not strength. I would like also to know how to feed my baby, who is two and a half years old. He occasionally gets a bad breath.

Your nervousness when you talk with people will pass away if you try to talk with a number of people, and pay no attention to your feeling about it. Try and eat all the nourishing food that you can. You know by experience what agrees with you better than I can tell you at this distance.

When the boy's breath is bad, it is likely that he is constipated and needs a laxative. The following is a good diet list for a child of two and a half years. He should have four meals a day. At the first meal, say at 7.30, one or two tumblerfuls of milk, a saucerful of some of the breakfast cereals (if rice or oatmeal or Indian meal, care should be taken to cook them thoroughly), and a couple of slices of bread and butter, the bread a day old. The second meal, say, at 11 A.M., a glassful of milk or a cupful of meat broth, with bread or a cracker. The third meal, at 2 P.M., a slice of roast beef, lamb, mutton or chicken, a baked potato moistened with gravy—the potato well mashed and the meat minced fine; a slice or two of bread and butter, after which a saucer of rice or bread pudding, custard or some simple dessert. Fourth meal, at 6.30, a glassful of milk, one or two slices of bread and butter or milk toast, a baked apple or stewed prunes. The times you can adjust to suit your convenience, but the meals should be about this distance apart, regulated with so many hours between; and it is very necessary to be regular in feeding. I have said a laxative might be needed, but it is best to regulate the child as far as possible by means of coarse bread, or use Indian meal as a cereal at breakfast, with stewed fruit or prunes.

Respect a Child's Pride

Sensible parents do not correct, or criticise, or praise a child in the presence of others; they do not talk before him of distressing things, illness, accidents, crimes or problems of life.

Play is an important part of childhood and should be encouraged. It gives joy, contentment and occupation. A child's world is one of imagination, and is very real to him. His blocks, balls, water colors, scrap-books, sand, spools and garden tools are very serious things to him. In his play a child learns to have resources, to depend on himself; he is active, determined, absorbed; his mind grows in a healthy power of imitation, invention and imagination.

His play should not be controlled by older persons. Much may be learned of his disposition in his play. When with other children does he lead or follow, is he fair or unjust, generous or grasping, amiable and forgiving, or quarrelsome and vindictive?

Mothers and fathers who are wise will cultivate a child's imagination. He may be told stories from history, the beautiful and simple stories from the Bible. Story books and music books should be in every home. A mother should use her talent in music, small though it may be, in giving the pleasure that is derived from simplest songs and music.

Awake an Interest in Love of Nature

A child's interest should be awakened in love for Nature, for animals and birds. If he is taught that the humblest living creatures should have his protection and affection, he will never be thoughtless or cruel in his treatment of them.

A child may be told of God's love in the wonderful gifts of the things of the earth, the flowers and fruits for beauty and use.

Wonder may be awakened in his mind in the immensity of the universe, the glory of the sun, the beauty and mystery of the stars, the expanse of sky and sea.

The religious spirit should be fostered in childhood. Unless this is done it will not have strong growth.

The personality of the mother has much to do in originating in the child the earliest ideas of God and immortality. The sincerity of her faith, her reverence for all sacred and holy things—these are almost unconsciously observed by a child and form an impression never to be forgotten.

HUSTLERS CAN SECURE ALL THE VOTES THEY WANT IN CONTEST

BY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF SCHEDULE WHICH AWARDS 10,000 FOR YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION; LIBERAL VOTES FOR LESS PERIOD OF TIME

INTERESTED WORKERS THRONG CONTEST DEPARTMENT DAIDY; SUBSCRIPTIONS CAN BE LENGTHENED IN CONTESTANT'S FAVOR

It is interesting to note the satisfied expressions on the faces of the contestants who daily throng the offices of the contest department. They are enjoying the pastime of securing votes in the great race and are enthused beyond measure over the prospects of winning one of the $3,500 worth of awards. It is the contest of contests and all who are participating feel the thrill of the merry chase.

Votes are free in this unparallel offer of the Tribune. You may secure them by clipping them from the paper each night and filling out the blank space with the name and district number of your candidate. Mail or bring them into the contest department. Then there is the schedule of votes by which you may, by securing subscriptions, enlarge your votes by leaps and bounds. A one year paid in advance subscription to the Daily Tribune gives you 10,000 votes.

If a subscriber should enter his name for a month's subscription and, before the expiration of the month, decide to increase his subscription to a year, bring in the lengthened subscription with the difference in price between a year's subscription and what had been paid for a month. The full 10,000 votes will b givn to you, lss what has been received before.

It will be seen in this way that contestants can, by "keeping tab" on their subscribers, ascertain whether or not any of them desire to increase the length of time for their subscriptions. If they do, you benefit to the full extent in the voting, and it is the same as though you had secured the subscription for the long term at first.

Votes brought in before 1 p. m. daily appear in the paper of the day following. District numbers must be placed on the coupons. Call up the contest manager for other information.

To secure the votes issued on subscriptions, money must be paid in advance for The Tribune. Receipt books with which to record subscriptions are given to contestauts and are for the asking This is your race and the manner in which you enter it will have much to do with the final result. Sept. 11 at 10 p. m. sees the contest closed. The game is but started. Do the work today that will insure success for tomorrow. The phone in the contest department is number 323.

Standings Published Daily

The standings of the contestants will be changed from day to day as to the number of votes they receive The ballot box will close each day at noon for the standing to be printed in the next day's paper. Votes appearing today represent standings of the candidates at nonn yesterday.

Open Evenings

For the benefit of those who are not able to call at the contest department's office during business hours, this department will be open every evening.

FOUR COURSES OF POISON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—Physicians at the city hospital today are doing their best for Davil Eichengo, a motoman, who yesterday while brooding over an accident in wnich a car of which he was motorman was blamed, decided to end his life and applied four methods all at once. He swallowed powdered glass and match heads and took four ounces of liquid shoe polish and then for desert turned on the gas. He was still in a critical condition today.

MONKEY CALLS OUT MESSENGER SERVICE

Pet Animal Wanders Into a Vacant Store and Has the Mecssengers Hopping

Because a monkey "monkeyed" with a call box operators and messengers at the offices of the North American Telegraph company were caused no little annoyance Saturday afternoon, and the messenger call system was almost put out of business. It was necessary to make a canvass of a whole section of down town call boxes gefore the "monkey work" could be found.

Robert Swenson, assistant manager of the office found the cause of the trouble. A pet monkey, belonging to people living up stairs had been tied to a ring in the wall of a vacant building on Jay street, formerly occupied by the Hawley Commission company. When Swenson arrived, jocko was busily pulling the buzzer handle with his ear to the side of the box, and an expression of delight and amusement covered his broad countenance. At the office a confused jumble of dots and dashes was coming in on the tape, with occasional long flashes where his monkeyship took a swing on the hook. The box has now been removed.

BADLY BEATEN, THEN ARRESTED

First run over by a bicycle, then assaulted and beaten until his face this morning was badly swollen and two beautiful black eyes adorned his ccountenance, was the eventful experience of Gotlieb Goll yesterday.

Goll was standing on the sidewalk in front of a saloon on South Second street yesterday afternoon, when a boy riding a wheel collided with him and knocked him off his feet. He remonstrated with the boy and pushed him from the walk. The boy went home and told his father, and then F. K. Luedke came out and took the matter up with the result that there was a fight in which Goll got badly punished.

This morning a sheriff's officer appeared at the Goll home and the victim was haled into county court on an assault and battery charge preferred by Luedtke. The man pleaded not guilty and will be given an opportunity to be heard this afternoon. In the meanwhile papers are being prepared for the arrest of the other party to the fracas.

CURED HAY FEVER AND SUMMER COLD

A. S. Nausbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." O. T. Erhart.

TRACKING DOWN THE CHILD STEALERS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—The vigilance committee, an organization consisting of prominent politicians banded together to prevent outlawry by Italians, today began a search of the Italian colony here with the hope of ifnid ngvanN..baoFeb,os ggruary of finding the two Viviano children, kidnaped last Monday in St.fl Louis. Italian detectives have reached the conclusion that Callogero Giandusas, an Italian, alleged to have been the leader of the gang which kidnaped the six-year-old son of Peter Lamanas, and Peter Turissi, alleged leader of the Viviano kidnapers, are one and the same. Judge Patorna, of the vigilance committee, who gave the police assistance in running down and arresting eight members of the gang of blackhanders in the Lamanas case furnished the police with information today which has started a search for Turissi Ginadusas. After the murder of the Lamanas, Giandusas escaped and a large reward is still upon his head. The activity of the police was further stimulated by the statement of several Americans who claim to tave seen a strange Italian with two little children in the Italian quarter within the past few days.

CLOTHING TEAM WORSTS NOXALLS

The La Crosse Noxalls were defeated Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. Only once did a Noxall player reach t hird base. Peterson for the La Crosse Clothing company was invincible while Nonstad for the Noxalls was touched up for eleven hits. Twelxe Noxalls went down on strike-outs while only four were made by Nesham and Exel, two Noxall outfielders. The Clothing company is now ready for the Athletes at any time, which game will decide who are the city champions for 1909.

Out of nine games played this season, the La Crosse Clothing company team has won 7, lost 1, and tied one, giving them a percentage of .875.

FLOOD AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 9.—No lives were lost in the flood which swept the country west of Denver Sunday doing damage estimated at $150,000. A large number of persons were reported missing last night but all weer found today. Several children who were missing were found in the crowds of sightseers watching the rushing of aters.

Early today the residents of the stricken districts got another fright when the waters rose five feet adding to the damage already done.

GOVERNOR'S GUARDS DECIDE ON PICNIC

The annual outing of the La Crosse Governor's Guard association will be held at Liede's park on the La Crosse and Southeastern railroad, Sunday, August 22. The Third Regiment military band, of Viroqua has been asked to join the guardsmen in this outing and excursions will be run from Viroqua over the Southeastern road.

Committee have been appointed to make arrangements. All of the the German societies of the city as well as the local military companies have been invited to participate, and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

For indigestion and all stomach trouble take Foley's Orino Laxative as it stimulates the stomach and liver and regulates the bowels and will positively cure habitual constipation. O. T. Erhart.

BURDETTE GETTING BETTER

REDONDO, Cal., Aug. 9.—Rev. Robert J. Burdette, the famous preacher-humorists, whose life has been despaired of recently, is reported to be greatly improved today. His complete recovery is now possible.

When a bookkeeper falls head over heels in love, he has, loke other fellows, a hard time getting his balance.

Do you know what Woodbury's Combination Hair and Scalp Treatment really is? Do you know why it saves the hair when all other preparations fail?

Woodbury's combination Hair and Scalp Treatment is the result of actual experience—not mere theory. The experience of the Woodbury specialists has PROVED that the right combination must have—a germicide and curative—a cleanser and stimulant—a prophylactic and beautifier.

The famous Woodbury combination supplies all three.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CREAM
The Germicide and Curative
It destroys germ life. It restores perfect health to the hair glands and purifies the hair follicle. It cures scaly tetter, eczema, salt rheum and all those deseases which cause dry or greasy dandruff and itching of the scalp.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CLEANER
The Cleanser and Stimulant
It dissolves and removes greasy dandruff and all traces of other diseases from the scalp. It invigorates the scalp and keeps the hair clean and healthy. It revives the circulation throughout the scalp and makes it tingle with new life.

WOODBURY'S Combination HAIR TONIC
The Prophylactic and Beautifier
It protects the hair against germ infection. It feeds the hair roots. It restores the lustre to the hair from roots to ends and preserves its natural color. It prevents dandruff and makes the hair fluffy and beautiful.

What Mrs. John F. Howson, 498 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y. says about The Woodbury Treatment for the Hair and Scalp.

I have used about all the remedies for falling hair that one might have recommended to them during their natural life. I spent a lot of money for hair invigorators and restoratives, and got absolutely no favorable results until I started the treatment you so kindly recommended to me. My hair stopped falling out just as soon as I used the Woodbury's Scalp Cream in conjunction with the Scalp Cleaner. Its action was just like magic. The thick greasy dandruff is all gone. My hair is growing nicely and taking on a new growth. Your Hair Tonic I use night and morning, and it is the nicest hair dressing I have ever used. Thanking you for the letters of advice, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. JOHN F. HOWSON

THE ANTI-FREE RAW MATERIAL FACTION

Congressman W. Audrey Thomas of Ohio at Top; Congressman H. Olin Young of Michigan, Below.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—As the forces line up for the final fight on the tariff question, after it has been reported out of the conference committee, the insurgents will be well organized under the direction of Young of Michigan, Hubbard of Iowa, Thomas of Ohio and Langley of Kentucky.

By the insurgents are no longer meant those fighting the cause of downward revision, as they were when the house first considered the tariff, but rather are they fighting for protection on raw materials. This change has taken place because the sentiment of the majority has followed the lead of the president in demanding free raw materials. Now the insurgents are those who wish protection for raw material and are organized under the head of "anti-free-raw-material faction."

SPARTA COUPLE WED IN JEWISH FASHION

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—With all the pomp and ceremonies of a Hebrew wedding the first Jewish wedding ever solemnized in this city took place in Assembly hall Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock at which time Miss Hulda Levin of Sparta and Mr. Samuel Gross of Black River Falls were made man and wife by Rabbi Bernstein of Milwaukee who chanted the Jewish rites of the ceremony.

Dancing was the first part of the jollification program and was started about 5 o'clock and indulged in for an hour previous to the real marriage ceremony which was performed in the center of the hall beneath a hoopy (canopy) under which the rabbi, bride and groom and the near relatives stood during the marriage ceremonies.

The hoopy-ga-deshen (ceremony) was started with the chanting of the Rabbi followed by the glass heahage, (prayer). The rabbi then gave the bride and groom wine to drink and broke the glass beneath his feet after both had partaken. The zula (wedding certificate) was repeated in Jewish by Rabbi Bernstein and afterward translated in the English language by L. B. Orenberg of La Crosse. Bozel-tuff (congratulations) were then in order and the many friends of the couple showered them with kisses and congratulatory blessings.

The bride's gown was of white embroidered mull, princess style, trimmed with val lace and white satin ribbon. She wore the conventional bridal veil with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried sweet peas.

It is the Jewish custom to burn candles during the ceremony and each of the guests was given a candle which was lighted at the time the wedding vows were taken. This adds solemnity to the ceremony. Some 200 candles were burning at the time. Another Jewish custom which is the opposite from American custom is the wearing of hats by the male guests.

A wedding march in which every guest joined, followed, the guests ending the march at the supper tables where the wedding banquet was served. The menu consisted of gifilthy (chipped fish balls boiled) herring, ookerties (pickles, boat (bread), kaze (cheese), olives, bygal (doughnuts), lacoch (cake), trinking, (drinks, pop, lemonade, beer, etc.).

Ater the repast dancing was again resumed and lasted until the early hours of the morning. Gustard's orchestra furnished the music and Gilmore Gustad rendered some fine xylophone selections during the evening.

Many telegrams of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Gross as well as hundreds of beautiful and costly wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross will reside in Black River Falls, where Mr. Gross has business interests.

Miss Bessie Merenberg of Denver san the old Jewish love song, "Under the Matzos Tree" after the wedding supper was finished.

As is the custom following the Jewish wedding ceremonies, a great many present assembled in the banquet room where the rabbies present were seated and received blessing from them, for which a small tip is proffered.

IN THE GOOD OLD FASHIONED DAYS

Powdered Wigs Formed an Important Adjunct to a Gentleman's Apparel.

It is safe to say that the majority of bald men of today would gladly revive the old, dignified custom if they could. But, they can do the next best thing to it; that is, hold on to what hair they have.

OMAHA MAYOR DENOUNCED

OMAHA, Neb., Aug 10.—Demanding the removal of Mayor Dahlman and four membsrs of the Omaha fire and police board, the anti-saloon league today prepared a complaint to be presented to Gov. Schallenberger The anti-saloon officials allege that the municipal officers are derelict in their duty of enforcing the "daylight" saloon law.

Commissioners named in the complaint are C. J. Karback, W. F. Wappith, W. J. Hunter and Fred Hoye.

Mayor Dahlman characterized the complainants as "four flushers."

$100,000,000 SPENT YEARLY IN VACATIONS

CHICAKO, Aug. 10.—Now the cost of summer vacations has been computed, compiled and totaled—at $525,000 for Chicago and a grand total for the United States of $100,000,000 of which sum the beneficiaries are legion and largely rural. Greater efficiency is the reason given for these vacation expenses, a business investment. According to a schedule compiled, vacation expenses average $151.79 of which business houses pay a share. The west is catching up with the east in this regard but Uncle Sam, as result of custom, stands the heaviest expense for the junketing of employes, the total being six million dollars each year, according to the figures of an official in the treasury department. Uncle Sam's employes are by custom entitled to thirty days' vacation during the year and an extra thirty days' sick leave, receiving full pay for the sixty days of idleness. Fully seventy-five per cent of the number contrive to get their full time on "sick leave." No government employe was ever known to suffer from overwork, and it is questionable if they need vacations for recuperative purposes. Other investigations that have recently been made indicate that there are many superfluous persons in the employ of the government, about three men being paid to do the work that could be handled by two with ease, so that if true economy were practiced in all government departments, that deficit in the treasury that is so much talked of would soon be eliminated. The piece hands who take vacations lose the wages they might have earned during that time while salaried men in many cases receive full pay during their idleness. Savings and surplusses are hit harder by the summer outing than any other item, it being now-a-days a conspicuous factor in the spending of the $1,455,019,473 which industries in the United States annually disburse. The average national daily wage is $1.32, and average daily salary is $3.00. There is distributed among 519,751 salaried persons, and among 5,470,321 wage earners a total of $3,186,301,763.

TAFT TRYING TO SAVE MR. TAWNEY

It develops that the reason Mr. Taft will spend an evening in Winona and only an hour in La Crosse is that Congressman Tawney's skin is in danger at the next election, owing to his record, and his recent vote on the tariff bill, and the president seeks to bolster up his game with the people of his district. Although Congressman Esch of this city voted the same way, President Taft does not consider that any opposition has developed to Mr. Esch and that the latter consequently does not need any help just now. Tawney's opponents put up a hot fight against him before and they publicly declare they will get his scalp next time, with the added ammunition of his record in the past congress.

"I've known folks who never really growed up," said Mrs. Pestus, "and while I wouldn't be in their boots, I sort o' envy them.'

CHILD PARALYSIS IS A GERM DISEASE

DOCTORS CANNOT COMBAT IT

Information Is As Yet Too Undecided to Permit of Diagnosis and Treatment

La Crosse physicians are puzzled with the new Anterior Polio-myelitis, or child paralysis which caused the death of little Elise Johnson of Indian Hill, and has raged as an epidemic in some of the cities of the northwest. It is believed to be a germ disease, but no specific has yet been found owing to the fact the physicians know little about the trouble. One physician discussing it said:

"It acts queerly, paralyzing the spine, and attacks children from two to eight years of age.

"Its effects are severe, though the percentage of deaths is not large. It leaves the child usually in a paralyzed state, for which medical science has thus far been unable to discover a cure. We can hardly say there is a direct cure, though the disease is best treated by nerve specialists.

"Study has shown that the disease may be slightly contagious. The state takes no chances and regulations are to isolate the case and disinfect to some extent. In case of death, a private funeral must be held under the law.

Affects Spinal Cord

"Infantile paralysis is a disease of early life, affecting certain parts of the spinal cord or legs. It usually begins with what the parents think is stomach trouble. A day or two of fever, with lack of appetite, deranged bowels, nausea and general pains, is usually followed by a complete paralysis of the legs or a leg and an arm. The paralysis is usually complete by the time it is discovered, and it comes rather suddenly, being discovered usually when the mother tries to get the child up in the morning.

"It is very rarely fatal. The fever ends when the paralysis begins. Improvement usually takes place in the paralyzed limbs, motion being regained up to a certain point, beyond which recovery of motion is not to be expected.

Is Germ Disease

"It is a germ disease. The nature of the germ is unknown. It is thought by some to be contagious and by others to be infectious. Epidemics of large proportions have been known. In Eau Claire and western Wisconsin last year several hundred cases occurred. In Vermont a few years ago a large number of children were afflicted, and it was noticed that hens were also subject to the disease. It is supposed to be due to a germ which spreads through dust, dirt and earth.

"Nothing definite being known of the nature of the germ, it is hard to say how best to prevent the disease. General cleanliness of children, simple diet, the avoidance of uncooked fruit and vegetables, and keeping children from playing in the dirt are advised. Sanitary surroundings tend to give immunity. In many places the cellars of houses in which the disease occurs are damp and unsanitary. Contact with children having the disease should be avoided."

Health Officer Murphy says there were four cases in Milwaukee last winter.

CANAL FINANCED BY BELMONT

August Belmont turning the first sod in the Cape Cod canal and map showing the location of this canal.

BOURNEDALE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Last week August Belmont, with fitting ceremonies and surrounded by a group of friends and well-wishers, turned the first sod in the first great American canal financed by an individual. Those present included the men who, with Belmont, are interested in the canal and the New York engineers who will have the construction.

The canal was started on the old Perry estate here and the spade used by Mr. Belmont was of silver. The canal is to cost about $5,000,000, and when completed will form a part of the great Atlantic coast system of inside waterways from Massachusetts to the gulf. This canal will save not only much time in going from New York to Boston, but will prevent many wrecks on the reefs around Cape Cod.

RANK G. ROTH TO OIL STREETS

lderman from 7th Ward Says New System Will Save Money; Backs Up His Assertion

E CITES KANSAS CITY

wo Applications of Oil a Year Will Do Away With Thousands of Dollars' Sprinkling Cost

To oil the streets of La Crosse, stead of sprinkling with water as as been done heretofore, is the pro- sition of Alderman Frank Roth.

Mr. Roth will bring in a resolu- on at the next meeting of the coun- l, Friday evening, that the board f public works be instructed to try st the oiling system on some cer- in street in the city for the balance f the season. He has investigated e cost closely and will show that l will save the city thousands of ollars annually in sprinkling ex- ense and will be beneficial to the reets, eliminate all dust from the vements, and save the city money equipment, sprinkling carts, etc.

Crude petroleum has been used clusively for sprinkling the streets Kansas City, Mo., for several ars. It can be purchased at Kan- s City for 87 cents per barrel, ac- rding to figures in Mr. Roth's ands.

It is necessary to sprinkle with l only twice each year—spring and l. Two applications are usually ade to begin with, after which the goes down into the pavement and o two applications a year will keep ay all dust.

n Kansas City the city officials d citizens are well pleased with . The old system of water sprink- g every hour cost three times as uch there as the oil system. The ntary sprinkling wagons can be ed for oil.

RIES ARE OUT TO CONTROL STATE

ONROE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Chellis Wyland, Appleton, representing hairman Edmonds of the Republi- n state central committee, is mak- g a tour of the counties of the te to organize Wisconsin for the l campaign. The fight for con- l of the state is to be made all ng the line, according to the state- ents credited to Wayland, and is be centered upon Senator La Fol- tte and insurgent congressmen who e declared to be outside of the Re- blican fold.

r. Wayland said the Wisconsin gressives would be stripped of ir patronage, as the national ad- inistration does not consider them ther Republican or Democratic, and l leave them out in the cold. He s the "regulars" had things well ed in Washington and that when ngressmen did not behave the pow- s that-be will get even with them y taking it out of their districts.

e said that Assemblyman Ingalls f Racine would be a candidate ainst Henry Allen Cooper for Con- ss in this district and it is evi- nt that the support of the state achine will be for Ingalls.

r. Wayland, it is understood, is ongly urging State Senator Hudnall r the Republican gubernatorial mination and State Chairman Ed- nds, with whom he is connected business, for the United States natorial nomination against La llette.

HROW SEARCH LIGHT N CITY OF PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—"The ay things went on here was some- ing terrible. Why directors of the l school board came here under he influence of liquor and wanted o dance with the teachers and the hildren."

This statement, credited to Mrs. W. D. McAuliffe, janitress of the old Second ward school, promises to stir up things in the ranks of the di- rectors today.

The alleged "joy parties" of the school board were brought to light through the auditing of the books of the Second ward school. It is al- leged that "Eddie Edwards," who was secretary of the board last year, had padded his expense accounts."

Mrs. McAuliffe volunteered to throw more light on the investiga- tion and told of various expenses of the board which were never received. She said a crate of tomatoes was de- livered at the school building at one time but she would not receive them as "the school was not a boarding house."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The first official act looking toward a cru- sade against vice was taken today by the American federation of Catholic societies, now in session, by the adop- tion of the report of the resolutions committee.

The La Crosse Stone company, the only oth- er bidder, offered to furnish the rock and do the work, including roll- ing it with a horse roller for $2.36 per cubic yard, or to furnish and spread material at $2.16 per yard.

WANT TAFT HERE ALLOTTED TIME

Board of Trade Does Not Take Kindly to Plan to Give Visit to Milwaukee

Board of Directors Meet and Congressman is Expected Back Today

The La Crosse Board of Trade, which originated the plan to bring President Taft to La Crosse on his western trip does not take kindly to the plan of Milwaukee state fair au- thorities to have the president devote all the time he spends in Wisconsin as a "big show" at the state fair at the expense of his visit, or any portion thereof, to La Crosse.

At a meeting of the directors yes- terday afternoon, a committee con- sisting of Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, President John Dengler and George W. Burton was appointed to take care of the Taft matter, and this committee will confer with Congress- man J. J. Esch who is expected back from Washington today in an effort to have the president spend as much time as possible in La Crosse. Ac- cording to the plans as announced Taft would be in La Crosse for about an hour on the afternoon of Sept. 17, but if the plans of the Milwau- keeans are carried out he will spend about all of that day in Milwaukee at the state fair and will fly through La Crosse at night on his way to Winona where he feels it necessary to speak in behalf of Congressman Tawney to bolster up the decreasing constituency of that gentleman in the congressional district, as a result of his various unpopular positions in congress, including his vote in favor of the increased tariff.

A dispatch sent from Milwaukee says the Milwaukee people expect to get Esch to help persuade Taft to give up the whole of Sept. 17th to Milwaukee, but Secretary Utermoehl of the board of trade feels that Mr. Esch would use no such effort to deprive his own district of a visit from the chief executive.

The board of trade originated the plan to bring Taft here and the com- mittee it appointed will act to take charge of the arrangements for his visit and entertainment while here.

MEN GET 23 CENTS AFTER FIRST YEAR

In view of this fact I do not feel that this board would be justified in being bound altogether by the wage scales of other Wisconsin cities.

The street car employees should be men of intelligence and good judg- ment. They are entrusted with the property of the company and the life and limb of the passengers and of the pedestrians on the street. Be- sides the actual physical labor en- tailed these items should be consid- ered.

Another factor which should en- ter into the wage question is the pay received by other crafts in La Crosse. According to the record (Page 87) it appears that the street railway em- ployees are not receiving in propor- tion to the labor and skill requir- ed, the wages received by other crafts.

I did not think a further investi- gation of the books necessary as the record shows that the company has paid dividends over and above the permanent improvements and better- ments put in during the last several years. Furthermore according to the testimony of Mr. Edwards (Page 162 of the record) he some time ago promised a raise to a portion of the men.

One of the scales introduced into the record by the company is that of Racine, Wisconsin. Wages paid there are: Minimum, nineteen (19) cents an hour; maximum, twenty-four (24) cents an hour.

Superintendent Shaw says (Page 218 of the record) in answer to the question, "Do you consider that there is about he same amount of work in La Crosse as there is on the Racine line?" said, "I think it is about the same."

However I do not think the pres- ent financial condition of the La Crosse company would warrant me in fixing th maximum scale at twen- ty-four cents, the Racine scale. I con- sider twenty-three as high as the La Crosse company should pay at present. However for reasons herein- after given I think the sliding scale should be materially reduced.

President Edwards contends that the company is not at the present time making a dividend sufficient so that it can afford to pay more wages. Whether these dividends are based upon the actual cash put into the road or otherwise does not appear to my satisfaction in the record. In or- der to get at this question it would be necessary to go back into the books from the organization of the road. This the management indicat- ed they thought unnecessary and in- asmuch as the inability of the road to pay is an affirmative defense and up to the road to prove the board left the matter with the case intro- duced as the company wished it. Fur- thermore I think we should take in- to consideration in this connection the further statement of Mr. Ed- wards(Page 163 of the record) "You could have the books but Mr. West couldn't very well testify in regard to it.He keeps the books but I would like to have the books examined by someone who understands them." If the secretary who keeps the books could not understand them I consid- er it useless for anyone else to at- tempt to do so.

For the reasons given and upon the whole record I therefore find and adjudge that the wage scale to be in force for a term of one year from June 21st, 1909, be and it is hereby fixed at:

Nineteen (19) cents per hour for the first six (6) months of service.

Twenty (20) cents per hour for the second six (6) months of service,

Twenty-three (23) cents per hour second year and thereafter.

Time and one-half for overtime.

All my findings here are, under agreement, to apply to the conduct- ors and motormen employed on the La Crosse and Onalaska street rail- way lines and those employed by the La Crosse City Railway company.

Recommendations

While this disposes of the two questions submitted to the board of arbitration for settlement I feel that we would not be doing our duty by the company, the employees or the public did we not discuss other ques- tions of public import which came up from time to time during the tak- ing of testimony by the board.

Sliding Scale Arbitrarily Adopted

On the question of sliding scale it appears from the record (Testimony of Mr. Edwards, Page 171) that the sliding scale was arbitrarily adopted on this road because other roads had adopted it. According to Superinten- dent Shaw (Page of Record 182), giving his opinion off hand, most of the men quit inside of two or three years. On the Onalaska line (Page of Record 199) there is a flat rate in existence. Both roads are under the same superintendent and I un- derstand under practically the same management. The conditions on one road do not materially differ from conditions on the other.

Superintendent Shaw, an experi- enced street railroad man, says if the steam roads do not have a slid- ing scale he does not know of any reason why there should be any dif- ference between steam and electric roads. (Page of Record 192.)

Mr. W. M. Layland, who has act- ed on the Joint Protective Commit- tee in connection with twenty-two lines of steam railways west of the Mississippi river, says that with the exception of a few roads the new men get the same rate of pay as the old- er men on the road (Page of Record 334.) That on the few roads paying the "ninety cent dollar" this is done only for from six to nine months af- ter which the men reach the flat scale. (Page of Record 332.)

According to President Edwards (Page 168 of the Record) a sliding scale is based on the experience of the man. But when a man quits or is discharged and returns to work even in a short time, he is put to work at the foot of the scale again and, according to the testimony of the president, the company cannot consider the experience on the ques- tion of wages (Testimony of Presi- dent Edwards Page 169 of Record.) Of the sixty-three men discharged or "resigned" under Superintendent Shaw there were several who had pri- or to that time been discharged or resigned, and upon resuming work again for the company each had to begin at the foot of the sliding scale. (Pages of Record 341, 342, 343, 344, 353.) Under the sliding scale extra men are compelled to do the same work as the older men at much less pay (Page of Record 348, 352, 353.) The record further shows that five men getting the highest wage, twen- ty-one cents, "resigned" or were dis- charged during a space of time of a little over a year under Superinten- dent Shaw (Page of record 341 et seq.) and that there were only eighteen twenty-one cent men on the road June 1, 1909. (Page of Record 350.) As it is reasonable to suppose that some of the men entered that class during the year previous, the percentage of men who were dis- charged or "resigned" from the highest wage class must have been at least 33 1-3. Of the remaining forty-five who were discharged or "resigned," a great number were just about to reach a higher wage class. Out of sixty-two men employed June 1, 1909, thirty-three were new men who had not been on the road a year and were being paid the lowest wage. (Page of Record 350)—a large per centage when one considers the age of the road. A very natural desire to keep down the operating expenses by replacing the older and better paid employes with inexperienced men at a smaller wage may explain this condition.

Reviewing the evidence of the working of the sliding scale which I have before me, I am impelled to suggest that it is vicious in that it invites unjust discrimination in the discharging of employes and tends to a disregard by utility companies of that competence and experience in employes which is the basis of ef- ficient public service. In the pres- ent decision it was determined to re- return the sliding scale feature dur- ing one year only, making it cover a sort of apprenticeship or period of probation, but it is a serious question whether a policy so dangerous should be tolerated, even for this brief time.

Time Schedule Should be Shortened

The testimony shows (Page of Record 222) that the company has been seriously considering giving re- lief to its men by cutting out the dead time during which the em- ployees are compelled to hold them- selves in readiness, though drawing no pay, between the various periods of work, and also by a reasonable shortening of the platform time. The dead time should be cut out if pos- sible, and a schedule arranged by which the men could have regular meal times and, if practicable, have regular and continuous hours of la- bor.

To illustrate my point, one run from 6:05 A. M. to 11:35 P. M. has thirteen hours and thirty-five min- utes platform time, while the men have to put in seventeen hours and thirty minutes in completing the day's work on account of dead time in the middle of the schedule of the day's work from 12 o'clock noon un- til 4:20 P. M., a period of 4 hours and 20 minutes which is lost to them, but for which they drew no pay. The schedules of the other runs are on about the same basis.

It is a matter of common knowl- edge that a long schedule with dead time in it is proportionately much harder than one of not much shorter duration having no dead time. This dead time is detrimental and a hard- ship to the men and of no value to the company.

The length of the day's work un- der the present schedule could be im- proved greatly if the dead time could be cut out and the time be put in by the men as continuous service. For this reason I recommend that the company take up this matter with the end in view of cutting out this dead time in its present sched- ule as much as practicable.

Toilet Conveniences

The evidence in the case before us shows one condition common to some other street railway lines in the state, but nevertheless wrong. It is the lack of proper toilet conven- iences at the ends of the runs. I recommend that the local company remedy these conditions as soon as practicable. The length of the time schedule demands that, as is done in a great many other progressive cities, they furnish these conveniences either by establishing them new or mak- ing arrangements for the use of such proper conveniences as are already established property of private indi- viduals and easy of access from the car line.

The testimony in this case reveals to us that provision is made in some cities along these lines and I believe that it is a long step in the right direction.

Public Utilities Should Increase Wages

In connection with the matter of wages of employees of public utility corporations I recommend that the state railroad commission when de- termining the question of lowering or raising the rates charged the pub- lic whether it be for street car fare, electric or gas light or prices of the product of any other public utility corporation, take into consideration first whether the employees are re- ceiving adequate remuneration for their labor.

From my experience and the tes- timony in this case I believe the em- ployees of the majority of the public utility corporations of Wisconsin to- day are greatly underpaid in compar- ison with the wages of other craft. It is admitted in this record by Mr. Shaw, Superintendent of the Street Railway of La Crosse, that the mo- tormen and conductors in Madison are working for the modest amount of 10 cent per hour. These condi- tions are not calculated to induce men to come to Wisconsin from other states with a view of making it their permanent home. While the wages paid by public service companies have not increased as have the wag- es of other craft in proportion to the increased cost of living, it is true that in most instances these employes are receiving all they have ever de- manded. However this does not justify the condition, for it is due to the fact that the men realize that, being unorganized and in great cas- es few in number in a given locali- ty, they are not in a position to en- force a demand for better pay and therefore must accept the terms of their employers. Being unorganized they appreciate the fact that to make a demand in many instances means discharge "for the good of the ser- vice."

The state of Wisconsin should en- large the public utilities commission so that a tribunal would be furnished to which labor could appeal for the adjustment of such questions as the wage question, an economic problem which we have always with us, and dispute over which is frequently at- tended by loss and violence which might be obviated by the establish- ment of a legal method of adjudica- tion.

Act of Governor Highly Commendable

During the recent lockout, a re- quest was made upon the Governor to send the state troops to this city to maintain law and order, but the chief executive of the state did not deem it wise to comply with the re- quest until he could be more fully advised that the county of La Crosse had exhausted all of its resources in that direction. It is due to his wis- dom that the state troops were not sent to La Crosse, and subsequent events have fully justified his posi- tion.

Flagrant Violation of Law

In answer to the request of the men for more wages the company gave as its opinion that it could not afford to pay more. In reply the question arose whether the cutting out of the unnecessary free passes, those not furnished actual employees, would not raise the revenue of the company. In the investigation of this question some very interesting testimony was unexpectedly brought out.

The evidence showed that the same police department that called in all the city and county officials and de- putized them as police officers to up- hold the law, had itself been system- atically and flagrantly violating the state law by accepting free passes on the lines of the La Crosse City Rail- way company (See testimony of Mr. Shaw, superintendent of the La Crosse City Railway, Page 204 of the record and other testimony.) Further than that the testimony of John Har- rier, assistant superintendent (page of record 325 and 326) tends to show that he, under the instructions of the superintendent, instead of issuing a written bulletin as is the customary method of issuing orders, told the conductors by word of mouth to al- low all officers to ride free. He fur- ther stas (Same pages of record) that this order was issued verbally because of the fact that it was a violation of law. During this time that the policemen were riding free the police department was buying tickets. (Page of record 324). Ac- cording to the testimony the police- men rode free from about May 1908 until about May 1909. Frank Yol- ton, police sargeant, testified (Page of record 197) that the police de- partment bought tickets in $5, $19 and $20 lots, a fact that, in conjunc- tion with the circumstance that they seem to have received ample free passes, invites further inquiry.

This testimony being competent only on the question of how many free passes were issued and to what extent the revenues of the company were thus reduced, the board of ar- bitration did not feel justified in go- ing as fully into the matter as the facts that were brought out would seem to warrant. However, that the police department and car company openly violated the law which the police officers at least were sworn to uphold, is of public concern, and I recommend in this connection that the matter be taken up by the pro- per authorities for further invsti- gation.

Bad Bookkeeping

Incidentally, I heartily endorse the policy advanced by the state rail- road commission for a uniform sys- tem of bookkeeping for public utility corporations. That it is needed is shown by the testimony of President Edwards in this case when asked concerning a certain stock transac- tion, (page of record 163) and when he replied, "The statements will show that. You could have the books but Mr. West (the company secre- tary) couldn't very well testify in re- gard to it. He keeps the books, but I would like to have the books ex- amined by someone who understands them."

Conclusion

In arriving at the conclusions herein set forth I have endeavored to weigh the testimony carefully, taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances surrounding each question at issue. I have not been unmindful of the fact that great in- terests are involved in the contro- versy before this board, the com- pany and its rights on the one hand, the men and their rights on the oth- er, and the public, although not an active party before this board, deep- ly interested and vitally affected by the decision to be reached. I have given the matters involved much time and attention, carefully weighing the testimony and arguments and the rights, duties and interests of all par- ties involved.

Lansing Turns out With Band and Oratory and Gives La Crosse Visitors Hearty Welcome

A refreshing rain fell gently upon the arid earth this morning, and with it there came down a gladsome throng to jam the gangplank and cover the decks of the great J. S. Rather than check the onrush to the big Lansing excursion, the precipitation seemed to lend vivacity and a quickening beauty to the excursionists. The boat was 20 minutes late, and as she cast off her hawsers at 1:10 she resembled a splendid painting in water colors in which a blend of gay colored feminine costumes, watered in spots by the steady blue and gray of the men, made brilliant the expanse of white steamer sides and the frame of drab waters about it. There they were, crowded deck on deck, laughing and joking unconscious of the sprinkling—a splendid etching from real life the high light of which centered upon the tonic-proof bald head of Secretary Harry Taggart, whose Hibernian countenance was stabbed with a smile as broad as the map of Tipperary.

Big Attendance

Karl G. Kurtenacker—ever notice Karl's eyes—was wielding the auction hammer for tickets, and they kept him so busy that frequently he could not take time to return customers their change. Still it rained, and still they came—100-200-300-400—and then Karl lost count, but it was far and away the biggest business men's excursion ever.

For words and music to that effect. ### REDMEN MEET IN GALESVILLE

The annual state convention of the Independent Order of Redmen convened this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Galesville, Wis. This morning there was a conclave of the big chiefs. The regular sessions of the convention will begin tomorrow after the regular organization has been completed. The convention will last through Wednesday and Thursday.

WANT TAFT HERE ALLOTTED TIME

Board of Trade Does Not Take Kindly to Plan to Give Visit to Milwaukee

ASK ESCH'S INTERVENTION

Board of Directors Meet and Congressman is Expected Back Today

The La Crosse Board of Trade, which originated the plan to bring President Taft to La Crosse on his western trip does not take kindly to the plan of Milwaukee state fair authorities to have the president devote all the time he spends in Wisconsin as a "big show" at the state fair at the expense of his visit, or any portion thereof, to La Crosse.

At a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon, a committee consisting of Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, President John Dengler and George W. Burton was appointed to take care of the Taft matter, and this committee will confer with Congressman J. J. Esch who is expected back from Washington today in an effort to have the president spend as much time as possible in La Crosse. According to the plans as announced Taft would be in La Crosse for about an hour on the afternoon of Sept. 17, but if the plans of the Milwaukeeans are carried out he will spend about all of that day in Milwaukee at the state fair and will fly through La Crosse at night on his way to Winona where he feels it necessary to speak in behalf of Congressman Tawney to bolster up the decreasing constituency of that gentleman in the congressional district, as a result of his various unpopular positions in congress, including his vote in favor of the increased tariff.

A dispatch sent from Milwaukee says the Milwaukee people expect to get Esch to help persuade Taft to give up the whole of Sept. 17th to Milwaukee, but Secretary Utermoehl of the board of trade feels that Mr. Esch would use no such effort to deprive his own district of a visit from the chief executive.

The board of trade originated the plan to bring Taft here and the committee it appointed will act to take charge of the arrangements for his visit and entertainment while here.

SULLIVAN WENT AT A FAST CLIP

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 10.—John L. Sullivan, once champion pugilist of the world, is gaining new renown as a "joy rider."

John L., with a friend, Jacob Stone, will appear here in court on Friday, if summons can be served on them.

WINONA MAN FOR G. A. R. COMMANDER

MINNEAPOLIS GETS BOTH

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Tom Hughes and Otis Clymer have been released by Washington and will at once join the Minneapolis team.

They were given a choice of clubs with which they might play and both promptly expressed a desire to be with Jimmy Collins. Though Hughes have shown an occasional flash of his old form he has had a poor season. Clymer has not fully recovered frfom an injury sustained last May.

NEW EVIDENCE THAT SUTTON WAS KILLED

Sergeant Todd Says He Saw the Shot Fired that Killed Sutton; Sensational Testimony

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 10.—Corroborating in almost every detail the contention of Lieut. Sutton's mother that he was shot at Annapolis by other officers and practically accusing them of a conspiracy to hide the murder, Sergt. Archie Todd, corporal of the guard on the night of the tragedy, is here today ready to remove the blot of suicide from Sutton's name. Todd declares he saw the shot fired that pierced Sutton's brain.

Following the receipt of a telegram at the Charlestown navy yard that Todd was wanted at the Annapolis inquiry the sergeant was located at the state rifle range and willingly told of the tragedy.

"I was corporal of the guard the night Lieut. Sutton was shot. I was on duty at midnight and from the place where I was standing I saw the figure of a man about 250 feet away. He was in his shirt sleeves. I did not know then who it was. I saw Lieutenants Adams andOsterman and recognized them. They were near me. The man in the shirtsleeves started to run and I heard a voice cry: 'Stop running, you are under arrest.' The man ran on and once more I heard the same voice cry out loudly: 'Stop running or I'll shoot.'

"The man paid no attention and ran on and then the next moment I saw a flash ad heard a revolver report. There were three other shots and the man who was running dropped.

"I ran over to him and bent over. It was Lieut. Sutton. I saw a hole in the man's forehead and another back of the left ear."

"Could you identify the voice that called out to Sutton to stop?" Todd was asked.

"I could not. It came from the direction where Lieutenants Adams Osterman were standing."

"Did the flash of the revolver come from the same spot?"

"That I will tell on the stand," was the reply.

Sergeant Todd is about 28 years of age. He has been in the service since about November 1903.

The general impression here today seems to be that the introduction of the Schwartz letters will not prove as helpful as has been expected, to the defense. They may enlist more sympathy in favor of the mother of the dead lieutenant, even though some of her charges in the letters were more sensational than she might have made in calmer moments.

A. V. INGHAM TO REMAIN PASTOR

At the quarterly conference, held at the Caledonia street Methodist church, Monday night, the affairs of the church were found to be in splendid condition.

Very complimentary resolutions were passed appreciative of the work and character of the district superintendent, Doctor Vance, and the pastor, the Rev. A. V. Ingham, and a unanimous invitation was extended to the latter to return as pastor for the ensuing conference year.

$2,000 AWAITS LITTLE WILLIAM

Letter Dated 1868 From Sister in Cardiff New Clew in the Thomas Estate

A letter written to him by his sister, Margaretha Jones, dated from Cardiff, Wales, in 1868 and received by him while he was a student at the college of New Jersey is the last known communication that the late Dr. W. D. Thomas had with any of his relatives.

In this letter which has just been discovered Mrs Jones speaks of the health of "Charlotte, Jacob, Sarah and Mary and her husband and little William." The epistle was discovered by the administrators of the estate, tucked away in the bottom of a drawer in his desk.

It is now believed that the little William referred to is the only living relative to the late Dr. Thomas and efforts are being made to find him. He is believed to be a son of the woman who wrote the letter.

An insurance policy in the Bankers' Life Insurance company for $2,000 is made payable to Mr. Thomas's heirs and cannot be collected by the estate unless this boy, who is thought to be about forty years of age, can be found.

KENYON HAS NEW OFFER TO REMOVE

Unless negotiations on foot today miscarry, the R. L. Kenyon company of this city, manufacturers of power boat supplies, will remove from La Crosse to Waukesha, Wis., in the near future.

A committee of Waukesha business men composed of Messrs. Harry Dreyer, W. B. Hartshorn, M. S. Snyder and R. P. Breeze of that city arrived in La Crosse this morning and have been in conference with Mr. Kenyon and officers of the company the greater part of the day.

They offer the company a site and will erect a factory for the local concern at once.

FRANK G. ROTH TO OIL STREETS

Alderman from 7th Ward Says New System Will Save Money; Backs Up His Assertion

HE CITES KANSAS CITY

Two Applications of Oil a Year Will Do Away With Thousands of Dollars' Sprinkling Cost

To oil the streets of La Crosse, instead of sprinkling with water as has been done heretofore, is the proposition of Alderman Frank Roth.

Mr. Roth will bring in a resolution at the next meeting of the council, Friday evening, that the board of public works be instructed to try out the oiling system on some certain street in the city for the balance of the season. He has investigated the cost closely and will show that oil will save the city thousands of dollars annually in sprinkling expense and will be beneficial to the streets, eliminate all dust from the pavements, and save the city money in equipment, sprinkling carts, etc.

Crude petroleum has been used exclusively for sprinkling the streets in Kansas City, Mo., for several years. It can be purchased at Kansas City for 87 cents per barrel, according to figures in Mr. Roth's hands.

It is necessary to sprinkle with oil only twice each year—spring and fall. Two applications are usually made to begin with, after which the oil goes down into the pavement and the two applications a year will keep down all dust.

In Kansas City the city officials and citizens are well pleased with oil. The old system of water sprinkling every hour cost three times as much there as the oil system. The ordinary sprinkling wagons can be used for oil.

TORIES ARE OUT TO CONTROL STATE

MONROE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Chellis Wayland Appleton, representing Chairman Edmonds of the Republican state central committee, is making a tour of the counties of the state to organize Wisconsin for the new campaign. The fight for control of the state is to be made all along the line, according to the statements credited to Wayland, and is to be centered upon Senator La Follette and insurgent congressmen who are declared to be outside of the Republican fold.

Mr. Wayland said the Wisconsin Progressives would be stripped of their patronage, as the national administration does not consider them either Republican or Democratic, and will leave them out in the cold. He said the "regulars" had things well salted in Washington and that when congressmen did not behave the powers-that-be will get even with them by taking it out of their districts.

He said that Assemblyman Ingalls of Racine would be a candidate against Henry Allen Cooper for Congress in this district and it is evident that the support of the state machine will be for Ingalls.

Mr. Wayland, it is understood, is quietly urging State Senator Hudnall for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and State Chairman Edmonds, with whom he is connected in business, for the United States senatorial nomination against La Follette.

THROW SEARCH LIGHT ON CITY OF PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—"The way things went on here was something terrible. Why directors of the old school board came here under the influence of liquor and wanted to dance with the teachers and the children."

This statement, credited to Mrs. W. D. McAuliffe, janitress of the old Second ward school, promises to stir up things in the ranks of the directors today.

The alleged "joy parties" of the school board were brought to light through the auditing of the books of the Second ward school. It is alleged that "Eddie Edwards," who was secretary of the board last year, had padded his expense accounts."

Mrs. McAuliffe volunteered to throw more light on the investigation and told of various expenses of the board which were never received. She said a crate of tomatoes was delivered at the school building at one time but she would not receive them as "the school was not a boarding house."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The first official act looking toward a crusade against vice was taken today by the American federation of Catholic societies, now in session, by the adoption of the report of the resolutions committee.

COMMITTEE TO BE UNION MEN WAGE MATTER STILL BEING THRASHED BY ST. CAR BOARD

The decision of the board of arbitration now attempting to settle the differences between the street car company and its employes had not been given out at 3:30 this afternoon, and the board members seem to make little progress in their endeavor to reach a satisfactory conclusion. It was presumed that the decision would be announced this afternoon, but a determination as to the wage scale may not be reached today.

It is believed that Commissioner Humphrey desires to give the men a substantial advance, and that Mr. Hartwell will concur in this. Mr. Ferris, of the board, is said on the other hand to believe that the pay now received is not unfair to the men, although he would consent to a modest increase. It is upon this point that the commissioners are said to be most divided.

It is believed that a decision has been reached, and may be concurred in unanimously, to the effect that the grievance committee shall consist exclusively of union men.

ACCUSED OF GRAB LIVELY FIGHT ON

STIRS IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Vast Water Power Said to Have Been Handed Over; Roosevelt's Policy Set Aside

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug 10.—There is much stir among the delegates and visitors to the Irrigation Congress now assembled here over the charge made against one of its highest and most influential members. It is stated positively that "there is proof at hand that one of the first official acts of President Taft's secretary of the interior, Richard Achilles Ballinger, was to knowingly turn over to the waterpower monopoly millions of dollars worth of powersites along Montana rivers.

"Water power will run the railroads of the future. Not only that the electric power created by the mountain torrents will be sent across the plains to operate the mills and factories of many states of the nation and most important of all this wonderful new power will pump endless floods of water upon millions of acres of arid lands and so make new homes for millions of Americans.

"But the water power trust will be in a position to exact tribute from every settler and from his children forever.

Roosevelt Suppressed Graft

"It was in the closing days of his administration that President Roosevelt learned of the wholesale seizing of waterpowers by the then forming trust. The grab was at its height Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield ended it by resuming government control of public lands containing power sites.

"It was generally supposed that Garfield was to remain in Taft's cabinet but on Feb. 15 he was asked by Taft to resign on March 4. Not knowing who the new secretary would be President Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield decided to lock all doors so that the new administration would find everything snug and the last thing President Roosevelt did at midnight on March 4 was to withdraw more land to the extent of 186,000,000 acres from the reach of land grabbers.

Ballinger Gives to the Trust

"The first thing Ballinger did after he was sworn into Taft's cbinet on March 5 was to begin to turn that land over to the half entrenched trust. The throwing open of these lands had progressed for a month when a rising tide of popular protest was heard at the White House and the clamor increasing Taft called Ballinger in to explain. Ballinger secured delay and meantime kept throwing land open to entry and was again called to the White House. This time the public was given to un-

MEAD STONE CO. GETS COUNTY JOB

The contract for furnishing material and doing the work of resurfacing the Holmen road from Onalaska to Holmen was let today by the committee on roads and bridges of the county board to the E. S. Mead Stone company. Their bid was $2.04 per cubic yard of 2,500 lbs. The La Crosse Stone company, the only other bidder, offered to furnish the rock and do the work, including rolling it with a horse roller for $2.36 per cubic yard, or to furnish and spread material at $2.16 per yard.

CHILD IS BITTEN IN FACE BY DOG

John Swords, the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. harles Swords, 1325 Farewell street, was bitten in the face by a dog with which he was playing this afternoon. The child was taken to the La Crosse hospital where his wounds were dressed by Dr. Callahan. He is not seriously injured.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug 10.—The third game of the series proved an easy victory for the Drillers yesterday, the Outcasts losing by the one sided score of 9 to 1. Paul Grimes, the old W.-I. league star, was batted from the box and "Uncle Tom" trotted in from first base to lobe the pill over but he fared badly and when the nine innings were over Superior had made a total of 19 hits, which was enough to win about three games.

This equals the record for hits in the Minny league the same number being made off Murray and Dauss by the Outcasts in the game here with Duluth July 1.

The way the Drillers fell on Paul Grimes' slants was just like taking candy from a baby. They batted him all over the lot, and Paul was forced to give up the ghost and Letcher was given a chance faring the same way. In addition to the heavy hitting of the Drillers, La Crosse made several costly errors which helped in the scoring.

Stremmel worked for the Superior team and hurled good ball, allowing but five scattered hits, which netted the Outcasts one lonely run. The Drillers gave him good support at all times but one error being registered on their side of the column.

A double header is being played this afternoon, to work off the tie game which the two teams played June 6. This will close the Driller's season with the La Crosse club. The score:

WAUSAU, Wis., Aug. 10.—Wausau took the fourth game of the series from Winona in one of the slowest games of the season, requiring two and a half hours to play. A three bagger by Burgoise, the fourteenth on the home grounds, brought in two runs in the fifth, giving Wausau the lead. With the bases full in the fourth Love made a three bagger scoring Winona's three runs.

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 10.—The Sox batted Worman out of the box in the second inning, in yesterday's game, pounding his delivery for six runs. He was relieved by Schroeder, who held Duluth safe for the rest of the game. Schmierler, the new recruit signed by Duluth, won his second game, pitching a good rate of ball. The score:

The Philadelphia Americans easily defeated Detroit yesterday afternoon by 7 to 1, the victory giving the home team two victories in the series to Detroit's one and making the battle for first place more exciting than ever. A crowd of 16,746 persons, the largest on record for a Monday game, excepting opening day, turning out.

Detroit played very bad ball in the field, being charged with eight errors of commission and offending on numerous occasions when they appeared to be badly rattled and failed to take advantage of opportunities offered them. In the third inning the home team scored two runs on four errors without making a hit.

Philadelphia put up a sensational game in the field, giving Krause such grand support that the visitors were able to score only one run, although they hit the ball much harder than the hit column indicates. Barry robbed the visitors of several hits while Hartzel and Oldring pulled down drives which looked good for extra bases. Baker was the batting star with two long drives, one of which cleared the right field fence for a home run.

Pitcher Donovan of Detroit was to have pitched yesterday, but he was served with a notice of suspension by President Johnson for disputing a decision in last Saturday's game while Manager Jennings was sent off the coaching lines for arguing with Umpire Evans.

Botson made it three straight from Chicago by winning, 2 to 1. A base on balls to Gessler in the ninth and Wagner's long hit, which would have been good for three bases, sent in the winning run. Hall was given his first tryout by Boston and did well.

Warhop pitched great ball for New York today, and Cleveland was beaten, 3 to 0. The Cleveland team made only three hits, each safety coming with two out, and did not get a man beyond second. Falkenberg also twirled cleverly, but hits were bunched on him in the first and eighth innings. Ball's' error helped New York to two runs.

St. Louis had on its batting clothes today, driving Witherup and Johnson from the rubber and defeated Washington, 8 to 7. Graham and Dineen were also chased from the rubber, but Bailey was invincible in the last five inpings. The fielding of McBride and the batting of Ferris was the feature.

The Pittsburg Nationals recovered from its batting slump with a vengeance today, getting seventeen hits off Boston's pitchers and winning by a score of 10 to 1. Ferguson was relieved in the third inning by Tuckey, after the locals had secured four runs in that period. Tuckey was also hit hard and Boston never had a chance to win. Maddox was strong at all times and secured three hits.

Chicago was outplayed in all departments of the game yesterday. Bell's great pitching and perfect support prevented Chicago from scoring at all. A pass, a sacrifice and McMillan's single scored for Brooklyn in the second. A wild pitch and two errors scored the other run.

McQuillan had Cincinnati completely at his mercy yesterday afternoon, only one man reaching third base. After two men were out in the eight inning. Ewing weakened temporarily, allowing two hits and giving three bases on balls, netting Philadelphia two runs.

New York won yesterday's game after a great struggle lasting ten innings, from St. Louis, 4 to 3. Raymond started on the mound for the Giants, but lost control in the eighth. Crandall finished up the game, and had little trouble disposing of Brosnahan's crew.

JOHNSON WIRES BERGER ON SCRAP

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Jack Johnson, who is sojourning here for a few days, has announced that he wired Sam Berger, manager for Jeffries at New York, to come on at once so that they can get together and discuss plans for a match.

Johnson requested Berger to be here not later than tomorrow afternoon as Johnson plans to leave for San Francisco tomorrow night. He goes to prepare for a bout with Jack O'Brien on Labor Day, Sept. 6. The bout is for twenty rounds.

Johnson says he will require about three weeks' training for the O'Brien match.

57 LOCOMOTIVES FOR JIM HILL LINES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 9.—James J. Hill's faith in the prosperity which is everywhere confidently expected to follow the revision of the tariff has been revealed in a contract for fifty-seven locomotives, which he has awarded to the Baldwin Locomotive works.

The cost of these engines is estimated at $1,000,000.

The contract which Baldwins have just obtained from the Hill lines is the second large one captured since May, in which month the Harriman lines gave an order for 118 locomotives, costing approximately $2,100,000. These orders leave no doubt in the minds of students of the business situation that the west and northwest are preparing for a great revival of trade.

The locomotives are for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads.

WEATHER CAUSE OF MANY FIRES

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 9.—"The present hot, dry weather has easily been either the direct or indirect cause of more than one-half the fires which have occurred in the state during the past thirty days," said State Fire Marshal T. M. Purtell today.

"This statement should perhaps be qualified by adding what has been the principal factor in the above result, namely the almost criminal carelessness or ignorance on the part of the public.

"One of the results of the hot weather is the more general use of gasoline or oil either for stoves or in pleasure crafts and during the past month more than one-half the reports of fires have given as the cause either the use of gasoline in some manner or carelessness with matches.

"Few people realize the extreme hazard there is in the use of gasoline at any time but more particularly during the hot weather as the higher temperature produces an increased vapor and a consequent increased danger.

CHINA WITHDRAWS; JAPAN REJOICES

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Japan is rejoicing today over China's withdrawal of objections to the plan of reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden railway in Southern Manchuria, interpreting China's action as a tacit admission of Japan's present mastery of the situation.

Only the unofficial notification of China's acceptance of Japan's position has been yet received.

It is considered impossible here that China will agree to Japan having an absolutely free hand in her Manchurian railway scheme but her present backdown will result in scant courtesy being shown her complaints in the future.

FRENZIED BOVINE HOOKS BOY'S EYES

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Joseph Scholtie of West Duluth, aged six years, was accidentally hooked in the left eye by a cow today, and the eyeball was gouged out by the tip of her horns. The boy was hurried to a hospital for treatment. The sight of the damaged eye is lost and physicians say the child had a close call from being killed. The cow was fighting flies with her head when she happened to strike the boy with one of her horns.

BURGLAR'S SHOT FATAL AT LAST

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 9.—John T. Carmody, mayor of Cedar Rapids, died at St. Luke's hospital at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was shot in his home by a burglar May 23, and typhoid fever developed before his wound had healed.

GUND'S GIRLS PICNIC

Girls employed in the Gund Bottling Works, to the number of 24 were treated to a launch ride and picnic at Dresden park Sunday by the brewing company and the affair was one which will be long remembered by the participants.

The new Bell-Singer launch carried the party to the park and a merry time was spent there. Despite the fact it was a strictly feminine affair the managers of the department and Adolph Schroeder and family managed to get in with the crowd and assist in the merry making.

Throwing horseshoes, baseball gafes, races, wading and many other forms of amusement were indulged in. A big picnic dinner was not the least of the attractions.

Let Me Tell You Something

In two months from now you'll all be thinking overcoats'

You'll also be doing some other kind of thinking—if you don't get in on our Big Removal Sale.

You'll wish you'd saved from $10 to $20 when you had the chance.

The same argument applies to suits.

Do you really realize what it means to you when we say "every yard must go regardless of everything."

It means that for $12.50 you can pick out any fabric in the store—suiting or overcoating, light, medium or heavy weight—and have it made to your order, any style you fancy.

It means that you will get a thoroughly well made, perfect fitting garment, for $10 to $20 less than any other tailor would make you the identical same thing.

And we back up our statement with our iron-clad guarantee of "Satisfaction or no Pay."

If the words "thrift" or "saving" have any meaning to you, you must come here right away and fix yourself out. In a very short while it'll be too late.

Nearly every man in La Crosse knows me, and I tell you right now it's a shame to make up such fabrics for that price.

MURDERER KILLS SELF IN CELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—With an iron chain wrenched from a cot in his cell, James A. Hearn, charged with hacking his wife to death with a meat cleaver, hanged himself in the Queens County jail yesterday. Hearn fastened the chain to the bars of his cell, attached it around his neck and jumped from the cot. Only the man's great strength made it possible to kill himself. Hearn was found last Friday night with his wife's mutilated body lying on a bed. His 14 year old daughter discovered the body and notified the police.

Try It on The Hills

Test this car at half speed on a hill or sand road where power and every ounce of it is needed. Notice how steadily and powerfully it pulls when running slowly under load.

The capacity of the Rambler engine for doing this extra work is most noticeable at low engine speeds. This is because of the offset crank shaft.

Rambler
The Car with the Offset Crank Shaft

All that power which in other engines is lost through friction on the bearings and cylinder walls, is added to the driving force by the Rambler offset crank shaft. It reduces friction, eliminates hammer on bearings, gives more power. The straight-line-drive delivers the power direct and with least frictional loss to the rear axle.

Let us demonstrate these features and the silence and comfort of this car.

Let us call at your home, and take you to your place of business some morning in a Rambler.

LOOKING AHEAD

At Spokane, Washington, there is now assembled one of the most far reaching conventions that has ever been gathered together in the west.

The National Irrigation congress has in hand many projects looking toward the development of our natural resources and we may expect to hear great things from them. Already they have outlined a broad scheme of reclamation of what are now unusable materials for wealth and progress.

That scheme may fail for lack of needed support. It is so comprehensive that nothing short of a tremendous fund could cope with it.

The proposal is to issue bonds at 1 or 2 per cent running 100 years, to the amount of five billion dollars and apply the money so raised in five equal parts for draining overflowed and swamp land, for irrigation of arid lands, improvement of deep waterways, for good roads, and for forest conservation.

Such a vast scheme almost takes away our breath and yet with what America has done during the past century what may she not do before this century ends?

It is certainly the business and duty of the citizens of this country to make provision for the growing needs of millions yet to come.

Within the limits of the plan here outlined one of the questions of interest in the congress today will be that of home building. As one of the prominent speaker says "The nation that will lead the world will be a nation of homes."

No prophecy can be too hopeful and no enterprise too vigorous to anticipate the marvelous growth of this wonderful country. The great west is still the new world that lies open for unlimited development and for millions of homes where peace may reign and plenty abound.

BING!

For days and days black clouds of smoke rolled up from the Isle La Plume, sifting into people's homes, soiling the linen, besmearing everything with which it came into contact, including lingerie and lungs. People complained, they appealed for aid, they supplicated action by the city. Nothing availed until one day, and the fire went out.

What do you know about that Walter Rose? The chief of the fire department said it could not be done. He said, also, that it would keep his men away from their meals. He said this and that and all sorts of things the aim of which seemed to be to avoid anything so distasteful as fighting. He was too busy even to go down, at first, and he raised objections by the regiment.

But it was no use. As acting mayor, Walter Rose proposed to put out that fire, if possible. At any rate, he was determined to try. Bing! down went a big barge and a fire engine, and a fire captain by the name of Hanson who didn't pen-hoo the thing, but got out in the ashes up to his knees and fought with the courage and intelligence of a sure-enough fire chief to stop the nuisance. People will like what Hanson DID better than what the chief SAID. They will like what Walter Rose DID. They like men who take chances and do things; men who are not afraid to try, who accomplish by challenging defeat.

Bing! The fire is out. Even the fire chief admits that, with more or less reluctance. And, not exactly incidentally, one's ear cocked in the direction of the fire station may, one day, sooner or later, hear something to

At last the cigarette law in Minnesota is about to become the real thing. It will be enforced to the letter and there is now a big reduction in the consumption of "coffin nails." Wisconsin also has a cigarette law, at least there is one on the statutes, even though the sight of the small boy "hitting" the deadly "pill" is an every day occurrence. It is something on the "why is a hen" order.

ADDRESSES AT PICNIC

A large crowd attended the picnic of the La Crosse Lutheran Aid society at the grounds of the new agricultural school grounds at Onalaska Sunday, and many took advantage of the occasion to take in the new school.

Principal M. Johnson of the school gave an address and other speeches were made by O. R. Skaar and James Thompson. The street car company made a fare of five cents over the Onalaska line for the occasion.

STREET CAR COLLISION

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Albert Westlund, motorman, and John T. Buckley, a passenger, were probably fatally injured in a collision between two street cars here today. Both of Westlund's legs were cut off and both of Buckley's legs were broken. Three other passengers were slightly injured.

Apodictic

"I am determined to go on a vacation!"

Whittier looked almost fierce as he spoke. Cleverton regarded him with a quizzical look.

"You have a comfortable home," he asked.

"Splendid. Nothing could be better."

"And a lovin wife?"

"None more so. Studies to please all the time. Never obtrudes herself, and is silent when desirable."

"You are in good physical condition?"

"Very. Never felt better."

"No trouble of any sort, no hidden worry that you want to get away from?"

"None whatever. Everything is serene."

"What, then, is the reason for your going?"

"My dear moy," he replied, "don't you know that when everything is running smoothly, when there is absolutely no cause for complaint, when you simply couldn't improve on the present conditions if you tried—don't you understand that then the pure and unadulterated cussedness of human nature absolutely demands that something be done to upset the harmony of things? That's why I am going on a vacation. I'm looking for trouble!"—Thomas L. Mason in Lippincott's.

Four old Scotchmen the remnant of a club formed some fifty years ago, were seated around the table in the club room. It was 5 a. m. and Dougal looked across at Donald and said in a thick, sleepy voice:

"Donald, d'ye notice what an awfu' peculiar expression there is on Jack's face?"

"Aye," says Donald, "I notice that: he's deead! He's been deead these four hours."

"What? Dead! Why did ye no tell me?"

"Ah no—no—no," said Donald, "A'm no that kind o' man to disturb a convivial evening."—Tit-Bits.

Judge Giles Baker of a Pennsylvania county was likewise cashier of his home bank. A man presented a check one day for payment. He was a stranger. His evidence of identification was not satisfactory to the cashier.

"Very likely," replied the judge. "But when it comes to letting go of cold cash we have to be mighty careful."—Browning's Magazine.

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

(Copyright.)

"Exactly," I said despairingly, "and, of course, you are taken at your own valuation. The Innes are not always so self-depreciatory."

"Not always, no," he said, looking at me with his boyish smile. "Fortunately, Louise doesn't agree with her family. She's willing to take me, war governor or no, provided her mother consents. She isn't overly-fond of her stepfather, but she adores her mother. And now, can't you see where this thing puts me? Down and out, with all of them."

"But the whole thing is absurd," I argued. "And besides, Gertrude's sworn statement that you left before Arnold Armstrong came would clear you at once."

Halsey got up and began to pace the room, and the air of cheerfulness dropped like a mask.

"She can't swear it," he said finally. "Gertrude's story was true as far as it went, but she didn't tell everything. Arnold Armstrong came here at two-thirty—came into the billiard-room and left in five minutes. He came to bring—something."

"Halsey," I cried, "you must tell me the whole truth. Every time I see a way for you to escape you block it yourself with this wall of mystery. What did he bring?"

"A telegram—for Bailey," he said. "It came by special messenger from town, and was—most important. Bailey had started for here, and the messenger had gone back to the city. The steward gave it to Arnold, who had been drinking all day and couldn't sleep, and was going for a stroll in the direction of Sunnyside."

"And he brought it?"

"Yes."

"What was in the telegram?"

"I can tell you—as soon as certain things are made public. It is only a matter of days now," gloomily.

"And Gertrude's story of a telephone message?"

"Poor Trude!" he half whispered. "Poor loyal little girl! Aunt Ray, there was no such message. No doubt your detective already knows that and discredits all Gertrude told him."

"And when she went back, it was to get—the telegram?"

"Probably," Halsey said slowly. "When you get to thinking about it, Aunt Ray, it looks bad for all three of us, doesn't it. And yet—I will take my oath none of us even inadvertently killed that poor devil."

I looked at the closed door into Gertrude's dressing-room, and lowered my voice.

"The same horrible thought keeps recurring to me," I whispered. "Halsey, Gertrude probably had your revolver: she must have examined it, anyhow, that night. After you—and Jack had gone, what if—that ruffian came back, and she—and she—"

I couldn't finish. Halsey stood looking at me with shut lips.

"She might have heard him fumbling at the door—he had no key, the police say—and thinking it was you, or Jack, she admitted him. When she saw her mistake she ran up the stairs, a step or two, and turning, like an animal at bay, she fired."

Halsey had his hand over my lips before I finished, and in that position we stared each at the other, our stricken glances crossing.

"The revolver — my revolver — thrown into the tulip bed!" he muttered to himself. "Thrown perhaps from an upper window: you say it was buried deep. Her protration ever since, her—Aunt Ray, you don't think it was Gertrude who fell down the clothes chute?"

I could only nod my head in a hopeless affirmative.

CHAPTER X.

The Trader's Bank.

The morning after Halsey's return was Tuesday. Arnold Armstrong had been found dead at the foot of the circular staircase at three o'clock on Sunday morning. The funeral services were to be held on Tuesday, and the interment of the body was to be deferred until the Armstrongs arrived from California. No one, I think, was very sorry that Arnold Armstrong was dead, but the manner of his death aroused some sympathy and an enormous amount of curiosity. Mrs. Ogden Fitzhugh, a cousin, took charge of the arrangements, and everything, I believe, was as quiet as possible. I gave Thomas Johnson and Mrs. Watson permission to go into town to pay their last respects to the dead man, but for some reason they did not care to go.

Halsey spent part of the day with Mr. Jamelson, but he said nothing of what happened. He looked grave and anxious, and he had a long conversation with Gertrude late in the afternoon.

Tuesday evening found us quiet, with the quiet that precedes an explosion. Gertrude and Halsey were both gloomy and distraught, and as Liddy had already discovered that some of the china was broken—it is impossible to have any secrets from an old servant—I was not in a pleasant humor myself. Warner brought up the afternoon mail and the evening papers at seven—I was curious to know what the papers said of the murder. We had turned away at least a dozen reporters. But I read over the head-line that ran half-way across the top of the Gazette twice before I comprehended it. Halsey had opened the Chronicle and was staring at it fixedly.

"The Traders' Bank closes its doors!" was what I read, and then I put down the paper and looked across the table.

"Did you know of this?" I asked Halsey.

"I—expected it. But not so soon," he replied.

"And you?" to Gertrude.

"Jack — told us — something," Gertrude said faintly. "Oh, Halsey, what can he do now?"

"Jack!" I said scornfully. "Your Jack's flight is easy enough to explain now. And you helped him, both of you, to get away! You get that from your mother; it isn't an Innes trait. Do you know that every dollar you have, both of you, is in that bank?"

Gertrude tried to speak, but Halsey stopped her.

"That isn't all, Gertrude," he said quietly; "Jack is—under arrest."

"Under arrest!" Gertrude screamed, and tore the paper out of his hands. She glanced at the heading, then she crumpled the newspaper into a ball and flung it to the floor. While Halsey, looking stricken and white, was trying to smooth it out and read it, Gertrude had dropped her head on the table and was sobbing stormily.

I have the clipping somewhere, but just now I can remember only the essentials.

On the afternoon before, Monday, while the Traders' Bank was in the rush of closing hour, between two and three, Mr. Jacob Trautman, President of the Pearl Brewing Company, came into the bank to lift a loan. As security for the loan he had deposited some three hundred International Steamship Company 5's, in total value three hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Trautman man went to the loan clerk and, after certain formalities had been gone through, the loan clerk went to the vault. Mr. Trautman, who was a large and genial German, waited for a time, whistling under his breath. The loan clerk did not come back. After an interval, Mr. Trautman saw the loan clerk emerge from the vault and go to the assistant cashier: the two went hurriedly to the vault. A lapse of another ten minutes, and the assistant cashier came out and approached Mr. Trautman. He was noticeably white and trembling. Mr. Trautman was told that through an oversight the bonds had been misplaced, and was asked to return the following morning, when everything would be all right.

Mr. Trautman, however, was a shrewd business man, and he did not like the appearance of things. He left the bank apparently satisfied, and within thirty minutes he had called up three different members of the Traders' Board of Directors. At three-thirty there was a hastily convened board meeting, with some stormy scenes, and late in the afternoon a national bank examiner was in possession of the books. The bank had not opened for business on Tuesday.

CUMMINS BACKED IN TARIFF FIGHT

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 10.—Neighbors of Senator Albert B. Cummins are not backward in assuring him of their support and giving him hearty commendation for his fight on the Aldrich forces in the tariff contest.

Last night he addressed five thousand people on the Lincoln school grounds. Every mention of his fight against the machine was the signal for cheers.

The senator declared he had no apologies to make for his votes during the tariff debate. He said: "I have not and never will vote for what I believe to be wrong in order to secure a vote for what I believe to be right. The republican party believes in certain fundamental principles and in the action at Washington I do not believe that these principles were rightly applied. But the time will come when the people will give more intelligent and scientific study to the principles of protection in order to apply it to congress."

LUCKY WRECK ON PACIFIC RAILROAD

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 10.—What will go down in the history of railroading as one of the "luckiest" wrecks occurred today at South Leavenworth when a fast train on the Missouri Pacific going 40 miles an hour was ditched and the engine and several cars demolished.

Not a trainman nor a passenger sustained a scratch. The engine was torn to pieces and all of the coaches including two sleepers, left the track. The cars jammed, smashing in the end of the baggage car and the ends of the two coaches. Even more remarkable was the escape of the entire train from going over the bluff and into the Missouri river. The baggage car left the track and took a course opposite from the embankment leading to the water. Every coach followed. Had the baggage car turned in the opposite direction the entire train would have been plunged into the deep water where a strong current was running.

THE IMPROVEMENTS PROGRESSING FAST

Another Shack Is Added to Pages of Ill-looking History of Mill Street Today

The razing of the dilapidated dwelling at 713 Mill street today marks another step in the improvement of the principal thoroughfare of the north side. This building is in the heart of the Syrian colony and it is expected that the neighboring shacks will soon be demolished to make room for larger and more respectable appearing residences.

The little, dilapidated store building in the block below, which is owned by Otto Granke, has been razed, the work being finished yesterday. The store building at 700 Mill street has been provided with a new coat of paint and various interior repairs. Several residences in the 500 block have been painted and repaired throughout, and the Manke blacksmith shop, after the repairing process to which it was subjected, now presents a more business-like and respectable appearing. The street as a whole is beginning to assume a better aspect and the work of the improvement committee appointed by the Progressive league is already in evidence.

It is expected that an extensive report of the work of the committee will be heard at the regular monthly meeting of the league tomorrow evening.

The work of removing the Kingsley residence on Rose street was started this morning, one section of the house being already removed. This residence is being taken away to make way for a section of the J. Ole Storey memorial fountain which will be erected on this hill.

STOP OF REGULARS CAUSES A STIR

An occurrence that created more than unusual interest on the north side happened this morning when the special train carrying the regular soldiers of Uncle Sam's artillery, who have been at Camp Robinson near Sparta for some time, stopped at the Milwaukee station to change engines and crews.

The regulars left the train like ducks going for a pond, some of them going to the lunch rooms near the railroad crossing and many of them taking to the various thirst emporiums to replenish their canteens.

A crowd soon collected to see the soldiers and when the train disappeared from view there was a large gathering at the station. The entire paraphernalia of the soldiers, consisting of the horses, guns, gun carriages, tents and many other things are carried on the train.

Settlers' Shack Near Spokane, in the Heart of the Infested District.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Stockmen and settlers living on lands adjacent to the forest reserves in southeastern Washington, northeastern Oregon and the Idaho-Washington border are organizing to hunt gray wolves, bears, cougars and other predatory animals, which annually cause losses to owners of sheep, cattle, colts and poultry in the districts south of Spokane. The federal government has set aside $2,000 to employ experienced hunters in the Coeur d'Alene forest, where a systematic hunt will begin early in August. In the meantime the settlers are making preparations to use trained dogs, powder and ball, traps and poison in an attempt to exterminate the pests. They have invited members of the Spokane Rod and Gun club, headed by E. J. Chingren, to join them on a hunt the early part of August, promising a week of lively sport. The several states pay bounties on wolves, cougars and other predatory animals.

TWO DIE IN FIRE IN MERRIAM PARK

Live Wire Charges Fence and Spectators Instantly Electrocuted; Property Loss $75,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10.—Two men were killed by a live wire, one injured and fifty or more in danger, in a fire which late last night and this morning completely destroyed the warehouse of the Transfer Lumber and United Lumber and Shingle company, owned by C. W. Dewey of Minneapolis, at Merriam Park, destroyed one warehouse of the Minnesota Transfer Warehouse company, also of Minneapolis, and damaged another of the Waite warehouses, as well as the warehouse of the St. Croix River Lumber company. The entire contents of the burned buildings were lost, with trifling salvage.

The main losses are roughly estimated at $75,000, about equally divided between the Waite and Dewey concerns. Other damage was slight. The loss is practically covered with insurance.

The men killed were Gust Walstrom, aged 21 and Charles Baker, aged 45.

POSTS FORFEIT IN ANSWER TO CRITICS

FLANDREAU, S. D., Aug. 10.—Ira F. Blewett, state's attorney of Moody county, who assisted the prosecution of Mrs. Moses Kaufman in June, has been subjected to so much criticism because of the virtual acquittal of the woman on the charge of killing her servant, Agnes Poirels, that he has made public a long letter defending himself. He states that he has been accused of selling out in the case and of apologizing to the defendant for his part in the first prosecution. Mr. Blewett says:

"I have placed in the Moody county bank the sum of $500 to be paid by the officers of said bank to any person who will expose any unlawful act I committed in this case and procure my arrest and conviction therefor. I will do more. Much has been said about money alleged to have been offered to certain men in this county for the purpose of bribing the jury and to have certain men summoned for the panel, some of which offers it is said were refused. If my first offer is not taken, and there may be any man or woman in this county or state who actually knows of any person who, directly or indirectly, offered or gave any bribe to any person, officer of the court, juror or witness connected with said case, and he will make complaint to this office, I have directed said bank to hold said sum of $500 as a guaranty to him that I will prosecute to the limit any person offering such bribe, be he judge, juror, doctor, lawyer, sheriff, bailiff or any other man. I never spoke to Mrs. Kaufmann in my life save as I addressed her in my argument to the jury in the first trial of the case. Just what I would have to apologize to her for I am unable to conceive. I have never changed my mind for a single instant as to the conclusion then reached and stated to the jury."

GIRL CHOKED AND BEATEN BY FARMER

EDINBURG, N. D., Aug. 10.—After being in progress all day Saturday, the preliminary examination of Martin Lundell, charged with assault with intent to kill, was adjourned till Wednesday, when it will be completed. Lundell is a former Thief River Falls (Minn.) resident and is charged with brutally beating Miss Gina Lee in Edinburgh on July 24.

The only motive that has been brought forward is that Lundell might have made the assault as a means of venting vengeance upon the girl's father, with whom he had a misunderstanding regarding wages.

The attack upon Miss Lee was particularly brutal. She was knocked to the ground, beat about the head and choked. The girl suffered a terrible nervous shock. A hemorrhage resulted in flow of mlood from the nose and ears.

MUSCATINE JEWS FIGHT IN SYNAGOGUE

MUSCATINE, Ia., Aug. 10—Twelve people were injured in a free-for-all fight which took place in the Jewish synagogue here.

About sixty members of the Jewish colony participated in the fray, and the police had great difficulty in quelling the disturbance. Knives and clubs were used effectively and severe cuts and bruises were inflicted.

The utmost secrecy is being maintained relative to the identity of the injured and the origin of the trouble.

JUMP FROM AUTO TO ESCAPE FLAMES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—The spectacle of a large touring car climbing the hills east of Elm Grove bursting into a mass of flames, and the occupants of the automobile jumping over the fire to save themselves, attracted a large number of persons.

The automobile, a five-passenger car owned by George Allison, was occupied by himself, his wife and two children and another woman.

He was climbing the hill when one of the cylinders refused to work. He brought the machine to a stop, and the minute the car was brought to a halt, the flames shot out, enveloping the whole machine.

Mr. Allison jumped out with his daughter, Alice, in his arms, who was sitting beside him. He immediately opened the door of the rear seat, and assisted his wife, the other woman occupant and his daughter Georgette, aged 7, out of the machine.

ITCH STOPPED-- SKIN COOLED.

Itching skin diseases afflict some people as soon as the hot weather comes. There seems to be no preventive; but when the eruption does break out, it is a very simple matter to stop that itch, and to stop it instantly.

Just a few drops of Oil of Wintergreen, properly compounded, washed over the eruption will soothe and smooth the skin instantly, giving that cooling and refreshing sensation.

Try a few drops of this D. D. D. Compound and your itch will be relieved at once, not in half an hour, or ten minutes, but in five seconds. Call at our store and we will tell you more about this D. D. D. Compound.

STATE SALOONISTS PLAN FOR FUTURE

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 10.—John F. Langan of this city, president of the Wisconsin State Retail Liquor Dealers' association, has sent out a call for a meeting of the executive committee of the association to be held at Merrill the latter part of this month at which time plans for the work of the association during the coming year will be made.

There are to be radical changes made in the methods of work of the association and it is thought that these changes will make the association more helpful to the liquor men.

It is planned to put a regular man at work among the saloon men to properly explain the methods and work of the association and as well to explain to the people the position that the state organization is taking on important questions in regarding to the regulation of the liquor traffic.

PAPERMILL FOR ASHLAND

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 10.—A paper mill employing about 150 hands is to be erected here within a short time by the Menasha Paper company, arrangements to that effect having been concluded through representatives of local banks.

This city has long sought to secure a paper industry. It means this enterprise will be the forerunner of other industries.

HARVEY DURAND DYING

SPAIN'S REVOLUTION STILL A DANGER

LISBON, Aug. 10.—Twelve thousand Spaniards lost their lives in the recent revolution in Barcelona and other parts of Catalonia, according to today's Diario de Noticias, which declares its figures are based on the most reliable estimates. The number includes those killed in the actual fighting and hundreds who were either assassinated or executed during the ten days the trouble lasted.

The Diario de Noticias says there is still grave danger of the revolution recurring and sweeping the entire country.

THROWN FROM HORSE; AND NEARLY KILLED

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the novelist, is today recovering from her experiences of last night when she was thrown from her horse in a secluded spot in the woods and was lost for several hours. When she mounted the horse late yesterday afternoon the grooms notified her the animal was fractious but as she is an expert horsewoman, she paid no attention to their warning. The horse, riderless, returned home an hour and a half later and it was feared Mrs. Chamber had been unhorsed and possibly killed. A number of searching parties immediately began beating the woods for her.

PHOTOGRAPH OF THOMAS IS CLEW

Administrator Frank Winter of the estate of the late Dr. W. D. Thomas has forwarded a photograph, taken 40 years ago, of Dr. Thomas and a young woman, to a public administrator in Scotland, in hopes of finding any heirs to the estate of $10,000 or $12,000 left by the divine. It is supposed the girl is either an early sweetheart or a sister of Dr. Thomas. Little hope is entertained of finding any heirs if any exist, and in case no claimant appears the estate will revert to the state.

NIGHT SCHOOLS AND NEW SCHOOL NAMES

No formal meeting of the board of education was held last night owing to the absence of a quorum. However, Messrs. Luening, Easton and Ray discussed the proposition of conducting night school in La Crosse for those unable to attend in the day time, and also the proposition of naming the schools after prominent men instead of calling them after wards of the city in which they are not even located. This matter will be taken up at a later meeting.

AIR DOME THEATRE CHANGES HANDS

Maurice Lipstein has purchased the air dome theatre on North Third street from the former owners and will continue the business.

He states that it is his purpose to raise the merit of the acts presented to the highest possible class, believing that La Crosse people will appreciate really good vaudeville. The bill presented last night was worth going a long way to see and if the same standard is maintained La Crosse will have a place of summer entertainment second to none.

SIX WEEKS' BRIDE COMMITS SUICIDE

WAUKON, Iowa, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—A very sad affair was the death of Mrs. Ben Krueger of Ludlow township last Thursday. Her husband had gone away for the day to work and upon returning home found his wife had committed suicide by taking strychnine. She was the daughter of Holver Peterson of this city and had only been married about six weeks. Temporary insanity is supposed to have been the cause of her rash act. The funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Van Nice officiating.

Laundry is Sold

The Waukon laundry has been purchased by Milton Lerdall of Decorah, who has taken possession. Mr. Lerdall has been employed in the Decorah steam laundry for a number of years past and the local papers speak well of his abilities in the work. Mr. Lerdall and family will occupy Mrs. Irwin's house in West Waukon.

Waukon Briefs

Miss Ethel Smith is visiting relatives and friends at Lansing and New Albin.

Mrs. Adolph Hagemeier of Decorah is visiting her niece, Mrs. H. L. Dayton, and other relatives.

Mr. J. Fields of Fargo, N. D., was the guest of Miss Nettie Reid several days last week.

Miss Cora Miner arrived home Friday from a two weeks' sojourn at Antioch, Ill. Her sister, Miss Addie of Beloit, Wis., arrives this week for a two weeks' visit with home folks.

Miss Sophia Westby of Hale & Sons clerical force, is spending her vacation with her friend, Miss Grace Mitchell, at Minneapolis.

Mrs. L. Hubbell has been quite ill for a week or more with an attack of jaundice.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Crawford departed last week for an extended trip throughout the west, visiting Denver, Salt Lake City, the Seattle exposition, San Francisco and Colorado Springs. On their return they will take in the wonders of the Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Howe and Miss Ruth and Mrs. M. S. Howard are visiting their sisters at Lansford, and Fargo, N. D.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature R. V. Pierce M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

THREE KILLED BY GAS IN OLD MINE

MOLINE, Ill., Aug. 10.—The bodies of three persons killed by coal gas in an abandoned coal mine five miles east of Moline last evening were recovered early today. They are Walter Cole, 15; Wm. Cole, 25; and Arthur Harrington, 14.

The scene of the tragedy was the Leuder Coal mine which has been abandoned since last November. Mrs. Cole, accompanied by her two sons and by numerous friends with their families had gone into the country to pick blackberries. The younger Cole and young Harrington in wandering about, discovered the Leuder shaft. They tore away the covering and entered the shaft. The deadly coal damp overcame them at once and they all fell to the bottom of the shaft.

Later the elder Cole and his mother discovered the shaft in looking for the two boys and Cole went to the rescue. He never came out alive. Mrs. Cole was about to enter the shaft also when Otto Leuder, owner of the mine, happened to pass and stopped her.

HUMPHREY SEIZES 2 BARRELS OF FISH

Deputy Game Warden Georgé Kingsley has confiscated two barrels of fish shipped from De Soto. It is alleged that the barrels were not properly marked, and that one of them contained game fish.

The fish were owned by Joseph Osborne and A. Long, both of De Soto. The sheriff now has a warrant; and it is expected the men will make appearance at Viroqua tomorrow.

WILL TRY TO KEEP FACTORIES IN CITY

Committees Named to See What Can Be Done for Kenyon and Hackner Plants

Waukesha Committee coming to View Kenyon Co. Today and Hackner Is Displeased

The board of trade is to take up the matter of the threatened removal of the factories of the Hackner Altar Works and the Kenyon Auto-boat Top company from La Crosse and special committees were appointed at a meeting of the directors at the La Crosse club yesterday afternoon which will take immediate action looking to keep both in the city.

The Kenyon company employs 40 people and expects to increase the list to 100 by next summer. They want a site for a new factory, and ask the board to help them secure one for a reasonable price, whereupon they promise to build at their own expense. Adam Kroner, Wallace Montague and H. O. Kline constitute the committee.

Owing to the absence of A. Hirshheimer from the city the matter of the Hackner factory's side track has been neglected but Adam Kroner, chairman of the railroads committee of the council and board of trade member, agreed to take charge of the matter. If the protest is so great that a side track cannot be put in to the present plant, Mr. Hackner desires help to sell his factory and locate downtown. In this the committee will endeavor to help him.

The board decided not to hold an excursion to the Preston fair this year owing to the fact one was sent there two years ago, and it being during the summer season, during which time the regular board meetings are adjourned and it is difficult to get a large number together.

If you are all run down Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. It strengthens the kidneys so they will eliminate the impurities from the blood that depress the nerves, and cause exhaustion, backache, rheumatism, and urinary irregularities, which sap the vitality. Do not delay. Take Foley's Kidney Remedy at once. O. T. Erhart.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF YOUNG GIRL

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The inquest on Miss Schumacher's body was begun today at the morgue. The autopsy proved that the girl had been strangled before being beaten up with the rock that was found on her head in the grave. The awful grip of the murderer had fractured the hyoid bones in the girl's throat.

The circumstances surounding the murder and the fact that the hyoid bones were broken, recalls the series of strangling cases that occurred in Dayton, Ohio, where five girls were slain in a similar manner, the hyoid bon in each girl's throat being broken.

Physicians say it requires a peculiar and fearful grip on the abroat to displace these bones. Many of the other details in the crimes are the same.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—One of the most brutal and dastardly murders was revealed when the body of Anna Schumacher, 17 years old, was found in a lonely spot outside the Holy Sepulchre cemetery covered with leaves. Anna went to the cemetery on Saturday afternoon to place flowers on her father's grave.

The coroner's inquest showa that the girl was beaten to death after being criminally assaulted.

What may prove a good clue to the murderer was furnished today by a man who called with his wife at police headquarters and told the officers that he and his wife on Saturday had seen the girl accosted by a man when she arose from prayer beside her sister's grave. When spoken to the girl went with the man toward the spot where her body was found.

Little trust was placed in the clue until the couple were taken to the morgue where the woman identified the skirt worn by Miss Schumacher as that worn by the girl that she had seen. Sheriff Gillette today offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the murderer.

COUPLE DROWN WHILE BATHING

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 10.—The bodies of Miss Alydia Johnson and George Englebrecht, of South Chicago, were taken home today. The pair of young lovers were drowned late yesterday in Lake Michigan before the eyes of hundreds of bathers and beach loungers who did not realize that the tragedy was being enacted just beyond the breaker line.

The girl, a good swimmer, went out beyond the breakers although the lake was rougher than usual and got caught in the undertow. Englebrecht saw her plight and went to her rescue. The water was too rough and they both sank before the other bathers realized that the pair needed aid.

It is queer that some girls can wear the silliest hats and look quite smart in them.

ACCUSED OF GRAB; LIVELY FIGHT ON

derstand that the public lands had again been withdrawn.

"It remains to be seen whether Ballinger deliberately attempted to destroy Roosevelt's work and did reopen Montana lands in the especial interest of his friends, Carter, Collins and others, or whether he simply didn't realize the importance of his acts or was betrayed by his friends."

The Press to Ballinger

The press also says editorially today:

"Richard Achilles Ballinger, stand up."

"You are accused of grave maladministration of your high office of secretary of the interior. What have you to say for yourself?

"In Montana the case is presented squarely. Rich water power lands along the Missouri were withdrawn by your predecessor at the direction of President Roosevelt whose policies your chief, President Taft, has sworn to perpetuate.

"You knew why these lands were withdrawn. You were told by your advisors that there was grave danger the water power monopoly would grab them. Yet you insisted that they be restored the minute you took office as the guardian of the public domain which belongs to the people.

"Secretary Ballinger, you have also some things to explain in connection with the cancellation of the co-operative certificate plan adopted by your predecessor. You say that plan is not a technical observation of the law. Can you, or anyone else, produce any law that forbids it?"

Pinchott Addresses Gathering

Sounding the first note of open warfare with Secretary Ballinger upholding the Roosevelt reclamation and conservation policies and denouncing the administration of law by technicalities, Chief United States Forester Gifford Pinchott set the congress agog in an address this morning. The resolutions committee reports that resolutions on the subect are pouring in upon them and everyone is awaiting with keen interest Secretary Ballinger's appearance tomorrow.

E. H. Libbey, Clarkston, Wash., president of the Washington Conservation association, today cited the 2,000,000 water horse power available in Washington and said:

"Conservation sees the constant waste of all this energy and wants to see the force harnessed to the use of the people but we want to prevent the monopoly of a force that is more important even than the forests. Conservation demands just enough and no more of wise government control to insure this to the people at living rates and with all due profit as to the developers and operators."

Gifford Pinchott, chief forester of the United States, delivered his address this morning. His speech created a tremendous sensation, increasing tenfold the excitement which has attended the congress so far. All eyes ware now upon Secretary Ballinger and the delegates are eager to hear what he will have to say in reply to the chief forester.

WINONA EXCURSION FAILS TO APPEAR

The much looked for Old Settler's excursion from Winona which was scheduled to make its appearance in this city yesterday was called off because of the late arrival of the steamer J. S. at the up river city yesterday afternoon. The following telegram received from Capt. John Streckfuss by the chairman of the excursion committee caused the postponement of the annual outing of the Old Settlers' Association: "Delayed on account of low water. J. S. will arrive about 2 p. m."

Upon the arrival of the boat at Winona at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, it was ascertained that owing to the low stage of the water in the river, she could make very little progress, hence the delay.

DEMANDS REMOVAL OF MILES MURPHY

And in a Communication to Council Says It Was Because of Loyalty to Dan Moore

Because, he charges, Miles Murphy, street foreman employed by the city, undertook to force him to patronize John Meinke, a north side blacksmith in preference to Dan Moore, who always did his work, and because that employe is discriminating against one to divert all city business he can control to the other, Ole Thoreson, until last July a teamster employed by the city, demands Murphy be "fired" by the council.

Thoreson appeared before Notary Public A. E. Bleckman and swore to a chain of facts which if true puts Murphy "in bad" and the petition demanding his removal will be presented to the aldermen for action next Friday night at the regular meeting of the council.

Thoreson gives affidavit that he had always patronized Dan Moore, a north side blacksmith, but that Murphy, the foreman over him repeatedly came to him and told him to "cut out Moore," or he would "get the worst of it." He claims he repeatedly refused to switch his shoeing to Meinke, telling Murphy Moore's work was satisfactory, that he owned his own horses and wanted the work done by a man of whose knowledge he was certain, and that he did not want to switch to some stranger. He alleged Murphy kept up his nagging, and that as he is often under the influence of liquor his protests for a change became very offensive. He sets forth that about the middle of July Murphy again came to him while under the influence of liquor and demanded he "cut out Moore." He said he refused and Murphy advanced threateningly toward him. Thoreson swears he warned Murphy to keep away and mind his own business, but that Murphy continued to advance and raised his hand as though to strike him. He thereupon pushed the street foreman over into the dirt as a matter of self protection. He alleges that Murphy thereupon arose and discharged him. He also alleges he has Murphy's own admission that his work has always been thoroughly satisfactory and that it was not in any way the cause of his losing his position.

The petitioner says that Murphy has practised the same tactics with other teamsters of the city, trying to force them to take their business away from Moore and give it to his friend Meinke. He alleges that Fisher and Grady, two of the other teamsters employed by the city have already submitted to the bulldozing of Murphy and are now having their work done at the shop of Murphy's friend and that Murphy is continuing his efforts to force all city employes under him, even though they own their own teams, to give their business to his friend, Meinke. The petition closes with the prayer that the council will discharge Foreman Murphy for his discriminations and illegal actions.

EVELYN THAW DENY DEMAND FOR MONEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Although she admits being in straightened circumstances Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw denied today that she had made a demand for $500,000 on the family of her husband, who is in White Plains jail, awaiting the decision of Judge Mills as to his sanity.

The artist-model-chorus-girl-sculptress wife said today it was "just awful" to make her live on $70 a week with an extra monthly income of $200, but that she did not know what she could do about it.

"Why, I've even had to send Kara back to the Bronx zoo," said Mrs. Thaw plaintively today at her studio, where the past several months she has been dabbling in sculpture and playing with pet snakes. Kara is the big king snake that has caused the neighbors of the amateur sculptress many nights of worry since it became an occupant of the studio.

"I am absolutely penniless," Mrs. Thaw. "I haven't even money to pay my maid or satisfy the landlord who is besieging me for the rent. I don't know what I am going to do. It seems I am up against it."

"But there is absolutely no truth in the story that I will sue the Thaws for half a million dollars. If they would just send me the $200 I should have received on the first of August, I'd be satisfied."

At White Plains none of the Thaws would discuss the reported demand of Harry's wife. At the jail, Harry himself characterized it as "rubbish."

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw is so confident Judge Mills will release her son on Thursday that she has made arrangements to leave White Plains and take her son with her.

STEAMER J. S. OFF WITH BIG THRONG

Hello, Pete!

And Lo! Who's this important individual bringing up the rear. Charlie Frohman, theatre magnate, sho nuff. Everybody recognized him at once, he was fairly mobbed by chorus appeals for a matinee on the boat or a curtain speech. So insistent was the crowd that at last, in order to escape, Mr. Frohman assumed a nom de plume, declaring oracularly that he wasn't Frohman, deed he wasn't, but that he was just plain Pete Newburg.

Well, anyway, the J. S. turned up her bows at the deserted city and steamed away south with the laughing product of the exodus aboard.

ALL LANSING AND A BRASS BAND OUT TO GREET CROWD.

LANSING, Ia., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—All the people in Lansing, headed by brass band which made the excursionists sit up and take an observation, were at the levee at 1 o'clock when the steamer "J. S." arrived with the La Crosse excursionists and today has proved to be one of the liviest in Lansing's history of lively days.

P. J. Conway welcomed the visitors, tendering the key to the city and attesting there was no need for a pry, as the "lid" was not on. "Billy" F. Wolfe thanked the people for their welcome and promised that even though there were a few on the boat inclined to tear things up—like Bert Van Steenwyk and himself—he could assure the people of the city that the Merchants' association would stand responsible for any damage done to property. He warned the citizens that Pete Newburg was in their midst and that if they did not use care "Pete" would buy up a few of the business centers and start clothing stores and theaters, whereupon editors of the Lansing papers together with their swarms of reporters clustered about the genial "Pete" for confirmation of the story.

Paul Lutz refused to submit to an interview when followed around a corner above the "boat store." He said he had found something, and a close tab is being kept on the furrier to see that he comes back home on the boat.

Karl Kurtenacker was breathless with excitement when the steamer arrived and it is rumored Karl was circling around the Busy Bee in an effort to discover if a ladies' furnishings store would pay in Lansing. Inasmuch as Karl gets a large part of the trade which goes to La Crosse from Lansing as it is, it is not expected he will open a new store here.

William Strauss and Billy Wiggenhorn were in consultation most of the way down and as soon as the boat's nose pushed into the sand beach they vanished. Later they reappeared, each carrying a pretzel said to have been made in Milwaukee. It could not be learned where the pretzels came from, but it was stated this is considered in Lansing as a health food.

Parker interested himself in the pearly industry which thrives in this vicinity (there being lots of dentistas) but George asserted to your reporter that it was the clam variety he sought. Martin Roth and Art Holbeck furnished a good deal of amusement on the way down by doing a cake walk around the outside rail of the steamer while Otto Dumke and Casper Newburg vied with each other for the title of the best dressed man on the excursion.

The reception committee representing Lansing was composed of D. F. Thomas, R. Hufschmidt and J. J. Dunlevy.

Although the day broke stormy the sun came out before the excursion boat reached this place and the day turned out to be an ideal one. No end of fun had been provided by the people of Lansing, and the excursionists will be sorry to leave Lansing tonight for it is without doubt one of the prettiest and most enterprising little cities the length of the river.

40 INFANT BODIES IN NEW YORK MORGUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Today the New York morgue housed forty infant bodies, the greatest number of children there at any time since the General Slocum disaster. Twenty-seven of the babies came from the New York Foundling Asylum and the others from hospitals and institutions. All are direct or indirect victims of the heat wave and physicians today declare the number of deaths among infants has been appalling.

Sleep was practically impossible in any portion of Greater New York last night. At Coney Island 10,000 people slept on the sands last night. Every public park in New York was thrown open and policemen stationed to guard the sleepers. Whole families fled from the rookeries to the little grassy plots. Fire escapes became popular bedrooms while on nearly every narrow street in the tenement district men and women slept in area ways and even on their front stoops.

GRADE CROSSING AS DEATH TRAPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Another grade crossing accident, making nearly 300 accidents at crossings or in the down town streets within a month, claimed the lives of two men today.

James O'Connor and Dennis Crowdley, railroad employes were run down by a Baltimore & Ohio engine and their bodies mutilated almost beyond recognition. The crew of the engine reported that they knew nothing about the accident until they found a bloody human leg on the pilot.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe the pains temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acrid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acrid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

DANCED WITH KING EDWARD AT COURT BALL

The Crown Princess of Sweden, Princess Margaret.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 9.—To be selected from an assemblage of royalty and lords and ladies by the king of England for the opening dance is perhaps the highest social honor one could obtain on the continent. Such was the success of the charming Princess Margaret, the crown princess of Sweden, at Buckingham palace.

Princess Margaret has won the hearts of her future subjects in Sweden not only by her charm and beauty, but by her enthusiasm, her love of Sweden and her general democratic nature.

There is always the chance of being mistaken. Your wise notions of today may seem mighty foolish next year or next week.

FREE For "Summer Complaint"

The common ailment of these hot days is "Summer Complaint," or diarrhea. It is very annoying and weakening and upsets the stomach. The cause of the trouble usually lies in food and water, which in the summer time are often laden with germs, but with many it is due to eating too much fruit or to eating over-ripe fruit. Whatever the cause it is not good to take an astringent remedy that binds up the bowels and stops the flow too suddenly, but take a reliable, natural laxative like DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN.

Its antiseptic properties remove the germs which have been causing the irritation. Children like it especially because of its gentle action and pleasant taste. Salts and purgative waters, tablets or pills, act so violently as to weaken you still more, and do but temporary good. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN is the best remedy you can obtain for constipation, indigestion, summer complaint or summer colic, biliousness, sick headache, etc. All druggists sell it and it costs only 50 cents or $1.00 a large bottle. It is for all members of the family and should be your household remedy for these purposes.

Those who have never yet used DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN and would like to make a test of it before buying in the regular way from their druggist, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE either for themselves or any member of their family, BY sending name and address to the doctor. The sample will be sent to your home free of charge. In this way you can find out what it will do without cost. Also, if the case presents difficulties that doctors and other remedies seem unable to overcome, write a letter to Dr. Caldwell explaining how the trouble suffers, for the good will give free, best MEDICAL ADVICE, based on half a century of experience in treating all forms of bowel disease, without charge. Readers who have children should send for SAMPLE BOTTLE and DIRECTIONS FOR MOTHERS, Elixir, containing the doctor's advice for children, free. The address is

NEW WAYS OF SERVING AND PRESERVING

THE OLD AND MODERN METHODS OF INSURING MIDWINTER FRUITS

WHEN the weather is warm, and berries and other fruits insist upon putting themselves in the foreground with the ultimatum: "Can me now or never," the old method of canning and preserving sometimes becomes laborious and nerve-racking. A little known process, which, for want of a better descriptive name is called the Twentieth Century Method, does away with all cooking of the fruit, and its attendant heat. Keep on hand a quantity of fruit sirup. Seven pounds of sugar and five pints of water will give five quarts of quite heavy sirup. Use cold water and stir in the sugar over the fire until dissolved, but do not allow the boiling point to be reached. This is ready for use at a moment's notice.

Condition of Fruit

In following out this process there are two conditions to be observed: The fruit must be under rather than over ripe, and it must be absolutely dry; it cannot even be dewy. It is obvious the fruit must be freshly picked and so clean as not to need washing. Sterilize jars, rings and tops as usual in hot water. Fill the jars with the fruit, knocking gently on the table to settle the fruit compactly in them.

When filled pour in the heated sirup to overflowing, adjust the rubbers and screw on the tops. Set the jars in large crocks; these are preferable to tubs or boilers, because they retain the heat longer. Leaving a small space between your in boiling water until the jars are submerged.

Put the cover of the crock in place and throw over it a large rug or carpet, as even a comfortable will answer. Let stand for twenty-four hours, or until the water is cold; tighten the jar tops, if it is necessary to do so, while they are under water; wipe off and place in storeroom.

Pineapples

This method has been used for all berries, shredded pineapple and peeled plums, and undoubtedly could be used for peaches and apricots. Pineapple should always be shredded. To cut it in slices or dice spoils the flavor, and retains the woody fiber. After paring and removing the eyes it can be shredded with a silver fork or run through a food chopper.

For making fruit pastes, dainty for the school luncheon basket, apples and quinces can be used alone or in combination with pineapple. Weigh the fruit and to each pound allow six ounces of sugar. Put in a porcelain-lined kettle, and covering closely simmer until it is a smooth marmalade. Add the sugar and continue slow cooking until a teaspoonful cooled will show the paste sufficiently tough to be rolled in a soft ball. Turn into tumblers and cool.

Spiced Plums

Spiced peaches and apples are fairly well known, but spiced plums are strangers to many housewives. The plums should be pricked in two or three places to prevent their bursting, or the skins shrinking and sticking to the pits. To each eight pounds of plums allow four pounds of sugar, three cupfuls of vinegar, two ounces each of stick cinnamon and allspice, one-quarter ounce of whole cloves and six bay leaves.

Boil vinegar, sugar and spices together, then throw in the fruit to cook for a moment only, and set aside to cool. Next morning lift the fruit with a skimmer and put it into stone jars. Boil the sirup and pour it over the plums and let cool. Do this for seven consecutive mornings. On the eighth put all over the fire and cook until the fruit is soft.

Fruit Chips

Pear or quince "chips" or slices are a delicious sweetmeat. Slicing is preferable to chipping and it can be done very rapidly and evenly on a vegetable slicer. Allow a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit, and, for flavoring, ginger root or lemon slices at discretion.

Boil the slices rapidly in clear water for ten minutes and drain. Put the fruit slices back into the kettle with the sugar and very little water and set it on a cool part of the range for the sugar to melt; then cook the pears until they are soft and transparent. Drain them from the sirup and place on a sieve to dry. When dry roll them in sugar and put in glass jars or tin boxes.

A LUSCIOUS RHUBARB CONSERVE.

Many housekeepers will, however, undoubtedly prefer the old-style method, and for their assistance I append the following suggestions:

Canned Pineapple

Slice the pineapple in desired thickness, pare and carefully remove the eyes with a sharp knife. With a cutter remove core. For every pound of fruit one-half pound of sugar is necessary; use just enough water to dissolve the sugar, bringing it to the boiling-point, then adding the fruit. Let boil up gently until tender. If it is desired, the fruit can be shredded with a silver knife, or chopped fine, the same amount of sugar being used in the canning.

Canned Strawberries

Rinse berries in colander and hull. Fill can with berries and set in several thicknesses of cloth in bottom of boiler, which has enough lukewarm water to come nearly to tops of cans. Let water come to boiling point, then carefully turn all juice from fruit into stewing kettle. Take the fruit from which the juice has been extracted and fill up cans; it will take all the fruit from two boiled cans to fill one.

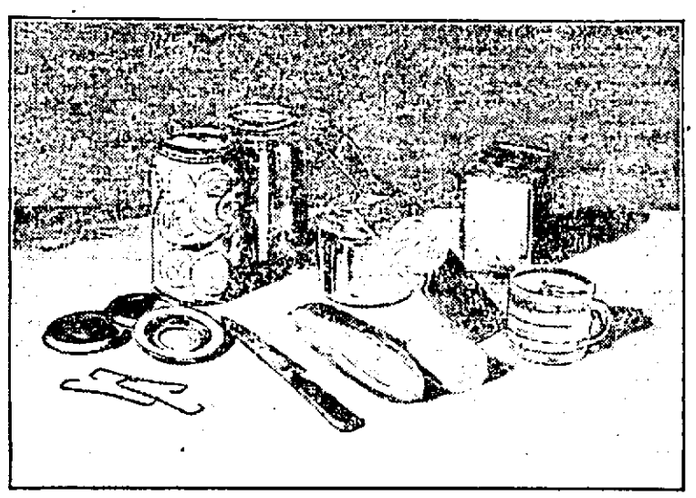

Place these cans in boiler again and let remain until sirup is ready. To make this sirup, use the extracted juice and enough granulated sugar to make of consistency of strained honey. Turn this over the berries in cans, sealing immediately. In this way all the fruit flavor is retained and one has delicious canned strawberries. Do not add water, as this makes the fruit insipid.

Preserved Rhubarb

For pies or sauce in the winter the cold water method is desirable. Peel the plant and cut into inch pieces, pack in cans, then fill to overflowing with fresh cold water; seal. A conserve made of six pounds of rhubarb, five pounds of sugar, grated rind and juice of two lemons, one pound of sliced figs is delicious. Boil all together slowly for an hour, or until very thick, then put into small jars and seal immediately. The figs must be carefully looked over and rinsed off, the stem ends being removed. If "pulled" instead of pressed figs can be secured, use them.

Tomato Butter

Seven pounds of ripe tomatoes, four pounds of ripe apples, four pounds of light-brown sugar, one-half cupful strong vinegar, one teaspoonful each of salt, pulverized cinnamon and ginger, one teaspoonful cloves. Slice apples thin, cut tomatoes up and cook both in one-half pint water until tender; press through colander; add the sugar and vinegar and boil until thick; add spices and can while hot. If desired, Canton ginger, chipped, can be used instead of the dry. One teaspoonful of each will be sufficient. The tomatoes must be ripe and, like the apples, be wiped with a damp cloth. Remove the core from the apples, but the skins will be eliminated when put through colander.

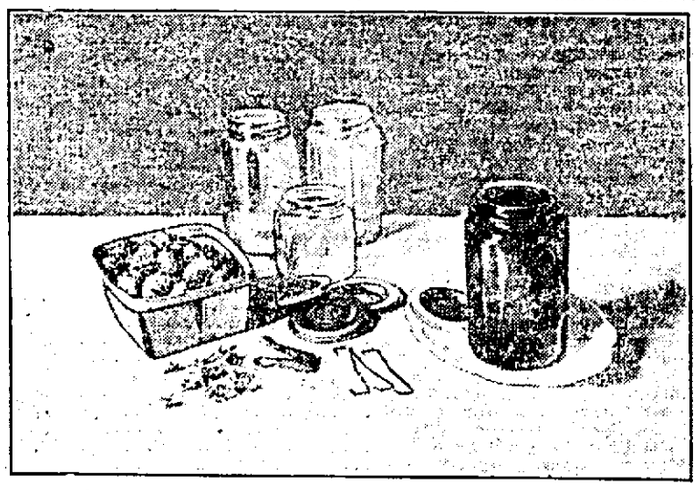

A FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD FOR MIDWINTER.

At this period of the year a few suggestions on the cooking of vegetables will not be amiss.

Cooking Vegetables

Of course, it may be true that vegetables cooked when fresh from the garden are always tasty, and yet the human palate is so constructed that it soon tires of one flavor. How much better it would be, therefore, if a little more thought and attention should be given to the process of cooking vegetables, that the many distinctive flavors produced by some of these more novel combinations might help to break the monotony in the daily fare.

PRESERVING THE STRAWBERRY FOR DECEMBER.

Winter Salad

Take four quarts thinly-sliced pared cucumbers and one dozen medium-sized onions peeled and sliced very thin; put in dish and sprinkle with salt, letting them stand for three hours. Turn off the brine which this will make and pack the cucumbers and onions in cans. Use one-half cupful white mustard seed, one-half cupful white sugar, one-half teaspoonful celery seed, one cupful of olive oil; divide these evenly for each can and fill up with cold vinegar. In preparing cucumbers remove every particle of the green tinge, otherwise the salad will be bitter. A few strips of sweet green pepper added to the can will be delicious, giving a piquant flavor.

String-Beans

Thus, for example, take string-beans, and, if you have been accustomed to the simple, old-fashioned method of cooking them, prepare them in this fashion, and see what a difference the change in recipe will make: String and break the beans as usual, or cut in lengthwise strips; then boil them in salted water, adding half a medium-sized onion to each two quarts of beans. Do not let them boil too fast at first, but, when they are nearly done, increase the heat until the water gallops, and keep this up until the beans are almost dry, being careful not to let them "catch." When done, season with butter, pepper and salt; then add some mashed potato and hot cream—one large potato, well mashed, and three-quarters of a teacupful of cream to the two quarts of beans.

For another change, when the beans have cooked tender in the salted water, drain them, and, having melted some butter in the frying-pan, fry them with some minced parsley and chopped onion until lightly browned. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and finally add a cupful of chicken or veal stock to each quart of beans, and bring to a boil.

Cooking Vegetables in Milk

The flavor of Lima, kidney and other shell-beans is also improved if they are cooked with rich milk, or cream. To prepare them in this fashion, cook them as ordinarily—in salted water—and when tender drain them, and return them to the saucepan, adding half a pint of the milk or cream to each pint of beans (measured before cooking), one tablespoonful of flour that has been blended with the same quantity of butter, a little parsley, thyme and bayleaf, minced fine together, and pepper and salt to taste. Simmer for ten minutes before serving.

Green peas also blend tastily with milk. In fact, in some parts of Canada fresh peas are always boiled in milk instead of water, and when tender, the milk in which they were cooked is drained off, and the vegetables are served with a goodly portion of warm cream poured over them, the only addition being a reasonable seasoning of salt and pepper.

Different as the flavors of green peas and mint may be, the two, strange as it may seem, combine delectably. To test this fact, take a few sprigs of fresh mint and chop them fine; then cook and serve them with the peas. The French cooks often add a head of lettuce, carefully tied with twine to prevent the leaves from separating, and sometimes a bunch of spring onions—"rareripes," or "scullions," as they are called in some parts of the country.

Peas a la Creole

In New Orleans, the genuine Creole cook would first place the peas in a saucepan with two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter and a teacupful of salted water to each pint of peas. When tender, they would be mixed with the yolk of an egg previously beaten to a froth with three tablespoonfuls of cream. To this mixture a sprinkling of white pepper and a teaspoonful of powdered sugar would be added, after which the peas would be left to simmer for five minutes or more before being served.

Corn and tomatoes make another fresh-vegetable combination that would tempt the palate of the most censorious epicure, and there are several ways in which this dish may be prepared. The simplest recipe requires that the corn and tomatoes be arranged in a baking-dish in alternate layers, with sugar, butter and salt between each layer as seasoning. Then, when the top has been covered with a generous layer of buttered crumbs, the dish is sent to the oven to stay until its contents are ready for the table.

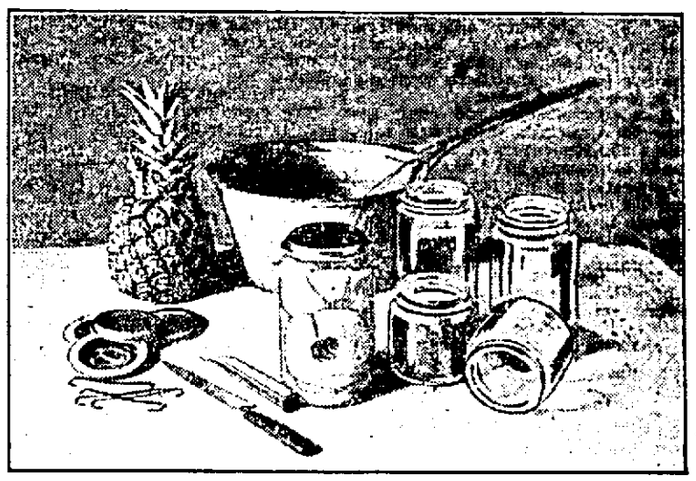

Appetizing as this invention may be, to my mind it is not to be compared to the combination of tomatoes stuffed with corn. To attain this masterpiece in culinary art, cut the corn from the cob; season it liberally with butter, pepper and salt; add a suggestion of sugar, if the corn is not as sweet as might be desired, and use this mixture to stuff some tomatoes from which the centers have been removed. Put a piece of butter on top of each tomato, and bake until done.

Corn and Peppers

A delicious mixture of corn and peppers may be prepared by the following recipe: Melt two heaping tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, and in it fry three tablespoonfuls of chopped green pepper and about half that quantity of minced onion. When these have commenced to brown satisfactorily, add two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour. Stir briskly, and when the mixture has become smooth add a pint of corn that has just been cut from the cob, and a little more than half a pint of rich cream. Cook slowly until the corn is done, then add salt and pepper to taste.

For those who love chicken pie, here is a suggestion that will be certain to please: Prepare the chicken as usual and when ready for the oven arrange the pieces in the baking-dish; then fill all the space remaining with corn that has freshly been cut from the cob. Add plenty of butter, pepper and salt, and enough milk to moisten sufficiently. Put on the crust, and bake. You will not be sorry when you sample the result.

NEW FASHIONS IN THE PREPARATION OF OLD-FASHIONED VEGETABLES

CANNING PINEAPPLE

Egg-Plant

Egg-plant is a vegetable that is not as well known or as popular as it deserves to be. As a matter of fact, a great many persons do not care for it when cooked in the ordinary ways—either fried or stuffed; but try it as follows:

Peel and slice the egg-plant, and arrange these slices in a baking-dish with a layer of thinly-sliced tomato and a generous sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese between each layer of the vegetable. Dot here and there with bits of butter; season to taste with pepper and salt, and bake until done.

Another method is to fry the sliced egg-plant and place these slices in a baking-dish with the sprinkling of Parmesan cheese between each layer. When the dish is nearly full cover the egg-plant with white sauce; spread a layer of cheese and crumbs over the top, and bake until brown.

A still more unique suggestion provides that the egg-plant shall be peeled, sliced and boiled until tender. The slices are then mashed, three beaten eggs are added, with pepper and salt to taste, and sufficient flour to make a batter. When thoroughly mixed, this batter is fried on the griddle like potato cakes.

WHAT TO WEAR

Suggestions for the Solution of the Ever Present Problem of Dress

"WHAT shall I wear?" This inquiry is so frequently sent in by correspondents who are in uncertainty as to the appropriate dress for various occasions, that a few general suggestions may be of interest.

Home for Day Weddings

At day weddings, either at a church or at home, at wedding receptions, luncheons, afternoon teas, or card-parties, women guests wear reception or visiting dresses, and hats and white kid gloves. Hats are not removed at any of these day affairs.

If wearing a heavy outer wrap or long coat when driving in winter, this is taken off and left in the dressing-room at a reception or tea; but if one is wearing a little coat, which is part of one's reception dress, it need not be removed, and one does not take off one's furs. A short visit only is made at a tea, or reception, and for this reason one does not remove outer wraps, unless they are cumbersome.

It is quite allowable to go to a tea, or card-party, in a plain tailor-made street dress, if one prefers. Wraps are removed at a card-party, as guests are expected to remain two or three hours. Gloves are taken off when taking one's seat at table at a "sitting-down" wedding breakfast, a luncheon, or a card-party. Gloves are not removed at a "standing-up" collation at a wedding reception.

Church Weddings

If a wedding is in a church, the bride's mother wears a hat and does not remove it when returning home for the reception. Her dress may be of finest cloth, or of silk or velvet. The color chosen is usually gray or mauve, although any pretty color may be worn.

Bridesmaids wear hats at day weddings, or they may wear short veils of tulle, fastened with small wreaths of artificial flowers.

The Hostess Gown

A hostess and those receiving with her at an afternoon tea, wear dresses high in the neck. The materials may be silk, or lace, or fine woolen fabrics. Black lace or dark silk may be chosen by older women. Young girls wear white or light-colored dresses of chiffon or other transparent.

A hostess does not wear gloves at an informal afternoon tea, or for the usual "days at home," but may wear them on the occasion of a very large formal "at home." Women or young girls who preside at a tea-table and pour tea never wear gloves.

At a large evening party or dance, a hostess should wear gloves, but she never does so when receiving before a dinner or a luncheon.

Dressing for the Theater

Dresses for the theater may be similar to those worn when going to an afternoon tea or reception; that is, they may be of fine cloth. Pretty waists of lace, or with lace or chiffon yoke, may be used for the theater with separate skirt of silk or cloth. Hats are removed at a theater, and the custom is to hold one's hat in the lap. In a box in a theater women need not remove their hats, because in a box the hats do not interfere with the view of others in the rear.

More elaborate gowns may be worn for the theater, if preferred. These may be of silk or lace, but these are not worn when walking and must be covered by long wraps. Always these gowns are high in the neck for the theater or for dining in public, and hats are not removed when dining in a restaurant.

Street Wear

For street wear in winter, for shopping, for informal morning visits to intimate friends, or for church wear, a cloth tailor-made dress of quiet color, a hat not too large, gloves of tan dogskin, or of undressed kid, gray or tan, and calf-skin boots, should be chosen.

Economy in Wardrobe

Frequent changes of fashion make it undesirable to have a quantity of dresses. Far better is it to have a few gowns of best material, well-made and sufficient for the season, than to have many of inferior quality, or made in the extreme of a passing fashion. It is always in good taste to have a plain dress of durable and dark material, a hat not overtrimmed. The avoidance of what is conspicuous, exaggerated, showy or eccentric is an important point to remember. Elaborate trimmings soon become shabby; a light color soils quickly.

To dress with neatness, simplicity and in accordance with one's income, position and age and in appropriateness to the occasion, are among the things which characterize a well-dressed woman. Gowns must be in perfect order and well-brushed; hats and gloves must be fresh; shoes must be polished.

It is important to have dresses which are correct in cut and in fitting and adapted to one's personal appearance, and very important to consider the color, style and material which will be appropriate to one's age, complexion, height and figure.

Cooked Cucumbers

Fried cucumber is another delicacy that all may enjoy now that these vegetables are sold at so moderate a price. To prepare them, peel the cucumbers, slice lengthwise, and let them lie in salted water from half to three-quarters of an hour. At the end of this time drain them thoroughly, roll in egg and bread-crumbs, and fry until attractively browned, in butter. Serve with tiny bits of lemon as an accompaniment.

If the cucumbers are to be served as an entrée, cut them in halves lengthwise—after peeling them—and remove the seeds with a spoon. Drop them for about a minute and a half into boiling water to which some salt and a little vinegar has been added; then remove, pour over them some cold water and wipe dry. When this process has been completed, fill the cucumbers with a stuffing made as follows: To half a pound of finely-chopped chicken add half a cupful of well-soaked bread-crumbs, two beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and pepper and salt to taste. Do not fill the cucumbers too full, as the stuffing will swell when cooking.

Put the two halves of each cucumber together, tie them with twine, and put them in a pan with enough chicken broth, or good stock, to half cover. Cook very slowly until the cucumbers are tender. When nearly done, season with butter, pepper and salt, and when the vegetables are finally ready to serve, thicken the gravy with flour and pour it over them.

Welsh-rabbit Points

The cheese in a Welsh-rabbit will not separate or become stringy if the following suggestions are observed: The "rabbit" should not be cooked directly over a flame, as the intense heat hardens the albumen in the cheese; but over hot water, and the water should not be allowed to boil. To further insure success, add a pinch of soda, which serves to counteract the acidity of the cheese. This also makes it more digestible.

TREATMENT of NERVOUSNESS

Control and Cure of this Great American Disease Easily Attained

NERVOUSNESS is called the disease of Americans, and probably nervousness is more rife in America than anywhere else in the world. The reasons of it are very easy to see, and reside in those circumstances which distinguish American life and customs from those of other nations. It is not the stimulating air or climate, for we have every known climate. It is not an inheritance, but it is the striving induced by surrounding conditions—the desire to be something supposed by the individual to be better and beyond that which he has or his parents had.

The Old World is somewhat like one of those planets in which, after ages of struggles, everything has come to a stop. Here there is a constant ferment, and, whether one will or no, he is drawn into the struggle, and the wear and tear of it after a time frazzles the nerves.

Nervousness a Disease

Many people think that nervousness is simply an exhibition of irritability, which shows itself in an unusual and unnecessary display of the emotions, a quickness of temper and a peppery outpouring of words. These are the symptoms of a certain form of nervousness, and possibly may not be a display of nervousness at all, but a result of a naturally cross-grained disposition.

General Symptoms

The nervousness of worry, overwork and effort are different. Sleeplessness and loss of appetite are the first symptoms; indigestion follows, then comes a lack of power to concentrate the mind. These are the prominent symptoms of the nervous breakdown, the danger signals which one should take note of.

Man should feel, in common with the animals, a need for food at stated times, and have the desire for sleep and the ability to do so. If appetite is lacking and the rhythm of sleeping and waking is jangled, then the mind and reason, which is said to distinguish man from the animals, should come in and take command, otherwise the more serious symptoms of nervousness will appear.

Languor will follow restlessness, inability to do ordinary things, the starting at noises, in some instances oversensitiveness of the eyes to light and of the ears to sound, and a host of other disturbances, which are very different from the traits of feeling of the individual ordinarily, will come. Hunt, then, for the causes of the appearance of nerves, that you may overcome them.

Avoid Stimulants

In the first place, it may be that you are using stimulants, tea and coffee in excess; if you are a man you are probably smoking too much. You may be working too intently upon one thing and not taking sufficient exercise. You may be overeating, or taking too much rich food that taxes the nerves of the stomach, which calls in the nerves of other parts of the body to sympathize with the outrages put upon it.

In short, you must candidly face the facts and ascertain what laws of hygiene you are violating, for all of us do that in a greater or less degree. Regulate your diet so that it will be simple and nutritious. Those who are nervous should not drink tea or coffee. If yours is an aggravated case, get a change of some kind as soon as possible, so that the nerves which have received the constant usage of daily life will have a chance to recuperate, while other sets of nerves are brought into action to relieve them.

Change Is Necessary

Those who have an attack of nervousness are very often those who have gone through some great mental shock or anxiety, or have received a blow through the loss of loved ones or of fortune, or those who have gotten into a rut in life, and one day follows another with a monotony of existence. For all such, and many other cases, change is necessary.

If it is not possible to go away that other scenes may cause other thoughts and actions and bring variety, then be inventive in doing the things of your daily life in a different manner. Take new walks and exercises, think new thoughts, study some books, or read those which will give you an entirely different view of life.

The nervous have a tendency to avoid new acquaintances, but often the coming in contact with other people will bring a change which is helpful and diverting. Avoid taking medicines suggested by sympathizing friends. The nervous are apt to dose themselves with unreasoning zeal, taking first one thing and then another.

Take hot baths at night to arouse the sluggish circulation, and brisk rubs with a flesh brush or a rough towel to make the skin of the body red. Quicken circulation by walks and other exercise.

If your life is very humdrum, and you see little chance of varying it, use your imagination, as do the children in their play, and make a change in that way. An ancient hymn writer declares that the sweeping of a room can be done to the glory of God. So the daily acts of life, infused with new and lofty thoughts, can be changed from drudgery and commonplace. Above all, the nervous must learn self-forgetfulness.

H. B.—Would you please tell me what kinds of food to eat? I am troubled so much with nervousness I cannot talk to people the way I would like to. I have stomach and liver trouble, I am told. I am gaining weight, but not strength. I would like also to know how to feed my baby, who is two and a half years old. He occasionally gets a bad breath.

Your nervousness when you talk with people will pass away if you try to talk with a number of people, and pay no attention to your feeling about it. Try and eat all the nourishing food that you can. You know by experience what agrees with you better than I can tell you at this distance.

When the boy's breath is bad, it is likely that he is constipated and needs a laxative. The following is a good diet list for a child of two and a half years. He should have four meals a day. At the first meal, say at 7.30, one or two tumblerfuls of milk, a saucerful of some of the breakfast cereals (if rice or oatmeal or Indian meal, care should be taken to cook them thoroughly), and a couple of slices of bread and butter, the bread a day old. The second meal, say, at 11 A.M., a glassful of milk or a cupful of meat broth, with bread or a cracker. The third meal, at 2 P.M., a slice of roast beef, lamb, mutton or chicken, a baked potato moistened with gravy—the potato well mashed and the meat minced fine; a slice or two of bread and butter, after which a saucer of rice or bread pudding, custard or some simple dessert. Fourth meal, at 6.30, a glassful of milk, one or two slices of bread and butter or milk toast, a baked apple or stewed prunes. The times you can adjust to suit your convenience, but the meals should be about this distance apart, regulated with so many hours between; and it is very necessary to be regular in feeding. I have said a laxative might be needed but it is best to regulate the child as far as possible by means of coarser bread, or use Indian meal as a cereal at breakfast, with stewed fruit or prunes.

Respect a Child's Pride

Sensible parents do not correct, or criticise, or praise a child in the presence of others; they do not talk before him of distressing things, illness, accidents, crimes or problems of life.

Play is an important part of childhood and should be encouraged. It gives joy, contentment and occupation. A child's world is one of imagination, and is very real to him. His blocks, balls, water colors, scrap-books, sand, spools and garden tools are very serious things to him. In his play a child learns to have resources, to depend on himself; he is active, determined, absorbed; his mind grows in a healthy power of imitation, invention and imagination.

His play should not be controlled by older persons. Much may be learned of his disposition in his play. When with other children does he lead or follow; is he fair or unjust, generous or grasping, amiable and forgiving, or quarrelsome and vindictive?

Mothers and fathers who are wise will cultivate a child's imagination. He may be told stories from history, the beautiful and simple stories from the Bible. Story books and music books should be in every home. A mother should use her talent in music, small though it may be, in giving the pleasure that is derived from simplest songs and music.

Awake an Interest in Love of Nature

A child's interest should be awakened in love for Nature, for animals and birds. If he is taught that the humblest living creatures should have his protection and affection, he will never be thoughtless or cruel in his treatment of them.

A child may be told of God's love in the wonderful gifts of the things of the earth, the flowers and fruits for beauty and use.

Wonder may be awakened in his mind in the immensity of the universe, the glory of the sun, the beauty and mystery of the stars, the expanse of sky and sea.

The religious spirit should be fostered in childhood. Unless this is done it will not have strong growth.

The personality of the mother has much to do in originating in the child the earliest ideas of God and immortality. The sincerity of her faith, her reverence for all sacred and holy things—these are almost unconsciously observed by a child and form an impression never to be forgotten.

HUSTLERS CAN SECURE ALL THE VOTES THEY WANT IN CONTEST

BY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF SCHEDULE WHICH AWARDS 10,000 FOR YEAR'S SUBSCRIP-.... TION; LIBERAL VOTES FOR LESS PERIOD OF TIME

INTERESTED WORKERS THRONG CONTEST DEPARTMENT DAIDY; SUBSCRIPTIONS .. CAN BE LENGTHENED IN CONTESTANT'S FAVOR

It is interesting to note the satisfied expressions on the faces of the contestants who daily throng the offices of the contest department. They are enjoying the pastime of securing votes in the great race and are enthused beyond measure over the prospects of winning one of the $3,500 worth of awards. It is the contest of contests and all who are participating feel the thrill of the merry chase.

Votes are free in this unparallel offer of the Tribune. You may secure them by clipping them from the paper each night and filling out the blank space with the name and district number of your candidate. Mail or bring them into the contest department. Then there is the schedule of votes by which you may, by securing subscriptions, enlarge your votes by leaps and bounds. A one year paid in advance subscription to the Daily Tribune gives you 10,000 votes.

If a subscriber should enter his name for a month's subscription and, before the expiration of the month, decide to increase his subscription to a year, bring in the lengthened subscription with the difference in price between a year's subscription and what had been paid for a month. The full 10,000 votes will b given to you, less what has been received before.

It will be seen in this way that contestants can, by "keeping tab" on their subscribers, ascertain whether or not any of them desire to increase the length of time for their subscriptions. If they do, you benefit to the full extent in the voting, and it is the same as though you had secured the subscription for the long term at first.

Votes brought in before 1 p. m. daily appear in the paper of the day following. District numbers must be placed on the coupons. Call up the contest manager for other information.

To secure the votes issued on subscriptions, money must be paid in advance for The Tribune. Receipt books with which to record subscriptions are given to contestants and are for the asking. This is your race and the manner in which you enter it will have much to do with the final result. Sept. 11 at 10 p. m. sees the contest closed. The game is but started. Do the work today that will insure success for tomorrow. The phone in the contest department is number 323.

Standings Published Daily

The standings of the contestants will be changed from day to day as to the number of votes they receive. The ballot box will close each day at noon for the standing to be printed in the next day's paper. Votes appearing today represent standings of the candidates at noon yesterday.

Open Evenings

For the benefit of those who are not able to call at the contest department's office during business hours, this department will be open every evening.

FOUR COURSES OF POISON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—Physicians at the city hospital today are doing their best for David Eichengo, a motoman, who yesterday while brooding over an accident in which a car of which he was motorman was blamed, decided to end his life and applied four methods all at once. He swallowed powdered glass and match heads and took four ounces of liquid shoe polish and then for desert turned on the gas. He was still in a critical condition today.

MONKEY CALLS OUT MESSENGER SERVICE

Pet Animal Wanders Into a Vacant Store and Has the Messengers Hopping

Because a monkey "monkeyed" with a call box operators and messengers at the offices of the North American Telegraph company were caused no little annoyance Saturday afternoon, and the messenger call system was almost put out of business. It was necessary to make a canvass of a whole section of down town call boxes before the "monkeywork" could be found.

Robert Swenson, assistant manager of the office found the cause of the trouble. A pet monkey, belonging to people living up stairs had been tied to a ring in the wall of a vacant building on Jay street, formerly occupied by the Hawley Commission company. When Swenson arrived, jocko was busily pulling the buzzer handle with his ear to the side of the box, and an expression of delight and amusement covered his broad countenance. At the office a confused jumble of dots and dashes was coming in on the tape, with occasional long flashes where his monkeyship took a swing on the hook. The box has now been removed.

BADLY BEATEN, THEN ARRESTED

First run over by a bicycle, then assaulted and beaten until his face this morning was badly swollen and two beautiful black eyes adorned his countenance, was the eventful experience of Gotlieb Goll yesterday.

Goll was standing on the sidewalk in front of a saloon on South Second street yesterday afternoon, when a boy riding a wheel collided with him and knocked him off his feet. He remonstrated with the boy and pushed him from the walk. The boy went home and told his father, and then F. K. Luedke came out and took the matter up with the result that there was a fight in which Goll got badly punished.

This morning a sheriff's officer appeared at the Goll home and the victim was haled into county court on an assault and battery charge preferred by Luedtke. The man pleaded not guilty and will be given an opportunity to be heard this afternoon. In the meanwhile papers are being prepared for the arrest of the other party to the fracas.

CURED HAY FEVER AND SUMMER COLD

A. S. Naushaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." O. T. Erhart.

TRACKING DOWN THE CHILD STEALERS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—The vigilance committee, an organization consisting of prominent politicians banded together to prevent outlawry by Italians, today began a search of the Italian colony here with the hope of finding the two Viviano children, kidnaped last Monday in St. Louis. Italian detectives have reached the conclusion that Callogero Giandusas, an Italian, alleged to have been the leader of the gang which kidnaped the six-year-old son of Peter Lamanas, and Peter Turissi, alleged leader of the Viviano kidnapers, are one and the same. Judge Patorna, of the vigilance committee, who gave the police assistance in running down and arresting eight members of the gang of blackhanders in the Lamanas case furnished the police with information today which has started a search for Turissi Ginadusas. After the murder of the Lamanas, Giandusas escaped and a large reward is still upon his head. The activity of the police was further stimulated by the statement of several Americans who claim to have seen a strange Italian with two little children in the Italian quarter within the past few days.

CLOTHING TEAM WORSTS NOXALLS

The La Crosse Noxalls were defeated Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. Only once did a Noxall player reach third base. Peterson for the La Crosse Clothing company was invincible while Nonstad for the Noxalls was touched up for eleven hits. Twelve Noxalls went down on strike-outs while only four were made by Nesham and Exel, two Noxall outfielders. The Clothing company is now ready for the Athletes at any time, which game will decide who are the city champions for 1909.

Out of nine games played this season, the La Crosse Clothing company team has won 7, lost 1, and tied one, giving them a percentage of .875.

FLOOD AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 9.—No lives were lost in the flood which swept the country west of Denver Sunday doing damage estimated at $150,000. A large number of persons were reported missing last night but all were found today. Several children who were missing were found in the crowds of sightseers watching the rushing of ater.

Early today the residents of the stricken districts got another fright when the waters rose five feet adding to the damage already done.

GOVERNOR'S GUARDS DECIDE ON PICNIC

The annual outing of the La Crosse Governor's Guard association will be held at Liede's park on the La Crosse and Southeastern railroad, Sunday, August 22. The Third Regiment military band, of Viroqua has been asked to join the guardsmen in this outing and excursions will be run from Viroqua over the Southeastern road.

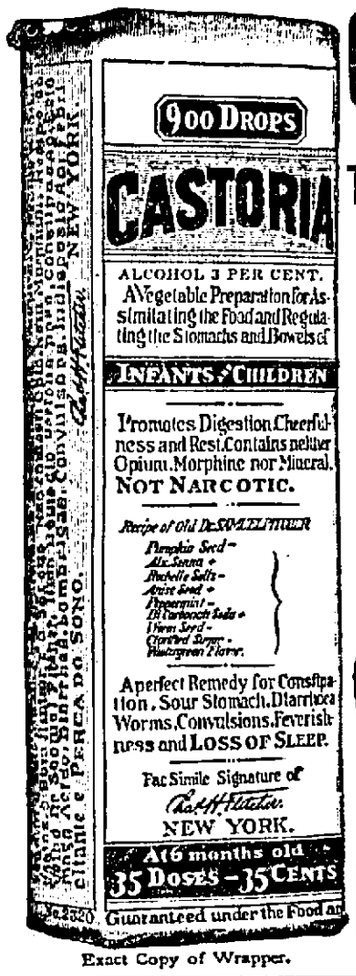

Committee have been appointed to make arrangements. All of the German societies of the city as well as the local military companies have been invited to participate, and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Do you know what Woodbury's Combination Hair and Scalp Treatment really is? Do you know why it saves the hair when all other preparations fail?

Woodbury's combination Hair and Scalp Treatment is the result of actual experience—not mere theory. The experience of the Woodbury specialists has PROVED that the right combination must have—a germicide and curative—a cleanser and stimulant—a prophylactic and beautifier.

The famous Woodbury combination supplies all three.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CREAM
The Germicide and Curative
It destroys germ life. It restores perfect health to the hair glands and purifies the hair follicle. It cures scaly tetter, eczema, salt rheum and all those deseases which cause dry or greasy dandruff and itching of the scalp.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CLEANER
The Cleanser and Stimulant
It dissolves and removes greasy dandruff and all traces of other diseases from the scalp. It invigorates the scalp and keeps the hair clean and healthy. It revives the circulation throughout the scalp and makes it tingle with new life.

WOODBURY'S Combination HAIR TONIC
The Prophylactic and Beautifier
It protects the hair against germ infection. It feeds the hair roots. It restores the lustre to the hair from roots to ends and preserves its natural color. It prevents dandruff and makes the hair fluffy and beautiful.

What Mrs. John F. Howson, 498 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y. says about The Woodbury Treatment for the Hair and Scalp.

I have used about all the remedies for falling hair that one might have recommended to them during their natural life. I spent a lot of money for hair invigorators and restoratives, and got absolutely no favorable results until I started the treatment you so kindly recommended to me. My hair stopped falling out just as soon as I used the Woodbury's Scalp Cream in conjunction with the Scalp Cleaner. Its action was just like magic. The thick greasy dandruff is all gone. My hair is growing nicely and taking on a new growth. Your Hair Tonic I use night and morning, and it is the nicest hair dressing I have ever used. Thanking you for the letters of advice, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. JOHN F. HOWSON

THE ANTI-FREE RAW MATERIAL FACTION

Congressman W. Audrey Thomas of Ohio at Top; Congressman H. Olin Young of Michigan, Below.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—As the forces line up for the final fight on the tariff question, after it has been reported out of the confer- ence committee, the insurgents will be well organized under the direction of Young of Michigan, Hubbard of Iowa, Thomas of Ohio and Langley of Kentucky.

By the insurgents are no longer meant those fighting the cause of downward revision, as they were when the house first considered the tariff, but rather are they fighting for protection on raw materials. This change has taken place because the sentiment of the majority has follow- ed the lead of the president in de- manding free raw materials. Now the insurgents are those who wish protection for raw material and are organized under the head of "anti- free-raw-material faction."

BODY OF JULIUS SWENNES COMING

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The stock market opened with a bullish tone approaching buoyancy. Yesterday's late losses were recovered. A number of the stocks established new rec- ords. Union Pacific was the strongest feature, gaining one point and rang- ing above 205. At the end of the first fifteen minutes the market rul- ed strong and active.

11 a. m.—There were set price concessions before the end of the first hour. Several large orders were pressed for Rock Island common and preferred, causing the latter to ad- vance over three points.

Governments unchanged; other bonds firm.

Noon.—The tone ruled strong during the last half of the forenoon. Few further advances were made over the higher levels reached in the first hour. Amalgamated Copper was in better demand than usual, moving up to 87.

SPARTA COUPLE WED IN JEWISH FASHION

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—With all the pomp and ceremonies of a Hebrew wedding the first Jewish wedding ever solemnized in this city took place in Assembly hall Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock at which time Miss Hulda Levin of Sparta and Mr. Samuel Gross of Black River Falls were made man and wife by Rabbi Bornstein of Milwaukee who chanted the Jewish rites of the ceremony.

Dancing was the first part of the jollification program and was started about 5 o'clock and indulged in for an hour previous to the real marriage ceremony which was performed in the center of the hall beneath a hoopy (canopy) under which the rabbi, bride and groom and the near relatives stood during the marriage ceremonies.

The hoopy-ga-deshen (ceremony) was started with the chanting of the Rabbi followed by the glass heahage, (prayer). The rabbi then gave the bride and groom wine to drink and broke the glass beneath his feet after both had partaken. The zula (wedding certificate) was repeated in Jewish by Rabbi Bernstein and afterward translated in the English language by L. B. Orenberg of La Crosse. Bozel-tuff (congratulations) were then in order and the many friends of the couple showered them with kisses and congratulatory blessings.

The bride's gown was of white embroidered mull, princess style, trimmed with val lace and white satin ribbon. She wore the conventional bridal veil with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried sweet peas.

It is the Jewish custom to burn candles during the ceremony and each of the guests was given a candle which was lighted at the time the wedding vows were taken. This adds solemnity to the ceremony. Some 200 candles were burning at the time. Another Jewish custom which is the opposite from American custom is the wearing of hats by the male guests.

A wedding march in which every guest joined, followed, the guests ending the march at the supper tables where the wedding banquet was served. The menu consisted of gifilthy (chipped fish balls boiled) herring, ookerties (pickles, boat (bread), kaze (cheese), olives, bygal (doughnuts), lacoch (cake), trinking, (drinks, pop, lemonade, beer, etc.).

After the repast dancing was again resumed and lasted until the early hours of the morning. Gustard's orchestra furnished the music and Gilmore Gustad rendered some fine xylophone selections during the evening.

Many telegrams of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Gross as well as hundreds of beautiful and costly wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross will reside in Black River Falls, where Mr. Gross has business interests.

Miss Beasie Merenberg of Denver san the old Jewish love song, "Under the Matzos Tree" after the wedding supper was finished.

As is the custom following the Jewish wedding ceremonies, a great many present assembled in the banquet room where the rabbies present were seated and received blessing from them, for which a small tip is proffered.

OMAHA MAYOR DENOUNCED

OMAHA, Neb., Aug 10.—Demanding the removal of Mayor Dahlman and four members of the Omaha fire and police board, the anti-saloon league today prepared a complaint to be presented to Gov. Schallenberger The anti-saloon officials allege that the municipal officers are derelict in their duty of enforcing the "daylight" saloon law.

Commissioners named in the complaint are C. J. Karback, W. F. Wappith, W. J. Hunter and Fred Hoye.

$100,000,000 SPENT YEARLY IN VACATIONS

CHICAKO, Aug. 10.—Now the cost of summer vacations has been computed, compiled and totaled—at $525,000 for Chicago and a grand total for the United States of $100,000,000 of which sum the beneficiaries are legion and largely rural. Greater efficiency is the reason given for these vacation expenses, a business investment. According to a schedule compiled, vacation expenses average $151.79 of which business houses pay a share. The west is catching up with the east in this regard but Uncle Sam, as result of custom, stands the heaviest expense for the junketing of employes, the total being six million dollars each year, according to the figures of an official in the treasury department. Uncle Sam's employes are by custom entitled to thirty days' vacation during the year and an extra thirty days' sick leave, receiving full pay for the sixty days of idleness. Fully seventy-five per cent of the number contrive to get their full time on "sick leave." No government employe was ever known to suffer from overwork, and it is questionable if they need vacations for recuperative purposes. Other investigations that have recently been made indicate that there are many superfluous persons in the employ of the government, about three men being paid to do the work that could be handled by two with ease, so that if true economy were practiced in all government departments, that deficit in the treasury that is so much talked of would soon be eliminated. The piece hands who take vacations lose the wages they might have earned during that time while salaried men in many cases receive full pay during their idleness. Savings and surplusses are hit harder by the summer outing than any other item, it being now-a-days a conspicuous factor in the spending of the $1,455,619,473 which industries in the United States annually disburse. The average national daily wage is $1.32, and average daily salary is $3.00. There is distributed among 519,751 salaried persons, and among 5,470,321 wage earners a total of $3,186,301,763.

TAFT TRYING TO SAVE MR. TAWNEY

It develops that the reason Mr. Taft will spend an evening in Winona and only an hour in La Crosse is that Congressman Tawney's skin is in danger at the next election, owing to his record, and his recent vote on the tariff bill, and the president seeks to bolster up his game with the people of his district. Although Congressman Esch of this city voted the same way, President Taft does not consider that any opposition has developed to Mr. Esch and that the latter consequently does not need any help just now. Tawney's opponents put up a hot fight against him before and they publicly declare they will get his scalp next time, with the added ammunition of his record in the past congress.

CANAL FINANCED BY BELMONT

August Belmont turning the first sod in the Cape Cod canal and map showing the location of this canal.

BOURNEDALE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Last week August Belmont, with fitting ceremonies and surrounded by a group of friends and well-wishers, turned the first sod in the first great American canal financed by an individual. Those present included the men who, with Belmont, are interested in the canal and the New York engineers who will have the construction.

The canal was started on the old Perry estate here and the spade used by Mr. Belmont was of silver. The canal is to cost about $5,000,000, and when completed will form a part of the great Atlantic coast system of inside waterways from Massachusetts to the gulf. This canal will save not only much time in going from New York to Boston, but will prevent many wrecks on the reefs around Cape Cod.

CHILD PARALYSIS IS A GERM DISEASE

Well Posted Physicians Tell of the New Malady Which Is Dangerous to Babes

Information Is As Yet Too Undecided to Permit of Diagnosis and Treatment

La Crosse physicians are puzzled with the new Anterior Polio-myelitis, or child paralysis which caused the death of little Elise Johnson of Indian Hill, and has raged as an epidemic in some of the cities of the northwest. It is believed to be a germ disease, but no specific has yet been found owing to the fact the physicians know little about the trouble. One physician discussing it said:

"It acts queerly, paralyzing the spine, and attacks children from two to eight years of age.

"Its effects are severe, though the percentage of deaths is not large. It leaves the child usually in a paralyzed state, for which medical science has thus far been unable to discover a cure. We can hardly say there is a direct cure, though the disease is best treated by nerve specialists.

"Study has shown that the disease may be slightly contagious. The state takes no chances and regulations are to isolate the case and disinfect to some extent. In case of death, a private funeral must be held under the law.

Affects Spinal Cord

"Infantile paralysis is a disease of early life, affecting certain parts of the spinal cord or legs. It usually begins with what the parents think is stomach trouble. A day or two of fever, with lack of appetite, deranged bowels, nausea and general pains, is usually followed by a complete paralysis of the legs or a leg and an arm. The paralysis is usually complete by the time it is discovered, and it comes rather suddenly, being discovered usually when the mother tries to get the child up in the morning.

"It is very rarely fatal. The fever ends when the paralysis begins. Improvement usually takes place in the paralyzed limbs, motion being regained up to a certain point, beyond which recovery of motion is not to be expected.

Is Germ Disease

"It is a germ disease. The nature of the germ is unknown. It is thought by some to be contagious and by others to be infectious. Epidemics of large proportions have been known. In Eau Claire and western Wisconsin last year several hundred cases occurred. In Vermont a few years ago a large number of children were afflicted, and it was noticed that hens were also subject to the disease. It is supposed to be due to a germ which spreads through dust, dirt and earth.

"Nothing definite being known of the nature of the germ, it is hard to say how best to prevent the disease. General cleanliness of children, simple diet, the avoidance of uncooked fruit and vegetables, and keeping children from playing in the dirt are advised. Sanitary surroundings tend to give immunity. In many places the cellars of houses in which the disease occurs are damp and unsanitary. Contact with children having the disease should be avoided."

Health Officer Murphy says there were four cases in Milwaukee last winter.

| First year | 17c | 19c 6 mos. 20c 6 mos. |
| Second year | 19c | 23c |
| Third year | 19c | 23c |
| Fourth year | 21c | 23c. |

Late this afternoon the decision of the arbitration board in relation to the differences between the La Crosse City Street Railway company and its employees was made public. The decision is a victory for the men, granting them a raise of about 15 per cent, and giving the union control of the grievance committee by establishing the rule that all its members shall be elected by majority vote. The opinion is drawn by State Arbitrator John Humphreys.

member of the local board, and is concurred in by Fred H. Hartwell, board member. J. W. Ferris, the third member, is absent from the city, but it is not believed he will concur in the decision.

The decision affects wages of the men as follows: The old scale was 17 cents for the first year, 19 for the ensuing two years, and 21 cents thereafter; the new scale is 19 cents for the first six months, 20 for the second six months, and 23 cents thereafter.

In addition to these findings, the opinion severely criticises the company and the police department for violating the anti-pass law, and suggests that the proper authorities should take action in the matter. It also suggests that the men should be given a more convenient and shorter work schedule, critizes the sliding scale as tending to invite injustice, reflects upon the bookkeeping system of the company, and urges the railway commission to take wages into consideration when fixing rates to be charged by utility companies, concluding with a suggestion that some legal tribunal to which labor can appeal for adjustment of wage controversies should be promptly established.

TEXT OF OFFICIAL STRIKE DECISION

"As one of the arbitrators chosen to adjust the differences existing between the La Crosse City Railway Company and its employes, the board of arbitration having given all parties ample opportunity to be heard, after carefully considering all the testimony and conditions surrounding the points at issue, and being fully advised in the premises, I hereby make and file this my findings and judgment with D. C. Lewis, official stenographer of the said arbitration board.—

The first question submitted for the consideration of the board is, "to determine a fair manner of appointing and hearing a committee representing employees, the said committee to exist during the life of such wage scale as may be put in force, and to represent the men in the discussion and determination of all questions that may hereafter come up for consideration between the company and its employees."

In determining the just settlement of this question I am guided in a great part by the fact that the evidence shows, and I believe it to be a fact, that with non-union men working with union men on such a committee the committee would fail to be a unit, and would therefor fail of efficiency. It is the most important factor for a committee when it meets its employers for the purpose of adjusting grievances, that it shall all be of one opinion, and present the same general line of argument. The statement of the Company in Page of record 28 failed to reveal to us that there has been any request made by the non-union men to be represented on the committee and it looks to me as though the Company does not desire a unanimous committee. Any fair minded person will agree that a mixed committee of union and non-union men would be impracticable, and could not secure good results, nor bring about harmonious relations between employees, and employers.

The committee as constituted under this decision will not interfere with the principle of open shop agreement that was entered into between this company and its employees to the effect that men shall be employed regardless of whether they belong to the union or not. The rule laid down discriminates against no one; it is merely that the majority shall select the committee. The fact that this majority is at present with the union is a mere circumstance, as this majority may at any time be lost and the non-union men may be in the majority, thus securing control of the committee. The idea is that the majority shall rule, whether union or non-union.

I feel that the company should treat with a committee representing and designated by the majority of their employees to adjust all matters in dispute that shall come before them during the life of this agreement. The union men would not take the non-union men into their confidence and the non-union men would not care to confide in the union men.

Supporting my contentions that the fact that the employes are to be represented by a union committee is not an infringement on the right of the company to run an open shop, I cite the fact, for example, that the great trunk line steam railroads are for the most part open shops, but the employes on all these lines are represented by union committees, and I believe that these committees have been entirely satisfactory to their employers.

I therefore find and adjudge on Question Second:

The company shall designate a proper officer or officers of the company who shall meet a committee of its employees at any time to take up any request, difference or grievance, real or supposed, and endeavor to adjust same satisfactorily. Such committee shall consist of five employees of the road, motormen or conductors or both, and shall be chosen by a majority of the employees, who shall be conductors and motormen. Failing to adjust said request, difference or grievance satisfactorily, said committee shall have the right to appeal to and an immediate hearing by the board of directors of the company, and if after conference with said board of directors there still remains a disagreement the question or questions shall at once be referred to a board of arbitration to consist of three members, one to be chosen by the company, one to be chosen by said committee, and the two so selected to appoint the third member from the citizens of La Crosse. The finding of the majority of said board grievance satisfactorily, said company and its employes.

The Wage Scale Before Recommendations

The next question submitted to this board is,

"To fix a wage scale to be in force for a term of one year from June 21st, 1909 until June 21st, 1910."

The wages paid workingmen is of vital importance to labor, to capital and to the commonwealth. This economic problem is here and must be met. It is a question that affects every man, woman and child in the community. Poor wages means poor living and discontent for the employee, poor service for the employer, little cash for the merchant, low rents for the landlord. It means little money in circulation and a consequent depression in business generally, the effect ultimately reaching the uttermost corners of the commonwealth. A reasonable wage means that the workman can live reasonably well and happy, he can lay aside a modest saving and thereby own his own home, educate his children as an American citizen should. He becomes a substantial citizen himself and a taxpayer. The company in return receives better service. Its patrons are better cared for and better satisfied. The earnings are consequently increased.

If any public utility company in this state is unable, by reason of not receiving ample returns on the investment, to pay a living wage, it should appeal to the railroad commission to investigate and adjust the price of its product so that it may be able to meet this economic problem. It is not the intent of this decision to work a hardship on either employer or employee, but my aim is to arrive at a conclusion fair and just to both parties in particular and the public in general.

The testimony before this board shows that the present wage scale is seventeen cents an hour for the first year, nineteen cents for the second year, nineteen cents for the third year and twenty-one cents thereafter. This scale was made in September 1907. The financial troubles of the country at large were just then being considered as a future possibility (Page of Record 159) and it is not unfair to assume that this had some effect on the wage then established. Since that time the cost of living has been materially increased in La Crosse as elsewhere all over the country. (Pages of record 86, 87, 101 to 128 inclusive, 312, 313). And according to Mr. Edwards (Page of record 160) this ought to be considered.

Even assuming that the wage scale made in 1907 was sufficient at that time this increased cost of living since 1907 is, in my judgment, sufficient reason for substantial increase in the wages of the employes at this time.

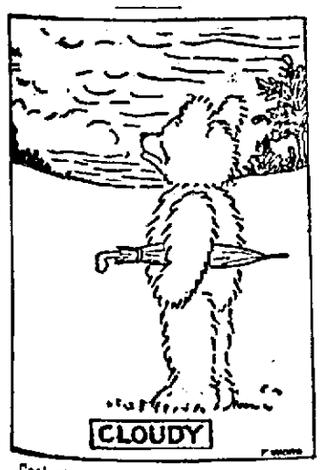

On this question the employees submitted a list of wage scales of street car employees throughout the country in an effort to show in general that the wages paid here are greatly lower than elsewhere outside of the state of Wisconsin. The company in turn submitted wage scales lower than that in force in La Crosse, the majority of them in Wisconsin.

In this connection Superintendent Shaw was asked (Page of record 131) "How do you account for the fact that the average wage scale paid in the cities of Wisconsin is so much lower than in other states?" His answer was: "I don't account for it except that it is a condition in Wisconsin."

That Mr. Shaw is right in stating that "it is a condition in Wisconsin" is fully borne out by all the

Letter Dated 1868 From Sister in Cardiff New Clew in the Thomas Estate

A letter written to him by his sister, Margaretha Jones, dated from Cardiff, Wales, in 1868 and received by him while he was a student at the college of New Jersey is the last known communication that the late Dr. W. D. Thomas had with any of his relatives.

In this letter which has just been discovered Mrs. Jones speaks of the health of "Charlotte, Jacob, Sarah and Mary and her husband and little William." The epistle was discovered by the administrators of the estate, tucked away in the bottom of a drawer in his desk.

It is now believed that the little William referred to is the only living relative to the late Dr. Thomas and efforts are being made to find him. He is believed to be a son of the woman who wrote the letter.

An insurance policy in the Bankers' Life Insurance company for $2,000 is made payable to Mr. Thomas's heirs and cannot be collected by the estate unless this boy, who is thought to be about forty years of age, can be found.

KENYON HAS NEW OFFER TO REMOVE

Unless negotiations on foot today miscarry, the R. L. Kenyon company of this city, manufacturers of power boat supplies, will remove from La Crosse to Waukesha, Wis., in the near future.

A committee of Waukesha business men composed of Messrs. Harry Dreyer, W. B. Hartshorn, M. S. Snyder and R. P. Breeze of that city arrived in La Crosse this morning and have been in conference with Mr. Kenyon and officers of the company the greater part of the day.

They offer the company a site and will erect a factory for the local concern at once.

ACCUSED OF GRAB LIVELY FIGHT ON

Taft's Secretary of Interior Ballinger Accused of Feeding a Trust With Public Domain

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug 10.—There is much stir among the delegates and visitors to the Irrigation Congress now assembled here over the charge made against one of its highest and most influential members. It is stated positively that "there is proof at hand that one of the first official acts of President Taft's secretary of the interior, Richard Achilles Ballinger, was to knowingly turn over to the waterpower monopoly millions of dollars worth of powersites along Montana rivers.

"Water power will run the railroads of the future. Not only that the electric power created by the mountain torrents will be sent across the plains to operate the mills and factories of many states of the nation and most important of all this wonderful new power will pump endless floods of water upon millions of acres of arid lands and so make new homes for millions of Americans.

"But the water power trust will be in a position to exact tribute from every settler and from his children forever.

Roosevelt Suppressed Graft

"It was in the closing days of his administration that President Roosevelt learned of the wholesale seizing of waterpowers by the then forming trust. The grab was at its height Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield ended it by resuming government control of public lands containing power sites.

"It was generally supposed that Garfield was to remain in Taft's cabinet but on Feb. 15 he was asked by Taft to resign on March 4. Not knowing who the new secretary would be President Roosevelt and Secretary Garfield decided to lock all doors so that the new administration would find everything snug and the last thing President Roosevelt did at midnight on March 4 was to withdraw more land to the extent of 186,000,000 acres from the reach of land grabbers.

Ballinger Gives to the Trust

"The first thing Ballinger did after he was sworn into Taft's cbinet on March 5 was to begin to turn that land over to the half entrenched trust. The throwing open of these lands had progressed for a month when a rising tide of popular protest was heard at the White House and the clamor increasing Taft called Ballinger in to explain. Ballinger secured delay and meantime kept throwing land open to entry and was again called to the White House. This time the public was given to un-

SERGEANT TODD WITNESSED THE SUTTON MURDER

Corporal of Guard Saw the Shot and Heard Voices Where Adams and Osterman Were

SENSATIONAL STORY TODAY

Marine Officer Is Anxious To Go On Stand To Tell the Story of the Murder

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 10.—Corroborating in almost every detail the contention of Lieut. Sutton's mother that he was shot at Annapolis by other officers and practically accusing them of a conspiracy to hide the murder, Sergt. Archie Todd, corporal of the guard on the night of the tragedy, is here today ready to remove the blot of suicide from Sutton's name. Todd declares he saw the shot fired that pierced Sutton's brain.

Following the receipt of a telegram at the Charlestown navy yard that Todd was wanted at the Annapolis inquiry the sergeant was located at the state rifle range and willingly told of the tragedy.

"I was corporal of the guard the night Lieut. Sutton was shot. I was on duty at midnight and from the place where I was standing I saw the figure of a man about 250 feet away. He was in his shirt sleeves. I did not know then who it was. I saw Lieutenants Adams and Osterman and recognized them. They were near me. The man in the shirtsleeves started to run and I heard a voice cry: 'Stop running, you are under arrest.' The man ran on and once more I heard the same voice cry out loudly: 'Stop running or I'll shoot.

"The man paid no attention and ran on and then the next moment I saw a flash ad heard a revolver report. There were three other shots and the man who was running dropped.

"I ran over to him and bent over. It was Lieut. Sutton. I saw a hole in the man's forehead and another back of the left ear."

"Could you identify the voice that called out to Sutton to stop?" Todd was asked.

"I could not. It came from the direction where Lieutenants Adams Osterman were standing."

"Did the flash of the revolver come from the same spot?"

"That I will tell on the stand," was the reply.

Sergeant Todd is about 28 years of age. He has been in the service since about November 1903.

The general impression here today seems to be that the introduction of the Schwartz letters will not prove as helpful as has been expected, to the defense. They may enlist more sympathy in favor of the mother of the dead lieutenant, even though some of her charges in the letters were more sensational than she might have made in calmer moments.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 10.—The contest between former Governor Van Sant, of Minnesota, and Wm. E. Ketcham, of Indiana, for the post of commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic grew hot today as more veterans arrived for the 43rd annual encampment. The adherents of the Minnesota man declare they canvassed 400 veterans and found that 160 were strongly in favor of Van Sant with nearly all the others doubtful. Col. Ketcham's friends are equally confident.

Lansing Turns out With Band and Oratory and Gives La Crosse Visitors Hearty Welcome

A refreshing rain fell gently upon an arid earth this morning, and with it there came down a gladsome throng to jam the gangplank and cover the decks of the great J. S. Rather than check the onrush to the big Lansing excursion, the precipitation seemed to lend vivacity and a freshening beauty to the excursionists. The boat was 20 minutes late, and as she cast off her hawsers at 9:20 she resembled a splendid painting in water colors in which a blend of gay colored feminine costumes, sobered in spots by the steady blue and gray of the men, made brilliant the expanse of white steamer sides and the frame of drab waters about it. There they were, crowded deck on deck, laughing and joking unconscious of the sprinkling—a splendid etching from real life the high light of which centered upon the tonic-proof bald head of Secretary Harry Taggart, whose Hibernian countenance was stabbed with a smile as broad as the map of Tipperary.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug 10.—The third game of the series proved an easy victory for the Drillers yesterday, the Outcasts losing by the one sided score of 9 to 1. Paul Grimes, the old W.-I. league star, was batted from the box and "Uncle Tom" trotted in from first base to lobe the pill over but he fared badly and when the nine innings were over Superior had made a total of 19 hits, which was enough to win about three games.

This equals the record for hits in the Minny league the same number being made off Murray and Dauss by the Outcasts in the game here with Duluth July 1.

The way the Drillers fell on Paul Grimes' slants was just like taking candy from a baby. They batted him all over the lot, and Paul was forced to give up the ghost and Letcher was given a chance faring the same way. In addition to the heavy hitting of the Drillers, La Crosse made several costly errors which helped in the scoring.

Stremmel worked for the Superior team and hurled good ball, allowing but five scattered hits, which netted the Outcasts one lonely run. The Drillers gave him good support at all times but one error being registered on their side of the column.

A double header is being played this afternoon, to work off the tie game which the two teams played June 6. This will close the Driller's season with the La Crosse club. The score:

WAUSAU, Wis., Aug. 10.—Wausau took the fourth game of the series from Winona in one of the slowest games of the season, requiring two and a half hours to play. A three bagger by Burgoise, the fourteenth on the home grounds, brought in two runs in the fifth, giving Wausau the lead. With the bases full in the fourth Love made a three bagger scoring Winona's three runs.

The Philadelphia Americans easily defeated Detroit yesterday afternoon by 7 to 1, the victory giving the home team two victories in the series to Detroit's one and making the battle for first place more exciting than ever. A crowd of 16,746 persons, the largest on record for a Monday game, excepting opening day, turning out.

Detroit played very bad ball in the field, being charged with eight errors of commission and offending on numerous occasions when they appeared to be badly rattled and failed to take advantage of opportunities offered them. In the third inning the home team scored two runs on four errors without making a hit.

Philadelphia put up a sensational game in the field, giving Krause such grand support that the visitors were able to score only one run, although they hit the ball much harder than the hit column indicates. Barry robbed the visitors of several hits while Hartzel and Oldring pulled down drives which looked good for extra bases. Baker was the batting star with two long drives, one of which cleared the right field fence for a home run.

Pitcher Donovan of Detroit was to have pitched yesterday, but he was served with a notice of suspension by President Johnson for disputing a decision in last Saturday's game while Manager Jennings was sent off the coaching lines for arguing with Umpire Evans.

Boston made it three straight from Chicago by winning, 2 to 1. A base on balls to Gessler in the ninth and Wagner's long hit, which would have been good for three bases, sent in the winning run. Hall was given his first tryout by Boston and did well.

Warhop pitched great ball for New York today, and Cleveland was beaten, 3 to 0. The Cleveland team made only three hits, each safety coming with two out, and did not get a man beyond second. Falkenberg also twirled cleverly, but hits were bunched on him in the first and eighth innings, Ball's error helped New York to two runs.

St. Louis had on its batting clothes today, driving Witherup and Johnson from the rubber and defeated Washington, 8 to 7. Graham and Dineen were also chased from the rubber, but Bailey was invincible in the last five innings. The fielding of McBride and the batting of Ferris was the feature.

The Pittsburg Nationals recovered from its batting slump with a vengeance today, getting seventeen hits off Boston's pitchers and winning by a score of 10 to 1. Ferguson was relieved in the third inning by Tuckey, after the locals had secured four runs in that period. Tuckey was also hit hard and Boston never had a chance to win. Maddox was strong at all times and secured three hits.

Chicago was outplayed in all departments of the game yesterday. Bell's great pitching and perfect support prevented Chicago from scoring at all. A pass, a sacrifice and McMillan's single scored for Brooklyn in the second. A wild pitch and two errors scored the other run.

McQuillan had Cincinnati completely at his mercy yesterday afternoon, only one man reaching third base. After two men were out in the eight inning. Ewing weakened temporarily, allowing two hits and giving three bases on balls, netting Philadelphia two runs.

New York won yesterday's game after a great struggle lasting ten innings, from St. Louis, 4 to 3. Raymond started on the mound for the Giants, but lost control in the eighth. Crandall finished up the game, and had little trouble disposing of Bresnahan's crew.

JOHNSON WIRES BERGER ON SCRAP

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Jack Johnson, who is sojourning here for a few days, has announced that he wired Sam Berger, manager for Jeffries at New York, to come on at once so that they can get together and discuss plans for a match.

Johnson requested Berger to be here not later than tomorrow afternoon as Johnson plans to leave for San Francisco tomorrow night. He goes to prepare for a bout with Jack O'Brien on Labor Day, Sept. 6. The bout is for twenty rounds.

Johnson says he will require about three weeks' training for the O'Brien match.

57 LOCOMOTIVES FOR JIM HILL LINES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 9.—James J. Hill's faith in the prosperity which is everywhere confidently expected to follow the revision of the tariff has been revealed in a contract for fifty-seven locomotives, which he has awarded to the Baldwin Locomotive works.

The cost of these engines is estimated at $1,000,000.

The contract which Baldwins have just obtained from the Hill lines is the second large one captured since May, in which month the Harriman lines gave an order for 118 locomotives, costing approximately $2,100,000. These orders leave no doubt in the minds of students of the business situation that the west and northwest are preparing for a great revival of trade.

The locomotives are for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads.

WEATHER CAUSE OF MANY FIRES

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 9.—"The present hot, dry weather has easily been either the direct or indirect cause of more than one-half the fires which have occurred in the state during the past thirty days," said State Fire Marshal T. M. Purtell today.

"This statement should perhaps be qualified by adding what has been the principal factor in the above result, namely the almost criminal carelessness or ignorance on the part of the public.

"One of the results of the hot weather is the more general use of gasoline or oil either for stoves or in pleasure crafts and during the past month more than one-half the reports of fires have given as the cause either the use of gasoline in some manner or carelessness with matches.

"Few people realize the extreme hazard there is in the use of gasoline at any time but more particularly during the hot weather as the higher temperature produces an increased vapor and a consequent increased danger.

CHINA WITHDRAWS; JAPAN REJOICES

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—Japan is rejoicing today over China's withdrawal of objections to the plan of reconstruction of the Antung-Mukden railway in Southern Manchuria, interpreting China's action as a tacit admission of Japan's present mastery of the situation.

Only the unofficial notification of China's acceptance of Japan's position has been yet received.

It is considered impossible here that China will agree to Japan having an absolutely free hand in her Manchurian railway scheme but her present backdown will result in scant courtesy being shown her complaints in the future.

FRENZIED BOVINE HOOKS BOY'S EYES

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Joseph Scholtie of West Duluth, aged six years, was accidentally hooked in the left eye by a cow today, and the eyeball was gouged out by the tip of her horns. The boy was hurried to a hospital for treatment. The sight of the damaged eye is lost and physicians say the child had a close call from being killed. The cow was fighting flies with her head when she happened to strike the boy with one of her horns.

BURGLAR'S SHOT FATAL AT LAST

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 9.—John T. Carmody, mayor of Cedar Rapids, died at St. Luke's hospital at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He was shot in his home by a burglar May 23, and typhoid fever developed before his wound had healed.

GUND'S GIRLS PICNIC

Girls employed in the Gund Bottling Works, to the number of 24 were treated to a launch ride and picnic at Dresden park Sunday by the brewing company and the affair was one which will be long remembered by the participants.

The new Bell-Singer launch carried the party to the park and a merry time was spent there. Despite the fact it was a strictly feminine affair the managers of the department and Adolph Schroeder and family managed to get in with the crowd and assist in the merry making.

Throwing horseshoes, baseball gafes, races, wading and many other forms of amusement were indulged in. A big picnic dinner was not the least of the attractions.

MURDERER KILLS SELF IN CELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—With an iron chain wrenched from a cot in his cell, James A. Hearn, charged with hacking his wife to death with a meat cleaver, hanged himself in the Queens County jail yesterday. Hearn fastened the chain to the bars of his cell, attached it around his neck and jumped from the cot. Only the man's great strength made it possible to kill himself. Hearn was found last Friday night with his wife's mutilated body lying on a bed. His 14 year old daughter discovered the body and notified the police.

"Girls should remember," says Mrs. estus, "that when they pencil their eyebrows they're writing about their character."

YOUNG CORBETT MARRIED AT "BILLY" SHANNON'S

Fighter and his beautiful bride taken on the lawn just after the ceremony.

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 3.—Young Corbett, conqueror of Terrible Terry McGovern and whose colors were lowered by Johnny Frayne, engaged in a match that was more to his liking and which proved more successful.

Miss Daisy Mersereau and the pugilist were united in marriage by Rev. G. M. Cutting. The event was brought off in "Billy" Shannon's parlor at San Rafael. Sweet peas predominated in the decorations. The affair was witnessed by a large gathering of "knights of the wallop."

Let Me Tell You Something

In two months from now you'll all be thinking overcoats'

You'll also be doing some other kind of thinking—if you don't get in on our Big Removal Sale.

You'll wish you'd saved from $10 to $20 when you had the chance.

The same argument applies to suits.

Do you really realize what it means to you when we say "every yard must go regardless of everything."

It means that for $12.50 you can pick out any fabric in the store—suiting or overcoating, light, medium or heavy weight—and have it made to your order, any style you fancy.

It means that you will get a thoroughly well made, perfect fitting garment, for $10 to $20 less than any other tailor would make you the identical same thing.

And we back up our statement with our iron-clad guarantee of "Satisfaction or no Pay."

If the words "thrift" or "saving" have any meaning to you, you must come here right away and fix yourself out. In a very short while it'll be too late.

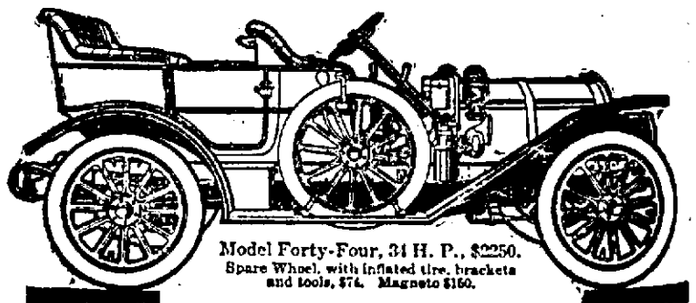

Nearly every man in La Crosse knows me, and I tell you right now it's a shame to make up such fabrics for that price.

Yours truly,

Try It on The Hills

Test this car at half speed on a hill or sand road where power and every ounce of it is needed. Notice how steadily and powerfully it pulls when running slowly under load.

The capacity of the Rambler engine for doing this extra work is most noticeable at low engine speeds. This is because of the offset crank shaft.

Rambler
The Car with the Offset Crank Shaft

All that power which in other engines is lost through friction on the bearings and cylinder walls, is added to the driving force by the Rambler offset crank shaft. It reduces friction, eliminates hammer on bearings, gives more power. The straight-line-drive delivers the power direct and with least frictional loss to the rear axle.

Let us demonstrate these features and the silence and comfort of this car.

Let us call at your home, and take you to your place of business some morning in a Rambler.

LOOKING AHEAD

At Spokane, Washington, there is now assembled one of the most far reaching conventions that has ever been gathered together in the west.

The National Irrigation congress has in hand many projects looking toward the development of our natural resources and we may expect to hear great things from them. Already they have outlined a broad scheme of reclamation of what are now unusable materials for wealth and progress.

That scheme may fail for lack of needed support. It is so comprehensive that nothing short of a tremendous fund could cope with it.

The proposal is to issue bonds at 1 or 2 per cent running 100 years, to the amount of five billion dollars and apply the money so raised in five equal parts for draining overflowed and swamp land for irrigation of arid lands, improvement of deep waterways, for good roads, and for forest conservation.

Such a vast scheme almost takes away our breath and yet with what America has done during the past century what may she not do before this century ends?

It is certainly the business and duty of the citizens of this country to make provision for the growing needs of millions yet to come.

Within the limits of the plan here outlined one of the questions of interest in the congress today will be that of home building. As one of the prominent speaker says "The nation that will lead the world will be a nation of homes."

No prophecy can be too hopeful and no enterprise too vigorous to anticipate the marvellous growth of this wonderful country. The great west is still the new world that lies open for unlimited development and for millions of homes where peace may reign and plenty abound.

BING!

For days and days black clouds of smoke rolled up from the Isle La Plume, sifting into people's homes, soiling the linen, besmearing everything with which it came into contact, including lingerie and lungs. People complained, they appealed for aid, they supplicated action by the city. Nothing availed until one day, and the fire went out.

What do you know about that Walter Rose? The chief of the fire department said it could not be done. He said, also, that it would keep his men away from their meals. He said this and that and all sorts of things the aim of which seemed to be to avoid anything so distasteful as fire-fighting. He was too busy even to go down, at first, and he raised objections by the regiment.

But it was no use. As acting major, Walter Rose proposed to put out that fire, if possible. At any rate, it was determined to try. Bing! down went a big barge and a fire engine, and a fire captain by the name of Hanson who didn't poo-hoo the thing, but got out in the ashes up to his knees and fought with the courage and intelligence of a sure-enough fire chief to stop the nuisance. People will like what Hanson DID better than what the chief SAID. They will like what Walter rose DID. They like men who take chances and do things; men who are not afraid to try, who accomplish by challenging defeat.

Bing! The fire is out. Even the fire chief admits that, with more or less reluctance. And, not exactly incidentally, one's ear cocked in the direction of the fire station may, one day, sooner or later, hear something so

"Bing!"

At last the cigarette law in Minnesota is about to become the real thing. It will be enforced to the letter and there is now a big reduction in the consumption of "coffin nails." Wisconsin also has a cigarette law, at least there is one on the statutes, even though the sight of the small boy "hitting" the deadly "pill" is an every day occurrence. It is something on the "why is a hen" order.

---

A Chicago clergman visiting in New York had a woman of that city arrested for winking at him. The young lady probably thought that he was a professor from the university of Chicago.

---

It is safe to say that Miss Sutton, after breaking her engagement with Mr. Ham, will raise no matrimonial racket. May says that she will continue to raise a tennis racquet, however.

---

The senators are now beginning to explain why they voted as they did on the tariff bill, which shows that they think an explanation is necessary.

---

ADDRESSES AT PICNIC

A large crowd attended the picnic of the La Crosse Lutheran Aid society at the grounds of the new agricultural school grounds at Onalaska Sunday, and many took advantage of the occasion to take in the new school.

Principal M. Johnson of the school gave an address and other speeches were made by O. R. Skaar and James Thompson. The street car company made a fare of five cents over the Onalaska line for the occasion.

STREET CAR COLLISION

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 9.—Albert Westlund, motorman, and John T. Buckley, a passenger, were probably fatally injured in a collision between two street cars here today. Both of Westlund's legs were cut off and both of Buckley's legs were broken. Three other passengers were slightly injured.

Apodictic

"I am determined to go on a vacation!"

Whittier looked almost fierce as he spoke. Cleverton regarded him with a quizzical look.

"You have a comfortable home" he asked.

"Splended. Nothing could be better."

"And a lovin wife?"

"None more so. Studies to please all the time. Never obtrudes herself, and is silent when destrable."

"You are in good physical condition?"

"Very. Never felt better."

"No trouble of any sort, no hidden worry that you want to get away from?"

"None whatever. Everything is serene."

"What, then, is the reason for your going?"

"My dear moy," he replied, "don't you know that when everything is running smoothly, when there is absolutely no cause for complaint, when you simply couldn't improve on the present conditions if you tried—don't you understand that then the pure and unadulterated cussedness of human nature absolutely demands that something be done to upset the harmony of things? That's why I am going on a vacation. I'm looking for trouble!"—Thomas L. Mason in Lippincott's.

Considerate

Four old Scotchmen the remnant of a club formed some fifty years ago, were seated around the table in the club room. It was 5 a. m. and Dougal looked across at Donald and said in a thick, sleepy voice:

"Donald, d'ye notice what an awfu' peculiar expression there is on Jack's face?"

"Aye," says Donald, "I notice that; he's dead! He's been dead these four hours."

"What? Dead! Why did ye no tell me?"

"Ah no—no—no," said Donald, "A'm no that kind o' man to disturb a convivial evening."—Tit-Bits.

The Scientist's Guess

According to a scientist not hitherto especially wooed of fame, in volcanic fire is the origin of life. Of course no layman badly disputes this allegation or any other from similar source, but so far as ordinary senses grasp the subject, volcanic fire would seem better adapted to producing death.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Different Case

Judge Giles Baker of a Pennsylmania county was likewise cashier of his home bank. A man presented a check one day for payment. He was a stranger. His evidence of identification was not satisfactory to the cashier.

"Why, judge," said the man, "I've known you to sentence men to be hanged on no better evidence than this!"

"Very likely," replied the judge. "But when it comes to letting go of cold cash we have to be mighty careful."—Browning's Magazine.

A Hot Prescription

"I want you to prescribe for me, doctor," said the sallow-complexioned man. "I have cold feet; what would you suggest?"

"A ton of coal," promptly replied the witty physician. "Five dollars, please."—New York Times

THE CIRCULAR STAIRCASE

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

(Copyright.)

"Exactly," I said despairingly, "and, of course, you are taken at your own valuation. The Innes are not always so self-depreciatory."

"Not always, no," he said, looking at mee with his boyish smile. "Fortunately, Louise doesn't agree with her family. She's willing to take me, war governor or no, provided her mother consents. She isn't overly-fond of her stepfather, but she adores her mother. And now, can't you see where this thing puts me? Down and out, with all of them."

"But the whole thing is absurd," I argued. "And besides, Gertrude's sworn statement that you left before Arnold Armstrong came would clear you at once."

Halsey got up and began to pace the room, and the air of cheerfulness dropped like a mask.

"She can't swear it," he said finally. "Gertrude's story was true as far as it went, but she didn't tell everything. Arnold Armstrong came here at two-thirty—came into the billiard-room and left in five minutes. He came to bring—something."

"Halsey," I cried, "you must tell me the whole truth. Every time I see a way for you to escape you block it yourself with this wall of mystery. What did he bring?"

"A telegram—for Bailey," he said. "It came by special messenger from town, and was—most important. Bailey had started for here, and the messenger had gone back to the city. The steward gave it to Arnold, who had been drinking all day and couldn't sleep, and was going for a stroll in the direction of Sunnyside."

"And he brought it?"

"Yes."

"What was in the telegram?"

"I can tell you—as soon as certain things are made public. It is only a matter of days now," gloomily.

"And Gertrude's story of a telephone message?"

"Poor Trude!" he half whispered. "Poor loyal little girl! Aunt Ray, there was no such message. No doubt your detective already knows that and discredits all Gertrude told him."

"And when she went back, it was to get—the telegram?"

"Probably," Halsey said slowly. "When you get to thinking about it, Aunt Ray, it looks bad for all three of us, doesn't it. And yet—I will take my oath none of us even inadvertently killed that poor devil."

I looked at the closed door into Gertrude's dressing-room, and lowered my voice.

"The same horrible thought keeps recurring to me," I whispered. "Halsey, Gertrude probably had your revolver: she must have examined it, anyhow, that night. After you—and Jack had gone, what if—that ruffian came back, and she—and she—"

I couldn't finish. Halsey stood looking at me with shut lips.

"She might have heard him fumbling at the door—he had no key, the police say—and thinking it was you, or Jack, she admitted him. When she saw her mistake she ran up the stairs, a step or two, and turning, like an animal at bay, she fired."

Halsey had his hand over my lips before I finished, and in that position we stared each at the other, our stricken glances crossing.

"The revolver — my revolver — thrown into the tulip bed!" he muttered to himself. "Thrown perhaps from an upper window: you say it was buried deep. Her protration ever since, her—Aunt Ray, you don't think it was Gertrude who fell down the clothes chute?"

I could only nod my head in a hopeless affirmative.

CHAPTER X.

The Trader's Bank.

The morning after Halsey's return was Tuesday. Arnold Armstrong had been found dead at the foot of the circular staircase at three o'clock on Sunday morning. The funeral services were to be held on Tuesday, and the interment of the body was to be deferred until the Armstrongs arrived from California. No one, I think, was very sorry that Arnold Armstrong was dead, but the manner of his death aroused some sympathy and an enormous amount of curiosity. Mrs. Ogden Fitzhugh, a cousin, took charge of the arrangements, and everything, I believe, was as quiet as possible. I gave Thomas Johnson and Mrs. Watson permission to go into town to pay their last respects to the dead man, but for some reason they did not care to go.

Halsey spent part of the day with Mr. Jamelson, but he said nothing of what happened. He looked grave and anxious, and he had a long conversation with Gertrude late in the afternoon.

Tuesday evening found us quiet, with the quiet that precedes an explosion. Gertrude and Halsey were both gloomy and distraught, and as Liddy had already discovered that some of the china was broken—it is impossible to have any secrets from an old servant—I was not in a pleasant humor myself. Warner brought up the afternoon mail and the evening papers at seven—I was curious to know what the papers said of the murder. We had turned away at least a dozen reporters. But I read over the head-line that ran half-way across the top of the Gazette twice before I comprehended it. Halsey had opened the Chronicle and was staring at it fixedly.

"The Traders' Bank closes its doors!" was what I read, and then I put down the paper and looked across the table.

"Did you know of this?" I asked Halsey.

"I—expected it. But not so soon," he replied.

"And you?" to Gertrude.

"Jack — told us — something," Gertrude said faintly. "Oh, Halsey, what can he do now?"

"Jack!" I said scornfully. "Your Jack's flight is easy enough to explain now. And you helped him, both of you, to get away! You get that from your mother; it isn't an Innes trait. Do you know that every dollar you have, both of you, is in that bank?"

Gertrude tried to speak, but Halsey stopped her.

"That isn't all, Gertrude," he said quietly; "Jack is—under arrest."

"Under arrest!" Gertrude screamed, and tore the paper out of his hands. She glanced at the heading, then she crumpled the newspaper into a ball and flung it to the floor. While Halsey, looking stricken and white, was trying to smooth it out and read it, Gertrude had dropped her head on the table and was sobbing stormily.

I have the clipping somewhere, but just now I can remember only the essentials.

On the afternoon before, Monday, while the Traders' Bank was in the rush of closing hour, between two and three, Mr. Jacob Trautman, President of the Pearl Brewing Company, came into the bank to lift a loan. As security for the loan he had deposited some three hundred International Steamship Company 5's, in total value three hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Trautman man went to the loan clerk and, after certain formalities had been gone through, the loan clerk went to the vault. Mr. Trautman, who was a large and genial German, waited for a time, whistling under his breath. The loan clerk did not come back. After an interval, Mr. Trautman saw the loan clerk emerge from the vault and go to the assistant cashier; the two went hurriedly to the vault. A lapse of another ten minutes, and the assistant cashier came out and approached Mr. Trautman. He was noticeably white and trembling. Mr. Trautman was told that through an oversight the bonds had been misplaced, and was asked to return the following morning, when everything would be all right.

Mr. Trautman, however, was a shrewd business man, and he did not like the appearance of things. He left the bank apparently satisfied, and within thirty minutes he had called up three different members of the Traders' Board of Directors. At three-thirty there was a hastily convened board meeting, with some stormy scenes, and late in the afternoon a national bank examiner was in possession of the books. The bank had not opened for business on Tuesday.

She Wasn't Sure

A famous baseball player has a younger sister who is intensely proud of him, although not very familiar with the national game. Mentioning his name one day to a visitor, the latter asked her what position her brother played.

"Why," she stammered, "I—I'm not sure, but think he's a batter!"—Lippincott's.

"No, indeed, madam."

"That I am young and beautiful, and possibly not averse to a flirtation?"

"Certainly not. That is——"

Said the sack of Marvel Flour: "I am pure according to the ruling of the U. S. Gov't Pure Food Commissioners, because I am unbleached and milled in the natural way, only from the best wheat that grows."

Said the Loaf of Bread: "Why have so many of the so-called finest flours changed in color from snow white to creamy white?"

Said the Sack of Marvel Flour: "Because the Government Pure Food Dep't has condemned them as impure and forced them to stop bleaching."

Said the Loaf of Bread: "No wonder you smile. Why, you stand alone as the one flour, made by one of the large mills, that's never been bleached and always been pure."

CUMMINS BACKED IN TARIFF FIGHT

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 10.—Neighbors of Senator Albert B. Cummins are not backward in assuring him of their support and giving him hearty commendation for his fight on the Aldrich forces in the tariff contest.

Last night he addressed five thousand people on the Lincoln school grounds. Every mention of his fight against the machine was the signal for cheers.

The senator declared he had no apologies to make for his votes during the tariff debate. He said: "I have not and never will vote for what I believe to be wrong in order to secure a vote for what I believe to be right. The republican party believes in certain fundamental principles and in the action at Washington I do not believe that these principles were rightly applied. But the time will come when the people will give more intelligent and scientific study to the principles of protection in order to apply it to congress."

LUCKY WRECK ON PACIFIC RAILROAD

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 10.—What will go down in the history of railroading as one of the "luckiest" wrecks occurred today at South Leavenworth when a fast train on the Missouri Pacific going 40 miles an hour was ditched and the engine and several cars demolished.

Not a trainman nor a passenger sustained a scratch. The engine was torn to pieces and all of the coaches including two sleepers, left the track. The cars jammed, smashing in the end of the baggage car and the ends of the two coaches. Even more remarkable was the escape of the entire train from going over the bluff and into the Missouri river. The baggage car left the track and took a course opposite from the embankment leading to the water. Every coach followed. Had the baggage car turned in the opposite direction the entire train would have been plunged into the deep water where a strong current was running.

THE IMPROVEMENTS PROGRESSING FAST

Another Shack Is Added to Pages of Ill-looking History of Mill Street Today

The razing of the dilapidated dwelling at 713 Mill street today marks another step in the improvement of the principal thoroughfare of the north side. This building is in the heart of the Syrian colony and it is expected that the neighboring shacks will soon be demolished to make room for larger and more respectable appearing residences.

The little, dilapidated store building in the block below, which is owned by Otto Granke, has been razed, the work being finished yesterday. The store building at 700 Mill street has been provided with a new coat of paint and various interior repairs. Several residences in the 500 block have been painted and repaired throughout, and the Manke blacksmith shop, after the repairing process to which it was subjected, now presents a more business-like and respectable appearance. The street as a whole is beginning to assume a better aspect and the work of the improvement committee appointed by the Progressive league is already in evidence.

It is expected that an extensive report of the work of the committee will be heard at the regular monthly meeting of the league tomorrow evening.

The work of removing the Kingsley residence on Rose street was started this morning, one section of the house being already removed. This residence is being taken away to make way for a section of the J. Ole Storey memorial fountain which will be erected on this hill.

STOP OF REGULARS CAUSES A STIR

An occurrence that created more than unusual interest on the north side happened this morning when the special train carrying the regular soldiers of Uncle Sam's artillery, who have been at Camp Robinson near Sparta for some time, stopped at the Milwaukee station to change engines and crews.

The regulars left the train like ducks going for a pond, some of them going to the lunch rooms near the railroad crossing and many of them taking to the various thirst emporiums to replenish their canteens.

A crowd soon collected to see the soldiers and when the train disappeared from view there was a large gathering at the station. The entire paraphernalia of the soldiers, consisting of the horses, guns, gun carriages, tents and many other things are carried on the train.

GIVES SELF UP ON CHARGE OF MURDER

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 10.—After the police had searched for him all day in connection with the murder of Mrs. Martha Calahan, Gus Oblaser, early today walked up to the county jail and surrendered.

He was locked up, denied to all newspaper men or other callers and the jailers would only say that he is being held as a suspect. It is said that Oblaser came to the jail to state that he knows of the murder of the woman, whose dead body was found in Robber's Hole in the Hamtrack woods.

TWO DIE IN FIRE IN MERRIAM PARK

Live Wire Charges Fence and Spectators Instantly Electrocuted; Property Loss $75,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 10.—Two men were killed by a live wire, one injured and fifty or more in danger, in a fire which late last night and this morning completely destroyed the warehouse of the Transfer Lumber and United Lumber and Shingle company, owned by C. W. Dewey of Minneapolis, at Merriam Park, destroyed one warehouse of the Minnesota Transfer Warehouse company, also of Minneapolis, and damaged another of the Waite warehouses, as well as the warehouse of the St. Croix River Lumber company. The entire contents of the burned buildings were lost, with trifling salvage.

The main losses are roughly estimated at $75,000, about equally divided betyeen the Waite and Dewey concerns. Other damage yas slight. The loss is practically covered yith insurance.

The men killed were Gust Walstrom, aged 21 and Charles Baker, aged 45.

POSTS FORFEIT IN ANSWER TO CRITICS

FLANDREAU, S. D., Aug. 10.—Ira F. Blewett, state's attorney of Moody county, who assisted the prosecution of Mrs. Moses Kaufman in June, has been subjected to so much criticism because of the virtual acquittal of the woman on the charge of killing her servant, Agnes Polreis, that he has made public a long letter defending himself. He states that he has been accused of selling out in the case and of apologizing to the defendant for his part in the first prosecution. Mr. Blewett says:

"I have placed in the Moody county bank the sum of $500 to be paid by the officers of said bank to any person who will expose any unlawful act I committed in this case and procure my arrest and conviction therefor. I will do more. Much has been said about money alleged to have been offered to certain men in this county for the purpose of bribing the jury and to have certain men summoned for the panel, some of which offers it is said were refused. If my first offer is not taken, and there may be any man or woman in this county or state who actually knows of any person who, directly or indirectly, offered or gave any bribe to any person, officer of the court, juror or witness connected with said case, and he will make complaint to this office, I have directed said bank to hold said sum of $500 as a guaranty to him that I will prosecute to the limit any person offering such bribe, be he judge, juror, doctor, lawyer, sheriff, bailiff or any other man. I never spoke to Mrs. Kaufmann in my life save as I addressed her in my argument to the jury in the first trial of the case. Just what I would have to apologize to her for I am unable to conceive. I have never changed my mind for a single instant as to the conclusion then reached and stated to the pury."

GIRL CHOKED AND BEATEN BY FARMER

EDINBURG, N. D., Aug. 10.—After being in progress all day Saturday, the preliminary examination of Martin Lundell, charged with assault with intent to kill, was adjourned till Wednesday, when it will be completed. Lundell is a former Thief River Falls (Minn.) resident and is charged with brutally beating Miss Gina Lee in Edinburgh on July 24.

The only motive that has been brought forward is that Lundell might have made the assault as a means of venting vengeance upon the girl's father, with whom he had a misunderstanding regarding wages.

The attack upon Miss Lee was particularly brutal. She was knocked to the ground, beat about the head and choked. The girl suffered a terrible nervous shock. A hemorrhage resulted in flow of mlood from the nose and ears.

MUSCATINE JEWS FIGHT IN SYNAGOGUE

MUSCATINE, Ia., Aug. 10—Twelve people were injured in a free-for-all fight which took place in the Jewish synagogue here.

About sixty members of the Jewish colony participated in the fray, and the police had great difficulty in quelling the disturbance. Knives and clubs were used effectively and severe cuts and bruises were inflicted.

The utmost secrecy is being maintained relative to the identity of the injured and the origin of the trouble. Arrests are expected today.

In every society column will be found the expression "friends and relatives." That's enough.

The rolling stone may gather no moss, but it makes a lot of good impressions.

NORTHWEST INFESTED WITH GREY WOLVES

Settlers' Shack Near Spokane, in the Heart of the Infested District.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 3.—Stockmen and settlers living on lands adjacent to the forest reserves in southeastern Washington, northeastern Oregon and the Idaho-Washington border are organizing to hunt gray wolves, bears, cougars and other predatory animals, which annually cause losses to owners of sheep, cattle, colts and poultry in the districts south of Spokane. The federal government has set aside $2,000 to employ experienced hunters in the Coeur d'Alene forest, where a systematic hunt will begin early in August. In the meantime the settlers are making preparations to use trained dogs, powder and ball, traps and poison in an attempt to exterminate the pests. They have invited members of the Spokane Rod and Gun club, headed by E. J. Chingren, to join them on a hunt the early part of August, promising a week of lively sport. The several states pay bounties on wolves, cougars and other predatory animals.

JUMP FROM AUTO TO ESCAPE FLAMES

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 10.—The spectacle of a large touring car climbing the hills east of Elm Grove bursting into a mass of flames, and the occupants of the automobile jumping over the fire to save themselves, attracted a large number of persons.

The automobile, a five-passenger car owned by George Allison, was occupied by himself, his wife and two children and another woman.

He was climbing the hill when one of the cylinders refused to work. He brought the machine to a stop, and the minute the car was brought to a halt, the flames shot out, enveloping the whole machine.

Mr. Allison jumped out with his daughter, Alice, in his arms, who was sitting beside him. He immediately opened the door of the rear seat, and assisted his wife, the other woman occupant and his daughter Georgette, aged 7, out of the machine.

ITCH STOPPED-- SKIN COOLED.

Itching skin diseases afflict some people as soon as the hot weather comes. There seems to be no preventive; but when the eruption does break out, it is a very simple matter to stop that itch, and to stop it instantly.

Just a few drops of Oil of Wintergreen, properly compounded, washed over the eruption will soothe and smooth the skin instantly, giving that cooling and refreshing sensation.

Try a few drops of this D. D. D. Compound and your itch will be relieved at once, not in half an hour, or ten minutes, but in five seconds. Call at our store and we will tell you more about this D. D. D. Compound.

STATE SALOONISTS PLAN FOR FUTURE

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 10.—John F. Langan of this city, president of the Wisconsin State Retail Liquor Dealers' association, has sent out a call for a meeting of the executive committee of the association to be held at Merrill the latter part of this month at which time plans for the work of the association during the coming year will be made.

There are to be radical changes made in the methods of work of the association and it is thought that these changes will make the association more helpful to the liquor men.

It is planned to put a regular man at work among the saloon men to properly explain the methods and work of the association and as well to explain to the people the position that the state organization is taking on important questions in regarding to the regulation of the liquor traffic.

PAPERMILL FOR ASHLAND

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 10.—A paper mill employing about 150 hands is to be erected here within a short time by the Menasha Paper company, arrangements to that effect having been concluded through representatives of local banks.

This city has long sought to secure a paper industry. It means this enterprise will be the forerunner of other industries.

HARVEY DURAND DYING

SPAIN'S REVOLUTION STILL A DANGER

LISBON, Aug. 10.—Twelve thousand Spaniards lost their lives in the recent revolution in Barcelona and other parts of Catalonia, according to today's Diario de Noticias, which declares its figures are based on the most reliable estimates. The number includes those killed in the actual fighting and hundreds who were either assassinated or executed during the ten days the trouble lasted.

The Diario de Noticias says there is still grave danger of the revolution recurring and sweeping the entire country.

THROWN FROM HORSE; AND NEARLY KILLED

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, wife of the novelist, is today recovering from her experiences of last night when she was thrown from her horse in a secluded spot in the woods and was lost for several hours. When she mounted the horse late yesterday afternoon the grooms notified her the animal was fractious but as she is an expert horsewoman, she paid no attention to their warning. The horse, riderless, returned home an hour and a half later and it was feared Mrs. Chamber had been unhorsed and possibly killed. A number of searching parties immediately began beating the woods for her.

PHOTOGRAPH OF THOMAS IS CLEW

Administrator Frank Winter of the estate of the late Dr. W. D. Thomas has forwarded a photograph, taken 40 years ago, of Dr. Thomas and a young woman, to a public administrator in Scotland, in hopes of finding any heirs to the estate of $10,000 or $12,000 left by the divine. It is supposed the girl is either an early sweetheart or a sister of Dr. Thomas. Little hope is entertained of finding any heirs if any exist, and in case no claimant appears the estate will revert to the state.

NIGHT SCHOOLS AND NEW SCHOOL NAMES

No formal meeting of the board of education was held last night owing to the absence of a quorum. However, Messrs. Luening, Easton and Ray discussed the proposition of conducting night school in La Crosse for those unable to attend in the day time, and also the proposition of naming the schools after prominent men instead of calling them after wards of the city in which they are not even located. This matter will be taken up at a later meeting.

AIR DOME THEATRE CHANGES HANDS

Maurice Lipstein has purchased the air dome theatre on North Third street from the former owners and will continue the business.

He states that it is his purpose to raise the merit of the acts presented to the highest possible class, believing that La Crosse people will appreciate really good vaudeville. The bill presented last night was worth going a long way to see and if the same standard is maintained La Crosse will have a place of summer entertainment second to none.

SIX WEEKS' BRIDE COMMITS SUICIDE

WAUKON, Iowa, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—A very sad affair was the death of Mrs. Ben Krueger of Ludlow township last Thursday. Her husband had gone away for the day to work and upon returning home found his wife had committed suicide by taking strychnine. She was the daughter of Holver Peterson of this city and had only been married about six weeks. Temporary insanity is supposed to have been the cause of her rash act. The funeral services were held from the home Sunday afternoon, Rev. Van Nice officiating.

Laundry is Sold

The Waukon laundry has been purchased by Milton Lerdall of Decorah, who has taken possession. Mr. Lerdall has been employed in the Decorah steam laundry for a number of years past and the local papers speak well of his abilities in the work. Mr. Lerdall and family will occupy Mrs. Irwin's house in West Waukon.

Waukon Briefs

Miss Ethel Smith is visiting relatives and friends at Lansing and New Albin.

Mrs. Adolph Hagemeier of Decorah is visiting her niece, Mrs. H. L. Dayton, and other relatives.

Mr. J. Fields of Fargo, N. D., was the guest of Miss Nettie Reid several days last week.

Miss Cora Miner arrived home Friday from a two weeks' sojourn at Antioch, Ill. Her sister, Miss Addie of Beloit, Wis., arrives this week for a two weeks' visit with home folks.

Miss Sophia Westby of Hale & Sons clerical force, is spending her vacation with her friend, Miss Grace Mitchell, at Minneapolis.

Mrs. L. Hubbell has been quite ill for a week or more with an attack of jaundice.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Crawford departed last week for an extended trip throughout the west, visiting Denver, Salt Lake City, the Seattle exposition, San Francisco and Colorado Springs. On their return they will take in the wonders of the Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Howe and Miss Ruth and Mrs. M. S. Howard are visiting their sisters at Lansford, and Fargo, N. D.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature R. V. Pierce M.D.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

Miss Hazel Le Fleur was the successful contestant in the Lansing Miror's piano contest last week, winning the necklace by bringing in the most cash to the Mirror office up to July 31st.

Rev. Van Nice went to Lansing Saturday and assisted in the funeral services of Rev. Engstrom, the Presbyterian minister of that city, whose death occurred Wednesday morning.

A young man known as "Sandy" Smith, residing at Frankville, was struck in the small of the back by the steam chest on the engine while waiting for the eastbound passenger train on the Milwaukee at Ossian one day last week. He was thrown violently to the brick platform and sustained a badly bruised head.

Master James Hart was thrown from his pony at the corner of the Allamakee hotel one day last week and a broken arm was the result.

CHICAGO SUFFERS FROM HEAT WAVE

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Though today dawned considerable cooler the coroner's office reports that three persons have succumbed to the heat within the past twenty-four hours. More than two score prostrations were reported in the same time.

The dead are:

M. L. Evans, overcome in shop where he was employed.

Charles F. Seltz, 16, succumbed to heat while recovering from operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Bertha Fray, 40, prostrated while at work and died an hour later.

THREE KILLED BY GAS IN OLD MINE

MOLINE, Ill., Aug. 10.—The bodies of three persons killed by coal gas in an abandoned coal mine five miles east of Moline last evening were recovered early today. They are Walter Cole, 15; Wm. Cole, 25; and Arthur Harrington, 14.

The scene of the tragedy was the Leuder Coal mine which has been abandoned since last November. Mrs. Cole, accompanied by her two sons and by numerous friends with their families had gone into the country to pick blackberries. The younger Cole and young Harrington in wandering about, discovered the Leuder shaft. They tore away the covering and entered the shaft. The deadly coal damp overcame them at once and they all fell to the bottom of the shaft.

Later the elder Cole and his mother discovered the shaft in looking for the two boys and Cole went to the rescue. He never came out alive. Mrs. Cole was about to enter the shaft also when Otto Leuder, owner of the mine, happened to pass and stopped her.

HUMPHREY SEIZES 2 BARRELS OF FISH

Deputy Game Warden George Kingsley has confiscated two barrels of fish shipped from De Soto. It is alleged that the barrels were not properly marked, and that one of them contained game fish.

The fish were owned by Joseph Osborne and A. Long, both of De Soto. The sheriff now has a warrant, and it is expected the men will make appearance at Viroqua tomorrow.

Committees Named to See What Can Be Done for Kenyon and Hackner Plants

Waukesha Committee coming to View Kenyon Co. Today and Hackner Is Displeased

The board of trade is to take up the matter of the threatened removal of the factories of the Hackner Altar Works and the Kenyon Auto-boat Top company from La Crosse and special committees were appointed at a meeting of the directors at the La Crosse club yesterday afternoon which will take immediate action looking to keep both in the city.

The Kenyon company employs 40 people and expects to increase the list to 100 by next summer. They want a site for a new factory, and ask the board to help them secure one for a reasonable price, whereupon they promise to build at their own expense. Adam Kroner, Wallace Montague and H. O. Kline constitute the committee.

Owing to the absence of A. Hirshheimer from the city the matter of the Hackner factory's side track has been neglected but Adam Kroner, chairman of the railroads committee of the council and board of trade member, agreed to take charge of the matter. If the protest is so great that a side track cannot be put in to the present plant, Mr. Hackner desires help to sell his factory and locate downtown. In this the committee will endeavor to help him.

The board decided not to hold an excursion to the Preston fair this year owing to the fact one was sent there two years ago, and it being during the summer season, during which time the regular board meetings are adjourned and it is difficult to get a large number together.

MYSTERIOUS MURDER OF YOUNG GIRL

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The inquest on Miss Schumacher's body was begun today at the morgue. The autopsy proved that the girl had been strangled before being beaten up with the rock that was found on her head in the grave. The awful grip of the murderer had fractured the hyoid bones in the girl's throat.

The circumstances surrounding the murder and the fact that the hyoid bones were broken, recalls the series of strangling cases that occurred in Dayton, Ohio, where five girls were slain in a similar manner, the hyoid bon in each girl's throat being broken.

Physicians say it requires a peculiar and fearful grip on the abroat to displace these bones. Many of the other details in the crimes are the same.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—One of the most brutal and dastardly murders was revealed when the body of Anna Schumacher, 17 years old, was found in a lonely spot outside the Holy Sepulchre cemetery covered with leaves. Anna went to the cemetery on Saturday afternoon to place flowers on her father's grave.

The coroner's inquest shows that the girl was beaten to death after being criminally assaulted.

What may prove a good clue to the murderer was furnished today by a man who called with his wife at police headquarters and told the officers that he and his wife on Saturday had seen the girl accosted by a man when she arose from prayer beside her sister's grave. When spoken to the girl went with the man toward the spot where her body was found.

Little trust was placed in the clue until the couple were taken to the morgue where the woman identified the skirt worn by Miss Schumacher as that worn by the girl that she had seen. Sheriff Gillette today offered a reward of $500 for the capture of the murderer.

COUPLE DROWN WHILE BATHING

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 10.—The bodies of Miss Alydia Johnson and George Englebrecht, of South Chicago, were taken home today. The pair of young lovers were drowned late yesterday in Lake Michigan before the eyes of hundreds of bathers and beach loungers who did not realize that the tragedy was being enacted just beyond the breaker line.

The girl, a good swimmer, went out beyond the breakers although the lake was rougher than usual and got caught in the undertow. Englebrecht saw her plight and went to her rescue. The water was too rough and they both sank before the other bathers realized that the pair needed aid.

It is queer that some girls can wear the silliest hats and look quite smart in them.

derstand that the public lands had again been withdrawn.

"It remains to be seen whether Ballinger deliberately attempted to destroy Roosevelt's work and did reopen Montana lands in the especial interest of his friends, Carter, Colling and others, or whether he simply didn't realize the importance of his acts or was betrayed by his friends."

The Press to Ballinger

The press also says editorially today:

"Richard Achilles Ballinger, stand up."

"You are accused of grave maladministration of your high office of secretary of the interior. What have you to say for yourself?

"In Montana the case is presented squarely. Rich water power lands along the Missouri were withdrawn by your predecessor at the direction of President Roosevelt whose policies your chief, President Taft, has sworn to perpetuate.

"You knew why these lands were withdrawn. You were told by your advisors that there was grave danger the water power monopoly would grab them. Yet you insisted that they be restored the minute you took office as the guardian of the public domain which belongs to the people.

"Secretary Ballinger, you have also some things to explain in connection with the cancellation of the co-operative certificate plan adopted by your predecessor. You say that plan is not a technical observation of the law. Can you, or anyone else, produce any law that forbids it?"

Pinchot Addresses Gathering

Sounding the first note of open warfare with Secretary Ballinger upholding the Roosevelt reclamation and conservation policies and denouncing the administration of law by technicalities, Chief United States Forester Gifford Pinchott set the congress agog in an address this morning. The resolutions committee reports that resolutions on the subject are pouring in upon them and everyone is awaiting with keen interest Secretary Ballinger's appearance tomorrow.

E. H. Libbey, Clarkston, Wash., president of the Washington Conservation association, today cited the 2,000,000 water horse power available in Washington and said:

"Conservation sees the constant waste of all this energy and wants to see the force harnessed to the use of the people but we want to prevent the monopoly of a force that is more important even than the forests. Conservation demands just enough and no more of wise government control to insure this to the people at living rates and with all due profit as to the developers and operators."

Gifford Pinchott, chief forester of the United States, delivered his address this morning. His speech created a tremendous sensation, increasing tenfold the excitement which has attended the congress so far. All eyes were now upon Secretary Ballinger and the delegates are eager to hear what he will have to say in reply to the chief forester.

WINONA EXCURSION FAILS TO APPEAR

The much looked for Old Settler's excursion from Winona which was scheduled to make its appearance in this city yesterday was called off because of the late arrival of the steamer J. S. at the up river city yesterday afternoon. The following telegram received from Capt. John Streckfuss by the chairman of the excursion committee caused the postponement of the annual outing of the Old Settlers' Association: "Delayed on account of low water. J. S. will arrive about 2 p. m."

Upon the arrival of the boat at Winona at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, it was ascertained that owing to the low stage of the water in the river, she could make very little progress, hence the delay.

DEMANDS REMOVAL OF MILES MURPHY

And in a Communication to Council Says It Was Because of Loyalty to Dan Moore

Because, he charges, Miles Murphy, street foreman employed by the city, undertook to force him to patronize John Meinke, a north side blacksmith in preference to Dan Moore, who always did his work, and because that employe is discriminating against one to divert all city business he can control to the other, Ole Thoreson, until last July a teamster employed by the city, demands Murphy be "fired" by the council.

Thoreson appeared before Notary Public A. E. Bleckman and swore to a chain of facts which if true puts Murphy "in bad" and the petition demanding his removal will be presented to the aldermen for action next Friday night at the regular meeting of the council.

Thoreson gives affidavit that he had always patronized Dan Moore, a north side blacksmith, but that Murphy, the foreman over him repeatedly came to him and told him to "cut out Moore," or he would "get the worst of it." He claims he repeatedly refused to switch his shoeing to Meinke, telling Murphy Moore's work was satisfactory, that he owned his own horses and wanted the work done by a man of whose knowledge he was certain, and that he did not want to switch to some stranger. He alleged Murphy kept up his nagging, and that as he is often under the influence of liquor his protests for a change became very offensive. He sets forth that about the middle of July Murphy again came to him while under the influence of liquor and demanded he "cut out Moore." He said he refused and Murphy advanced threateningly toward him. Thoreson swears he warned Murphy to keep away and mind his own business, but that Murphy continued to advance and raised his hand as though to strike him. He thereupon pushed the street foreman over into the dirt as a matter of self protection. He alleges that Murphy thereupon arose and discharged him. He also alleges he has Murphy's own admission that his work has always been thoroughly satisfactory and that it was not in any way the cause of his losing his position.

The petitioner says that Murphy has practised the same tactics with other teamsters of the city, trying to force them to take their business away from Moore and give it to his friend Meinke. He alleges that Fisher and Grady, two of the other teamsters employed by the city have already submitted to the bulldozing of Murphy and are now having their work done at the shop of Murphy's friend and that Murphy is continuing his efforts to force all city employes under him, even though they own their own teams, to give their business to his friend, Meinke. The petition closes with the prayer that the council will discharge Foreman Murphy for his discriminations and illegal actions.

EVELYN THAW DENY DEMAND FOR MONEY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Although she admits being in straightened circumstances Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw denied today that she had made a demand for $500,000 on the family of her husband, who is in White Plains jail, awaiting the decision of Judge Mills as to his sanity.

The artist-model-chorus-girl-sculptress wife said today it was "just awful" to make her live on $70 a week with an extra monthly income of $200, but that she did not know what she could do about it.

"Why, I've even had to send Kara back to the Bronx zoo," said Mrs. Thaw plaintively today at her studio, where the past several months she has been dabbling in sculpture and playing with pet snakes. Kara is the big king snake that has caused the neighbors of the amateur sculptress many nights of worry since it became an occupant of the studio.

"I am absolutely penniless," Mrs. Thaw. "I haven't even money to pay my maid or satisfy the landlord who is besieging me for the rent. I don't know what I am going to do. It seems I am up against it."

"But there is absolutely no truth in the story that I will sue the Thaws for half a million dollars. If they would just send me the $200 I should have received on the first of August, I'd be satisfied."

At White Plains none of the Thaws would discuss the reported demand of Harry's wife. At the jail, Harry himself characterized it as "rubbish."

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw is so confident Judge Mills will release her son on Thursday that she has made arrangements to leave White Plains and take her son with her.

more and more of them until one could not keep track.

Hello, Pete!

And Lo! Who's this important individual bringing up the rear. Charlie Frohman, theatre magnate, sho nuff. Everybody recognized him at once, he was fairly mobbed by chorus appeals for a matinee on the boat or a curtain speech. So insistent was the crowd that at last, in order to escape, Mr. Frohman assumed a nom de plume, declaring oracularly that he wasn't Frohman, deed he wasn't, but that he was just plain Pete Newburg.

Well, anyway, the J. S. turned up her bows at the deserted city and steamed away south with the laughing product of the exodus aboard.

ALL LANSING AND A BRASS BAND OUT TO GREET CROWD

LANSING, Ia., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—All the people in Lansing, headed by brass band which made the excursionists sit up and take an observation, were at the levee at 1 o'clock when the steamer "J. S." arrived with the La Crosse excursionists and today has proved to be one of the liviest in Lansing's history of lively days.

P. J. Conway welcomed the visitors, tendering the key to the city and attesting there was no need for a pry, as the "lid" was not on. "Billy" F. Wolfe thanked the people for their welcome and promised that even though there were a few on the boat inclined to tear things up—like Bert Van Steenwyk and himself—he could assure the people of the city that the Merchants' association would stand responsible for any damage done to property. He warned the citizens that Pete Newburg was in their midst and that if they did not use care "Pete" would buy up a few of the business centers and start clothing stores and theaters, whereupon editors of the Lansing papers together with their swarms of reporters clustered about the genial "Pete" for confirmation of the story.

Paul Lutz refused to submit to an interview when followed around a corner above the "boat store." He said he had found something, and a close tab is being kept on the furrier to see that he comes back home on the boat.

Karl Kurtenacker was breathless with excitement when the steamer arrived and it is rumored Karl was circling around the Busy Bee in an effort to discover if a ladies' furnishings store would pay in Lansing. Inasmuch as Karl gets a large part of the trade which goes to La Crosse from Lansing as it is, it is not expected he will open a new store here.

William Strauss and Billy Wiggenborn were in consultation most of the way down and as soon as the boat's nose pushed into the sand beach they vanished. Later they reappeared, each carrying a pretzel said to have been made in Milwaukee. It could not be learned where the pretzels came from, but it was stated this is considered in Lansing as a health food.

Parker interested himself in the pearly industry which thrives in this vicinity (there being lots of dentistas) but George asserted to your reporter that it was the clam variety he sought. Martin Roth and Art Holbeck furnished a good deal of amusement on the way down by doing a cake walk around the outside rail of the steamer while Otto Dumke and Casper Newburg vied with each other for the title of the best dressed man on the excursion.

The reception committee representing Lansing was composed of B. F. Thomas, R. Hufschmidt and J. J. Dunlevy.

Although the day broke stormy the sun came out before the excursion boat reached this place and the day turned out to be an ideal one. No end of fun had been provided by the people of Lansing, and the excursionists will be sorry to leave Lansing tonight for it is without doubt one of the prettiest and most enterprising little cities the length of the river.

40 INFANT BODIES IN NEW YORK MORGUE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Today the New York morgue housed forty infant bodies, the greatest number of children there at any time since the General Slocum disaster. Twenty-seven of the babies came from the New York Foundling Asylum and the others from hospitals and institutions. All are direct or indirect victims of the heat wave and physicians today declare the number of deaths among infants has been appalling.

Sleep was practically impossible in any portion of Greater New York last night. At Coney Island 10,000 people slept on the sands last night. Every public park in New York was thrown open and policemen stationed to guard the sleepers. Whole families fled from the rookeries to the little grassy plots. Fire escapes became popular bedrooms while on nearly every narrow street in the tenement district men and women slept in area ways and even on their front stoops.

GRADE CROSSING AS DEATH TRAPS

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Another grade crossing accident, making nearly 300 accidents at crossings or in the down town streets within a month, claimed the lives of two men today.

James O'Connor and Dennis Crowdley, railroad employes were run down by a Baltimore & Ohio engine and their bodies mutilated almost beyond recognition. The crew of the engine reported that they knew nothing about the accident until they found a bloody human leg on the pilot.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe the pains temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acrid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acrid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

The Crown Princess of Sweden, Princess Margaret.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 9.—To be selected from an assemblage of royalty and lords and ladies by the king of England for the opening dance is perhaps the highest social honor one could obtain on the continent. Such was the success of the charming Princess Margaret, the crown princess of Sweden, at Buckingham palace.

Princess Margaret has won the hearts of her future subjects in Sweden not only by her charm and beauty, but by her enthusiasm, her love of Sweden and her general democratic nature.

FREE For "Summer Complaint"

The common ailment of these hot days is "Summer Complaint," or diarrhea. It is very annoying and weakening and upsets the stomach. The cause of the trouble usually lies in food and water, which in the summer time are often laden with germs, but with many it is due to eating too much fruit or to eating over-ripe fruit. Whatever the cause it is not good to take an astringent remedy that binds up the bowels and stops the flow too suddenly, but take a reliable, natural laxative like DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN.

Its antiseptic properties remove the germs which have been causing the irritation. Children like it especially because of its gentle action and pleasant taste. Salts and purgative waters, tablets or pills, act so violently as to weaken you still more, and do but temporary good. DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN is the best remedy you can obtain for constipation, indigestion, summer complaint or summer colic, biliousness, sick headache, etc. All druggists sell it and it costs only 50 cents or $1.00 a large bottle. It is for all members of the family and should be your household remedy for these purposes.

Those who have never yet used DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN and would like to make a test of it before buying it in the regular way from their druggist, can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE either for themselves or any member of their family, by sending their name and address to the Caldwell Laboratories, and it will be sent to your home free of charge. In this way you can find out what it will do without cost. Also, if the case presents difficulties which doctors and other remedies seem unable to overcome, write a letter to Dr. Caldwell explaining how the person suffers and he will tell you what he thinks is the best MEDICINE TO TAKE. He is based on half a century of experience in curing diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Write without delay to those who have suffered long and for relief have tried many remedies and doctors in vain. Address DR. CALDWELL, specializing on that kind of cases, advises on that kind of cases, etc., in his medical department. This is a very important subject. The address is

RANK G. ROTH TO OIL STREETS

Alderman from 7th Ward Says New System Will Save Money; Backs Up His Assertion

E CITES KANSAS CITY

Two Applications of Oil a Year Will Do Away With Thousands of Dollars' Sprinkling Cost

To oil the streets of La Crosse, ead of sprinkling with water as s been done heretofore, is the pro- sition of Alderman Frank Roth. Mr. Roth will bring in a resolu- n at the next meeting of the coun- Friday evening, that the board public works be instructed to try the oiling system on some cer- n street in the city for the balance the season. He has investigated s cost closely and will show that will save the city thousands of llars annually in sprinkling ex- nse and will be beneficial to the eets, eliminate all dust from the vements, and save the city money equipment, sprinkling carts, etc.

Crude petroleum has been used clusively for sprinkling the streets Kansas City, Mo., for several ars. It can be purchased at Kan- s City for 87 cents per barrel, ac- rding to figures in Mr. Roth's nds.

It is necessary to sprinkle with l only twice each year—spring and l. Two applications are usually de to begin with, after which the l goes down into the pavement and o two applications a year will keep n all dust.

Kansas City the city officials d citizens are well pleased with . The old system of water sprink- g every hour cost three times as ch there as the oil system. The dinary sprinkling wagons can be ed for oil.

RIES ARE OUT TO CONTROL STATE

ONROE, Wis., Aug. 10.—Chellis Viland, Appleton, representing Chairman Edmonds of the Republi- n state central committee, is mak- g a tour of the counties of the te to organize Wisconsin for the n campaign. The fight for con- ol of the state is to be made all ng the line, according to the state- nts credited to Wayland, and is to be centered upon Senator La Fol- te and insurgent congressmen who e declared to be outside of the Re- blican fold.

r. Wayland said the Wisconsin gressives would be stripped of the patronage, as the national ad- inistration does not consider them ther Republican or Democratic, and ll leave them out in the cold. He d the "regulars" had things well ed in Washington and that when ngressmen did not behave the pow- that-be will get even with them by taking it out of their districts.

e said that Assemblyman Ingalls f Racine would be a candidate ainst Henry Allen Cooper for Con- ss in this district and it is evi- nt that the support of the state achine will be for Ingalls.

r. Wayland, it is understood, is ietly urging State Senator Hudnall the Republican gubernatorial omination and State Chairman Ed- nds, with whom he is connected business, for the United States natorial nomination against La llette.

HROW SEARCH LIGHT N CITY OF PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—"The ay things went on here was some- ing terrible. Why directors of the h school board came here under e influence of liquor and wanted a dance with the teachers and the children."

This statement, credited to Mrs. W. D. McAuliffe, janitress of the old Second ward school, promises to stir up things in the ranks of the di- rectors today.

The alleged "joy parties" of the school board were brought to light through the auditing of the books of the Second ward school. It is al- leged that "Eddie Edwards," who was secretary of the board last year, had padded his expense accounts."

Mrs. McAuliffe volunteered to throw more light on the investiga- tion and told of various expenses of the board which were never received. She said a crate of tomatoes was de- livered at the school building at one time but she would not receive them as "the school was not a boarding house."

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—The first official act looking toward a cru- sade against vice was taken today by the American federation of Catholic societies, now in session, by the adop- tion of the report of the resolutions committee.

Board of Directors Meet and Congressman is Expected Back Today

The La Crosse Board of Trade, which originated the plan to bring President Taft to La Crosse on his western trip does not take kindly to the plan of Milwaukee state fair au- thorities to have the president devote all the time he spends in Wisconsin as a "big show" at the state fair at the expense of his visit, or any portion thereof, to La Crosse.

At a meeting of the directors yesterday afternoon, a committee consisting of Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, President John Dengler and George W. Burton was appointed to take care of the Taft matter, and this committee will confer with Congressman J. J. Esch who is expected back from Washington today in an effort to have the president spend as much time as possible in La Crosse. Accordingto to the plans as announced Taft would be in La Crosse for about an hour on the afternoon of Sept. 17, but if the plans of the Milwaukeeans are carried out he will spend about all of that day in Milwaukee at the state fair and will fly through La Crosse at night on his way to Winona where he feels it necessary to speak in behalf of Congressman Tawney to bolster up the decreasing constituency of that gentleman in the congressional district, as a result of his various unpopular positions in congress, including his vote in favor of the increased tariff.

A dispatch sent from Milwaukee says the Milwaukee people expect to get Esch to help persuade Taft to give up the whole of Sept. 17th to Milwaukee, but Secretary Utermoehl of the board of trade feels that Mr. Esch would use no such effort to deprive his own district of a visit from the chief executive.

The board of trade originated the plan to bring Taft here and the committee it appointed will act to take charge of the arrangements for his visit and entertainment while here.

GREGGORY IN THE GAME YESTERDAY

Ollie Greggory played his first game with the Outcasts at Superior yesterday, playing second and third base. Doll was put out of the game for disputing the umpire's decisions and Greggory went to third and Kraher played at second. Bancroft received the hitting honors yesterday getting three hits. Following is the box score of the game:

MEN GET 23 CENTS AFTER FIRST YEAR

testimony before this board.

In view of this fact I do not feel that this board would be justified in being bound altogether by the wage scales of other Wisconsin cities.

The street car employees should be men of intelligence and good judgment. They are entrusted with the property of the company and the life and limb of the passengers and of the pedestrians on the street. Besides the actual physical labor entailed these items should be considered.

Another factor which should enter into the wage question is the pay received by other crafts in La Crosse. According to the record (Page 87) it appears that the street railway employees are not receiving in proportion to the labor and skill required, the wages received by other crafts.

I did not think a further investigation of the books necessary as the record shows that the company has paid dividends over and above the permanent improvements and betterments put in during the last several years. Furthermore according to the testimony of Mr. Edwards (Page 163 of the record) he some time ago promised a raise to a portion of the men.

One of the scales introduced into the record by the company is that of Racine, Wisconsin. Wages paid there are: Minimum, nineteen (19) cents an hour; maximum, twenty-four (24) cents an hour.

Superintendent Shaw says (Page 218 of the record) in answer to the question, "Do you consider that there is about he same amount of work in La Crosse as there is on the Racine line?" said, "I think it is about the same."

However I do not think the present financial condition of the La Crosse company would warrant me in fixing th maximum scald at twenty-four cents, the Racine scale. I consider twenty-three as high as the La Crosse company should pay at present. However for reasons hereinafter given I think the sliding scale should be materially reduced.

President Edwards contends that the company is not at the present time making a dividend sufficient so that it can afford to pay more wages. Whether these dividends are based upon the actual cash put into the road or otherwise does not appear to my satisfaction in the record. In order to get at this question it would be necessary to go back into the books from the organization of the road. This the management indicated they thought unnecessary and inasmuch as the inability of the road to pay is an affirmative defense and up to the road to prove the board left the matter with the case introduced as the company wished it. Furthermore I think we should take into consideration in this connection the further statement of Mr. Edwards (Page 163 of the record) "You could have the books but Mr. West couldn't very well testify in regard to it. He keeps the books but I would like to have the books examined by someone who understands them." If the secretary who keeps the books could not understand them I consider it useless for anyone else to attempt to do so.

For the reasons given and upon the whole record I therefore find and adjudge that the wage scale to be in force for a term of one year from June 21st, 1909, be and it is hereby fixed at:

Nineteen (19) cents per hour for the first six (6) months of service.

Twenty (20) cents per hour for the second six (6) months of service.

Twenty-three (23) cents per hour second year and thereafter.

Time and one-half for overtime.

All my findings here are, under agreement, to apply to the conductors and motormen employed on the La Crosse and Onalaska street railway lines and those employed by the La Crosse City Railway company.

Recommendations

While this disposes of the two questions submitted to the board of arbitration for settlement I feel that we would not be doing our duty by the company, the employees or the public did we not discuss other questions of public import which came up from time to time during the taking of testimony by the board.

Sliding Scale Arbitrarily Adopted

On the question of sliding scale it appears from the record (Testimony of Mr. Edwards, Page 171) that the sliding scale was arbitrarily adopted on this road because other roads had adopted it. According to Superintendent Shaw (Page of Record 182), giving his opinion off hand, most of the men quit inside of two or three years. On the Onalaska line (Page of Record 199) there is a flat rate in existence. Both roads are under the same superintendent and I understand under practically the same management. The conditions on one road do not materially differ from conditions on the other.

Superintendent Shaw, an experienced street railroad man, says if the steam roads do not have a sliding scale he does not know of any reason why there should be any difference between steam and electric roads. (Page of Record 192.)

Mr. W. M. Layland, who has acted on the Joint Protective Committee in connection with twenty-two lines of steam railways west of the Mississippi river, says that with the exception of a few roads the new men get the same rate of pay as the older men on the road (Page of Record 334.) That on the few roads paying the "ninety cent dollar" this is done only for from six to nine months after which the men reach the flat scale. (Page of Record 332.)

According to President Edwards (Page 168 of the Record) a sliding scale is based on the experience of the man. But when a man quits or is discharged and returns to work even in a short time, he is put to work at the foot of the scale again and, according to the testimony of the president, the company cannot consider the experience on the question of wages (Testimony of President Edwards Page 169 of Record.) Of the sixty-three men discharged or "resigned" under Superintendent Shaw there were several who had prior to that time been discharged or resigned, and upon resuming work again for the company each had to begin at the foot of the sliding scale. (Pages of Record 341, 342, 343, 344, 353.) Under the sliding scale extra men are compelled to do the same work as the older men at much less pay (Page of Record 348, 352, 353.) The record further shows that five men getting the highest wage, twenty-one cents, "resigned" or were discharged during a space of time of a little over a year under Superintendent Shaw (Page of record 341 et seq.) and that there were only eighteen twenty-one cent men on the road June 1, 1909. (Page of Record 350.) As it is reasonable to suppose that some of the men entered that class during the year previous, the percentage of men who were discharged or "resigned" from the highest wage class must have been at least 33 1-3. Of the remaining forty-five who were discharged or "resigned," a great number were just about to reach a higher wage class. Out of sixty-two men employed June 1, 1909, thirty-three were new men who had not been on the road a year and were being paid the lowest wage. (Page of Record 350)—a large per centage when one considers the age of the road. A very natural desire to keep down the operating expenses by replacing the older and better paid employes with inexperienced men at a smaller wage may explain this condition.

Reviewing the evidence of the working of the sliding scale which I have before me, I am impelled to suggest that it is vicious in that it invites unjust discrimination in the discharging of employes and tends to a disregard by utility companies of that competence and experience in employes which is the basis of efficient public service. In the present decision it was determined to return the sliding scale feature during one year only, making it cover a sort of apprenticeship or period of probation, but it is a serious question whether a policy so dangerous should be tolerated, even for this brief time.

Time Schedule Should be Shortened

The testimony shows (Page of Record 222) that the company has been seriously considering giving relief to its men by cutting out the dead time during which the employees are compelled to hold themselves in readiness, though drawing no pay, between the various periods of work, and also by a reasonable shortening of the platform time. The dead time should be cut out if possible, and a schedule arranged by which the men could have regular meal times and, if practicable, have regular and continuous hours of labor.

To illustrate my point, one run from 6:05 A. M. to 11:35 P. M. has thirteen hours and thirty-five minutes platform time, while the men have to put in seventeen hours and thirty minutes in completing the day's work on account of dead time in the middle of the schedule of the day's work from 12 o'clock noon until 4:20 P. M., a period of 4 hours and 20 minutes which is lost to them, but for which they drew no pay. The schedules of the other runs are on about the same basis.

It is a matter of common knowledge that a long schedule with dead time in it is proportionately much harder than one of not much shorter duration having no dead time. This dead time is detrimental and a hardship to the men and of no value to the company.

The length of the day's work under the present schedule could be improved greatly if the dead time could be cut out and the time be put in by the men as continuous service. For this reason I recommend that the company take up this matter with the end in view of cutting out this dead time in its present schedule as much as practicable.

Toilet Conveniences

The evidence in the case before us shows one condition common to some other street railway lines in the state, but nevertheless wrong. It is the lack of proper toilet conveniences at the ends of the runs. I recommend that the local company remedy these conditions as soon as practicable. The length of the time schedule demands that, as is done in a great many other progresive cities, they furnish these conveniences either by establishing them new or making arrangements for the use of such proper conveniences as are already established property of private individuals and easy of access from the car line.

The testimony in this case reveals to us that provision is made in some cities along these lines and I believe that it is a long step in the right direction.

Public Utilities Should Increase Wages

In connection with the matter of wages of employees of public utility corporations I recommend that the state railroad commission when determining the question of lowering or raising the rates charged the public whether it be for street car fare, electric or gas light or prices of the product of any other public utility corporation, take into consideration first whether the employees are receiving adequate remuneration for their labor.

From my experience and the testimony in this case I believe the employees of the majority of the public utility corporations of Wisconsin today are greatly underpaid in comparison with the wages of other craft. It is admitted in this record by Mr. Shaw, Superintendent of the Street Railway of La Crosse, that the motormen and conductors in Madison are working for the modest amount of 10 cent per hour. These conditions are not calculated to induce men to come to Wisconsin from other states with a view of making it their permanent home. While the wages paid by public service companies have not increased as have the wages of other craft in proportion to the increased cost of living, it is true that in most instances these employes are receiving all they have ever demanded. However this does not justify the condition, for it is due to the fact that the men realize that, being unorganized and in great cases few in number in a given locality, they are not in a position to enforce a demand for better pay and therefore must accept the terms of their employers. Being unorganized they appreciate the fact that to make a demand in many instances means discharge "for the good of the service."

The state of Wisconsin should enlarge the public utilities commission so that a tribunal would be furnished to which labor could appeal for the adjustment of such questions as the wage question, an economic problem which we have always with us, and dispute over which is frequently attended by loss and violence which might be obviated by the establishment of a legal method of adjudication.

Act of Governor Highly Commendable

During the recent lockout, a request was made upon the Governor to send the state troops to this city to maintain law and order, but the chief executive of the state did not deem it wise to comply with the request until he could be more fully advised that the county of La Crosse had exhausted all of its resources in that direction. It is due to his wisdom that the state troops were not sent to La Crosse, and subsequent events have fully justified his position.

Flagrant Violation of Law

In answer to the request of the men for more wages the company gave as its opinion that it could not afford to pay more. In reply the question arose whether the cutting out of the unnecessary free passes, those not furnished actual employees, would not raise the revenue of the company. In the investigation of this question some very interesting testimony was unexpectedly brought out.

The evidence showed that the same police department that called in all the city and county officials and deputized them as police officers to uphold the law, had itself been systematically and flagrantly violating the state law by accepting free passes on the lines of the La Crosse City Railway company (See testimony of Mr. Shaw, superintendent of the La Crosse City Railway, Page 204 of the record and other testimony.) Further than that the testimony of John Harrier, assistant superintendent (page of record 325 and 326) tends to show that he, under the instructions of the superintendent, instead of issuing a written bulletin as is the customary method of issuing orders, told the conductors by word of mouth to allow all officers to ride free. He further stas (Same pages of record) that this order was issued verbally because of the fact that it was a violation of law. During this time that the policemen were riding free the police department was buying tickets. (Page of record 324). According to the testimony the policemen rode free from about May 1908 until about May 1909. Frank Yolton, police sargeant, testified (Page of record 197) that the police department bought tickets in $5, $10 and $20 lots, a fact that, in conjunction with the circumstance that they seem to have received ample free passes, invites further inquiry.

This testimony being competent only on the question of how many free passes were issued and to what extent the revenues of the company were thus reduced, the board of arbitration did not feel justified in going as fully into the matter as the facts that were brought out would seem to warrant. However, that the police department and car company openly violated the law which the police officers at least were sworn to uphold, is of public concern, and I recommend in this connection that the matter be taken up by the proper authorities for further investigation.

Bad Bookkeeping

Incidentally, I heartily endorse the policy advanced by the state railroad commission for a uniform system of bookkeeping for public utility corporations. That it is needed is shown by the testimony of President Edwards in this case when asked concerning a certain stock transaction, (page of record 163) and when he replied, "The statements will show that. You could have the books but Mr. West (the company secretary) couldn't very well testify in regard to it. He keeps the books, but I would like to have the books examined by someone who understands them."

Conclusion

In arriving at the conclusions herein set forth I have endeavored to weigh the testimony carefully, taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances surrounding each question at issue. I have not been unmindful of the fact that great interests are involved in the controversy before this board, the company and its rights on the one hand, the men and their rights on the other, and the public, although not an active party before this board, deeply interested and vitally affected by the decision to be reached. I have given the matters involved much time and attention, carefully weighing the testimony and arguments and the rights, duties and interests of all parties involved.

HUSTLERS CAN SECURE ALL THE VOTES THEY WANT IN CONTEST

BY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF SCHEDULE WHICH AWARDS 10,000 FOR YEAR'S SUBSCRIP-.... TION; LIBERAL VOTES FOR LESS PERIOD OF TIME

INTERESTED WORKERS THRONG CONTEST DEPARTMENT DAIDY; SUBSCRIPTIONS .. CAN BE LENGTHENED IN CONTESTANT'S FAVOR

It is interesting to note the satisfied expressions on the faces of the contestants who daily throng the offices of the contest department. They are enjoying the pastime of securing votes in the great race and are enthused beyond measure over the prospects of winning one of the $3,500 worth of awards. It is the contest of contests and all who are participating feel the thrill of the merry chase.

Votes are free in this unparallel offer of the Tribune. You may secure them by clipping them from the paper each night and filling out the blank space with the name and district number of your candidate. Mail or bring them into the contest department. Then there is the schedule of votes by which you may, by securing subscriptions, enlarge your votes by leaps and bounds. A one year paid in advance subscription to the Daily Tribune gives you 10,000 votes.

If a subscriber should enter his name for a month's subscription and, before the expiration of the month, decide to increase his subscription to a year, bring in the lengthened subscription with the difference in price between a year's subscription and what had been paid for a month. The full 10,000 votes will b given to you, less what has been received before.

It will be seen in this way that contestants can, by "keeping tab" on their subscribers, ascertain whether or not any of them desire to increase the length of time for their subscriptions. If they do, you benefit to the full extent in the voting, and it is the same as though you had secured the subscription for the long term at first.

Votes brought in before 1 p. m. daily appear in the paper of the day following. District numbers must be placed on the coupons. Call up the contest manager for other information.

To secure the votes issued on subscriptions, money must be paid in advance for The Tribune. Receipt books with which to record subscriptions are given to contestants and are for the asking. This is your race and the manner in which you enter it will have much to do with the final result. Sept. 11 at 10 p. m. sees the contest closed. The game is but started. Do the work today that will insure success for tomorrow. The phone in the contest department is number 323.

Standings Published Daily

The standings of the contestants will be changed from day to day as to the number of votes they receive. The ballot box will close each day at noon for the standing to be printed in the next day's paper. Votes appearing today represent standings of the candidates at noon yesterday.

Open Evenings

For the benefit of those who are not able to call at the contest department's office during business hours, this department will be open every evening.

FOUR COURSES OF POISON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 9.—Physicians at the city hospital today are doing their best for David Eichengo, a motoman, who yesterday while brooding over an accident in which a car of which he was motorman was blamed, decided to end his life and applied four methods all at once. He swallowed powdered glass and match heads and took four ounces of liquid shoe polish and then for desert turned on the gas. He was still in a critical condition today.

MONKEY CALLS OUT MESSENGER SERVICE

Pet Animal Wanders Into a Vacant Store and Has the Messengers Hopping

Because a monkey "monkeyed" with a call box operators and messengers at the offices of the North American Telegraph company were caused no little annoyance Saturday afternoon, and the messenger call system was almost put out of business. It was necessary to make a canvass of a whole section of down town call boxes before the "monkeywork" could be found.

Robert Swenson, assistant manager of the office found the cause of the trouble. A pet monkey, belonging to people living up stairs had been tied to a ring in the wall of a vacant building on Jay street, formerly occupied by the Hawley Commission company. When Swenson arrived, jocko was busily pulling the buzzer handle with his ear to the side of the box, and an expression of delight and amusement covered his broad countenance. At the office a confused jumble of dots and dashes was coming in on the tape, with occasional long flashes where his monkeyship took a swing on the hook. The box has now been removed.

BADLY BEATEN, THEN ARRESTED

First run over by a bicycle, then assaulted and beaten until his face this morning was badly swollen and two beautiful black eyes adorned his countenance, was the eventful experience of Gotlieb Goll yesterday.

Goll was standing on the sidewalk in front of a saloon on South Second street yesterday afternoon, when a boy riding a wheel collided with him and knocked him off his feet. He remonstrated with the boy and pushed him from the walk. The boy went home and told his father, and then F. K. Luedke came out and took the matter up with the result that there was a fight in which Goll got badly punished.

This morning a sheriff's officer appeared at the Goll home and the victim was haled into county court on an assault and battery charge preferred by Luedtke. The man pleaded not guilty and will be given an opportunity to be heard this afternoon. In the meanwhile papers are being prepared for the arrest of the other party to the fracas.

CURED HAY FEVER AND SUMMER COLD

A. S. Naushaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed only to aggravate it. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar. It quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." O. T. Erhart.

TRACKING DOWN THE CHILD STEALERS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—The vigilance committee, an organization consisting of prominent politicians banded together to prevent outlawry by Italians, today began a search of the Italian colony here with the hope of finding the two Viviano children, kidnaped last Monday in St. Louis. Italian detectives have reached the conclusion that Callogero Giandusas, an Italian, alleged to have been the leader of the gang which kidnaped the six-year-old son of Peter Lamanas, and Peter Turissi, alleged leader of the Viviano kidnapers, are one and the same. Judge Paterna, of the vigilance committee, who gave the police assistance in running down and arresting eight members of the gang of blackhanders in the Lamanas case furnished the police with information today which has started a search for Turissi Ginadusas. After the murder of the Lamanas, Giandusas escaped and a large reward is still upon his head. The activity of the police was further stimulated by the statement of several Americans who claim to have seen a strange Italian with two little children in the Italian quarter within the past few days.

CLOTHING TEAM WORSTS NOXALLS

The La Crosse Noxalls were defeated Sunday afternoon by a score of 6 to 0. Only once did a Noxall player reach third base. Peterson for the La Crosse Clothing company was invincible while Nonstad for the Noxalls was touched up for eleven hits. Twelve Noxalls went down on strike-outs while only four were made by Nesham and Exel, two Noxall outfielders. The Clothing company is now ready for the Athletes at any time, which game will decide who are the city champions for 1909.

Out of nine games played this season, the La Crosse Clothing company team has won 7, lost 1, and tied one, giving them a percentage of .875.

Score by innings:

FLOOD AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 9.—No lives were lost in the flood which swept the country west of Denver Sunday doing damage estimated at $150,000. A large number of persons were reported missing last night but all weer found today. Several children who were missing were found in the crowds of sightseers watching the rushing of aters.

Early today the residents of the stricken districts got another fright when the waters rose five feet adding to the damage already done.

GOVERNOR'S GUARDS DECIDE ON PICNIC

The annual outing of the La Crosse Governor's Guard association will be held at Liede's park on the La Crosse and Southeastern railroad, Sunday, August 22. The Third Regiment military band, of Viroqua has been asked to join the guardsmen in this outing and excursions will be run from Viroqua over the Southeastern road.

Committee have been appointed to make arrangements. All of the German societies of the city as well as the local military companies have been invited to participate, and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

For indigestion and all stomach trouble take Foley's Orino Laxitive as it stimulates the stomach and liver and regulates the bowels and will positively cure habitual constipation. O. T. Erhart.

BURDETTE GETTING BETER

REDONDO, Cal., Aug. 9.—Rev. Robert J. Burdette, the famous preacher-humorists, whose life has been despaired of recently, is reported to be greatly improved today. His complete recovery is now possible.

When a bookkeeper falls head over heels in love, he has, like other fellows, a hard time getting his balance.

Do you know what Woodbury's Combination Hair and Scalp Treatment really is? Do you know why it saves the hair when all other preparations fail?

Woodbury's combination Hair and Scalp Treatment is the result of actual experience—not mere theory. The experience of the Woodbury specialists has PROVED that the right combination must have—a germicide and curative—a cleanser and stimulant—a prophylactic and beautifier.

The famous Woodbury combination supplies all three.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CREAM
The Germicide and Curative
It destroys germ life. It restores perfect health to the hair glands and purifies the hair follicle. It cures scaly tetter, eczema, salt rheum and all those deseases which cause dry or greasy dandruff and itching of the scalp.

WOODBURY'S Combination SCALP CLEANER
The Cleanser and Stimulant
It dissolves and removes greasy dandruff and all traces of other diseases from the scalp. It invigorates the scalp and keeps the hair clean and healthy. It revives the circulation throughout the scalp and makes it tingle with new life.

WOODBURY'S Combination HAIR TONIC
The Prophylactic and Beautifier
It protects the hair against germ infection. It feeds the hair roots. It restores the lustre to the hair from root to ends and preserves its natural color. It prevents dandruff and makes the hair fluffy and beautiful.

What Mrs. John F. Howson, 498 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y. says about The Woodbury Treatment for the Hair and Scalp.

I have used about all the remedies for falling hair that one might have recommended to them during their natural life. I spent a lot of money for hair invigorators and restoratives, and got absolutely no favorable results until I started the treatment you so kindly recommended to me. My hair stopped falling out just as soon as I used the Woodbury's Scalp Cream in conjunction with the Scalp Cleaner. Its action was just like magic. The thick greasy dandruff is all gone. My hair is growing nicely and taking on a new growth. Your Hair Tonic I use night and morning, and it is the nicest hair dressing I have ever used. Thanking you for the letters of advice, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. JOHN F. HOWSON

THE ANTI-FREE RAW MATERIAL FACTION

Congressman W. Audrey Thomas of Ohio at Top; Congressman H. Olin Young of Michigan, Below.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—As the forces line up for the final fight on the tariff question, after it has been reported out of the conference committee, the insurgents will be well organized under the direction of Young of Michigan, Hubbard of Iowa, Thomas of Ohio and Langley of Kentucky.

By the insurgents are no longer meant those fighting the cause of downward revision, as they were when the house first considered the tariff, but rather are they fighting for protection on raw materials. This change has taken place because the sentiment of the majority has followed the lead of the president in demanding free raw materials. Now the insurgents are those who wish protection for raw material and are organized under the head of "anti-free-raw-material faction."

BODY OF JULIUS SWENNES COMING

SPARTA COUPLE WED IN JEWISH FASHION

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—With all the pomp and ceremonies of a Hebrew wedding the first Jewish wedding ever solemnized in this city took place in Assembly hall Sunday afternoon at 6 o'clock at which time Miss Hulda Levin of Sparta and Mr. Samuel Gross of Black River Falls were made man and wife by Rabbi Bernstein of Milwaukee who chanted the Jewish rites of the ceremony.

Dancing was the first part of the jollification program and was started about 5 o'clock and indulged in for an hour previous to the real marriage ceremony which was performed in the center of the hall beneath a hoopy (canopy) under which the rabbi, bride and groom and the near relatives stood during the marriage ceremonies.

The hoopy-ga-deshen (ceremony) was started with the chanting of the Rabbi followed by the glass heahage, (prayer). The rabbi then gave the bride and groom wine to drink and broke the glass beneath his feet after both had partaken. The zula (wedding certificate) was repeated in Jewish by Rabbi Bernstein and afterward translated in the English language by L. B. Orenberg of La Crosse. Bozel-tuff (congratulations) were then in order and the many friends of the couple showered them with kisses and congratulatory blessings.

The bride's gown was of white embroidered mull, princess style, trimmed with val lace and white satin ribbon. She wore the conventional bridal veil with a wreath of orange blossoms and carried sweet peas.

It is the Jewish custom to burn candles during the ceremony and each of the guests was given a candle which was lighted at the time the wedding vows were taken. This adds solemnity to the ceremony. Some 200 candles were burning at the time. Another Jewish custom which is the opposite from American custom is the wearing of hats by the male guests.

A wedding march in which every guest joined, followed, the guests ending the march at the supper tables where the wedding banquet was served. The menu consisted of gifilthy (chipped fish balls boiled) herring, ookerties (pickles, boat (bread), kaze (cheese), olives, bygal (doughnuts), lacoch (cake), trinking, (drinks, pop, lemonade, beer, etc.).

After the repast dancing was again resumed and lasted until the early hours of the morning. Gustard's orchestra furnished the music and Gilmore Gustad rendered some fine xylophone selections during the evening.

Many telegrams of congratulation were received by Mr. and Mrs. Gross as well as hundreds of beautiful and costly wedding presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Gross will reside in Black River Falls, where Mr. Gross has business interests.

Miss Bessie Merenberg of Denver san the old Jewish love song, "Under the Matzos Tree" after the wedding supper was finished.

As is the custom following the Jewish wedding ceremonies, a great many present assembled in the banquet room where the rabbies present were seated and received blessing from them, for which a small tip is proffered.

OMAHA MAYOR DENOUNCED

OMAHA, Neb., Aug 10.—Demanding the removal of Mayor Dahlman and four members of the Omaha fire and police board, the anti-saloon league today prepared a complaint to be presented to Gov. Schallenberger The anti-saloon officials allege that the municipal officers are derelict in their duty of enforcing the "daylight" saloon law.

Commissioners named in the complaint are C. J. Karback, W. F. Wappith, W. J. Hunter and Fred Hoye.

$100,000,000 SPENT YEARLY IN VACATIONS

CHICAKO, Aug. 10.—Now the cost of summer vacations has been computed, compiled and totaled—at $525,000 for Chicago and a grand total for the United States of $100,000,000 of which sum the beneficiaries are legion and largely rural. Greater efficiency is the reason given for these vacation expenses, a business investment. According to a schedule compiled, vacation expenses average $151.79 of which business houses pay a share. The west is catching up with the east in this regard but Uncle Sam, as result of custom, stands the heaviest expense for the junketing of employés, the total being six million dollars each year, according to the figures of an official in the treasury department. Uncle Sam's employes are by custom entitled to thirty days' vacation during the year and an extra thirty days' sick leave, receiving full pay for the sixty days of idleness. Fully seventy-five per cent of the number contrive to get their full time on "sick leave." No government employe was ever known to suffer from overwork, and it is questionable if they need vacations for recuperative purposes. Other investigations that have recently been made indicate that there are many superfluous persons in the employ of the government, about three men being paid to do the work that could be handled by two with ease, so that if true economy were practiced in all government departments, that deficit in the treasury that is so much talked of would soon be eliminated. The piece hands who take vacations lose the wages they might have earned during that time while salaried men in many cases receive full pay during their idleness. Savings and surplusses are hit harder by the summer outing than any other item, it being now-a-days a conspicuous factor in the spending of the $1,455,019,473 which industries in the United States annually disburse. The average national daily wage is $1.32, and average daily salary is $3.00. There is distributed among 519,751 salaried persons, and among 5,470,321 wage earners a total of $3,186,301,763.

No matter how long you have suffered, Foley's Kidney Remedy will help you. Mrs. S. L. Bowen, of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." It will cure you. O. T. Erhart.

TAFT TRYING TO SAVE MR. TAWNEY

It develops that the reason Mr. Taft will spend an evening in Winona and only an hour in La Crosse is that Congressman Tawney's skin is in danger at the next election, owing to his record, and his recent vote on the tariff bill, and the president seeks to bolster up his game with the people of his district. Although Congressman Esch of this city voted the same way, President Taft does not consider that any opposition has developed to Mr. Esch and that the latter consequently does not need any help just now. Tawney's opponents put up a hot fight against him before and they publicly declare they will get his scalp next time, with the added ammunition of his record in the past congress.

"I've known folks who never really growed up," said Mrs. Pastus, "and while I wouldn't be in their boots, I sort o' envy them."

Biliousness

"I have used your valuable Cascarets and I find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them to everyone. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family."—Edward A. Marx, Albany, N.Y.

CANAL FINANCED BY BELMONT

August Belmont turning the first sod in the Cape Cod canal and map showing the location of this canal.

BOURNEDALE, Mass., Aug. 5.—Last week August Belmont, with fitting ceremonies and surrounded by a group of friends and well-wishers, turned the first sod in the first great American canal financed by an individual. Those present included the men who, with Belmont, are interested in the canal and the New York engineers who will have the construction.

The canal was started on the old Perry estate here and the spade used by Mr. Belmont was of silver. The canal is to cost about $5,000,000, and when completed will form a part of the great Atlantic coast system of inside waterways from Massachusetts to the gulf. This canal will save not only much time in going from New York to Boston, but will prevent many wrecks on the reefs around Cape Cod.

CHILD PARALYSIS IS A GERM DISEASE

Information Is As Yet Too Undecided to Permit of Diagnosis and Treatment

La Crosse physicians are puzzled with the new Anterior Polio-myelitis, or child paralysis which caused the death of little Elise Johnson of Indian Hill, and has raged as an epidemic in some of the cities of the northwest. It is believed to be a germ disease, but no specific has yet been found owing to the fact the physicians know little about the trouble. One physician discussing it said:

"It acts queerly, paralyzing the spine, and attacks children from two to eight years of age.

"Its effects are severe, though the percentage of deaths is not large. It leaves the child usually in a paralyzed state, for which medical science has thus far been unable to discover a cure. We can hardly say there is a direct cure, though the disease is best treated by nerve specialists.

"Study has shown that the disease may be slightly contagious. The state takes no chances and regulations are to isolate the case and disinfect to some extent. In case of death, a private funeral must be held under the law.

Affects Spinal Cord

"Infantile paralysis is a disease of early life, affecting certain parts of the spinal cord or legs. It usually begins with what the parents think is stomach trouble. A day or two of fever, with lack of appetite, deranged bowels, nausea and general pains, is usually followed by a complete paralysis of the legs or a leg and an arm. The paralysis is usually complete by the time it is discovered, and it comes rather suddenly, being discovered usually when the mother tries to get the child up in the morning.

"It is very rarely fatal. The fever ends when the paralysis begins. Improvement usually takes place in the paralyzed limbs, motion being regained up to a certain point, beyond which recovery of motion is not to be expected.

Is Germ Disease

"It is a germ disease. The nature of the germ is unknown. It is thought by some to be contagious and by others to be infectious. Epidemics of large proportions have been known. In Eau Claire and western Wisconsin last year several hundred cases occurred. In Vermont a few years ago a large number of children were afflicted, and it was noticed that hens were also subject to the disease. It is supposed to be due to a germ which spreads through dust, dirt and earth.

"Nothing definite being known of the nature of the germ, it is hard to say how best to prevent the disease. General cleanliness of children, simple diet, the avoidance of uncooked fruit and vegetables, and keeping children from playing in the dirt are advised. Sanitary surroundings tend to give immunity. In many places the cellars of houses in which the disease occurs are damp and unsanitary. Contact with children having the disease should be avoided."

457 FISHERMEN ARE DROWNED IN SQUALL

TOKIO, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Kobe today says that a coral fishing fleet was caught in a squall off Kobe and 457 of the fishermen drowned.

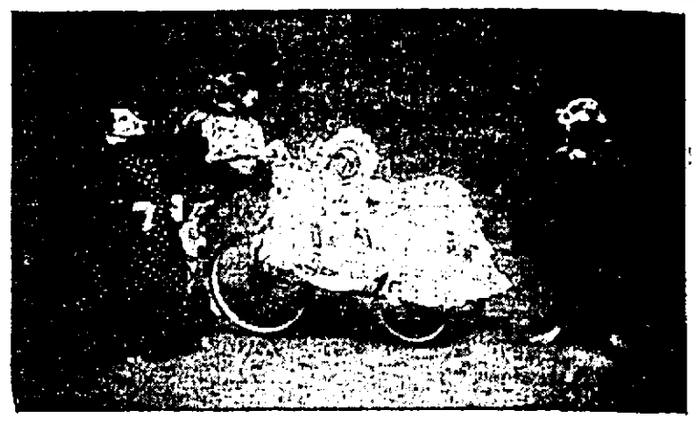

Teething children have more or less diarrhoea, which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure.

CANADIAN FREIGHT HANDLERS STRIKE

FT. WILLIAM, Ont., Aug. 10.—Without having made formal demands upon the company, nearly a thousand freight handlers in the sheds of the Canadian Pacific walked out at noon yesterday and freight movement in Fort William is at a standstill.

Package freight boats are affected even more than is the railroad for, until at least 200 men can be obtained most of the freight from eastern points will be shipped by rail.

The men deman dhigher wages.
